Makes Proposal At Geneva

U.S. Urges Study To Rid World Of Nuclear Arms

GENEVA (AP) — The United States today called on the 17-nation disarmament conference to tackle immediately the problem of ridding the world of nuclear weapons.

U.S. Ambassador Arthur H. Dean suggested the conference set up a group of experts to study the problem of demolishing all stockpiles of mass destruction weapons.

"It is not too soon to begin this study," he said. "Indeed, we cannot conclude a treaty providing for unconditional elimination of nuclear weapons until this study has been completed."

Dean and Soviet Delegate Valerian A. Zorin clashed again on the problem of suspending nuclear weapons tests.

Zorin charged that the West, in insisting on control posts in Soviet territory, was seeking to obtain information on Soviet military targets. He reiterated that such international enforcement arrangements will never be allowed by the Soviet Union.

Dean said the Soviet nuclear tests last autumn had taken the world by surprise and must have been prepared well in advance.

This is one of the reasons, he said, why the United States is not prepared to take any Soviet test ban pledges on trust and insists on international control provisions.

The United States, Dean said, would not be caught twice.

And he asserted that the control system envisaged by the West contained enough safeguards to rule out any risk of espionage.

Unless control is accepted by the Soviet Union, Dean said, it is useless to discuss a treaty—"It would be like removing the engine out of a car and then discussing what color we should paint the useless body."

Abrams Defeats Collins In Chester Mayor Race

2 Of GOP Councilmen Also Losers

Kology, Ash Win Democrat Contests For June Election

Harry Abrams, former Chester mayor and onetime newsstand operator, won the Republican nomination for mayor in Chester's primary Tuesday which saw two GOP councilmen defeated in bids for re-election, according to complete but unofficial returns.

Abrams, 68, of Indiana Ave. defeated incumbent Mayor Ray Collins and two other GOP candidates — Herman Gower and Harold Dickey. The vote was:

Abrams	325
Collins	303
Gower	98
Dickey	75

Abrams, who served as mayor in 1940-44, will face John S. Duffy of Leander Dr., another ex-mayor who was unopposed on the Democrat slate, in the city's general election June 5. Duffy received 246 token votes.

Duffy, who retired last year after working as a pottery modeler and designer for 40 years, was elected mayor in 1938, defeating Lawrence Cline. Duffy in turn was defeated by Abrams in 1940.

Elsewhere in the Republican balloting, Second Ward Councilman Cyril Govey was edged for re-nomination by Carl Graham of Indiana Ave., and Harry Davis, who resigned his Fourth Ward Council seat last month but sought re-election, was defeated by Wayne Hutton of Louisiana Ave.

The Second Ward vote was:

Graham	102
Govey	99

In the Fourth Ward, the vote was:

Hutton	133
Davis	90

Donald Hissam, Republican who also resigned his Third Ward post last month but sought re-election, defeated L. W. (Pete) Board. The vote was:

Hissam	89
Board	71

Elmer Kell of Finley Rd., unopposed on the GOP ticket for the First Ward Council nomination, was given 65 token votes, and Percy Willison of Pyramus St., unopposed for the GOP nomination for Fifth Ward councilman, received 97 token votes.

In the only two Democratic contests, incumbent First Ward Councilman Charles Kology won nomination to a fourth term by defeating William Tuttle of Fairview St., and in the Second Ward, Brooks Ash of Indiana Ave., pottery employe, won out over Emery Walker of Carolina Ave., a railroad worker.

The First Ward vote was:

Kology	60
Tuttle	36

The Second Ward vote was:

Ash	42
Walker	31

Unopposed Democratic candidates were Frank DeCapio in the Third Ward, Elmer Robinson in the Fourth Ward and Don Chaney in the Fifth Ward.

Revolt Ends As Syria Aims At Arab Unity

May Mean Renewed Link With Nasser; Travel Ban Relaxed

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—The high command announced today that, with the revolt ended in northern Syria, one of its aims now is to bring about comprehensive Arab unity. This may mean some sort of renewed link with President Gamal Abdel Nasser's United Arab Republic.

A ban on travel between cities was relaxed.

"The crisis has ended," said a high command statement broadcast by Radio Damascus.

"Everybody is leaving it to the high command to take the necessary measures to put the country on the right path for the future and to bring about comprehensive Arab unity on a true basis."

That could mean a renewal of ties with the United Arab Republic, though certainly not in the tight union that was broken by a Syrian army revolt last Sept. 28. Some form of federation may be in the offing.

The military leaders in Damascus sent assurances to the troops who staged a 48-hour uprising in Aleppo, a northern Syrian commercial city in which admiration for Nasser is strong. They said the rebels' demand for a link with the U.A.R. will be realized.

However, the two strongest men of the ruling military junta are anti-Nasser. They are Maj. Gen. Abdel Kerim Zahreddin, the army's commander in chief; and Col. Muwaffak Assassa. Both backed the Sept. 28 uprising and, six months later, the bloodless coup which ousted President Nazem el Koudsi's right-wing government.

The half-million people of Aleppo were kept under curfew except from 8 a.m. to 11 a.m. and were ordered to surrender all arms.

Hundreds of pictures of Nasser had been displayed there during the abortive uprising. They were placed in windows and even on armored cars of the dissident troops.

The Central Army Command announced over Damascus radio that troops and officers in the northern city of Aleppo had proclaimed their loyalty to the Damascus regime and returned to barracks "without any clash or fighting."

(Despite the claim that there had been no fighting, truck drivers who managed to cross over into Lebanon said they heard heavy gunfire coming from the vicinity of Aleppo around noon Tuesday.

The high command gave the Aleppo officers "guarantees to execute the resolutions of the Homs conference." At that meeting Sunday at Homs, midway between Damascus and Aleppo, the pro-U.A.R. officers from Aleppo demanded restoration of ties with President Gamal Abdel Nasser's government broken by the army command's revolt last Sept. 28.

The rebels also demandde exiling of junta officers influential in both the September revolt and the March 28 coup which toppled President Nazem el Koudsi's conservative regime.

Seven exiled junta officers arrived in Switzerland Tuesday aboard a special Syrian airliner.

Senate Unit To Air White Nomination

Bar Operator Pleads Guilty In 'Slot' Case

The operator of Club Paddock in Hancock County Tuesday again faced a four-month-old charge of possession of gambling equipment that had been dismissed once for lack of evidence by Squire John Bryan of New Cumberland.

Arthur E. Lewis, 43, of Route 30, Chester, had been charged with possession of four slot machines in a raid by West Virginia State Police touched off by two county commissioners Nov. 28.

A hearing on the charge was postponed three times by Squire Bryan and finally dismissed when Commissioners Lyle F. Virden and James Finley failed to appear at the fourth hearing to testify as complaining witnesses.

But Tuesday, Lewis appeared at the New Cumberland squire's office and pleaded guilty to the charge, also signing a waiver that authorizes State Police to destroy the four "one-armed bandits" seized in the raid Nov. 28.

Pros. Atty. Floyd R. Tarr said Lewis apparently had received word of impending action by the April Grand Jury which convenes next Tuesday and settled for a $100 fine rather than face possible indictment.

Squire Bryan fined Lewis $25 for each machine confiscated by State Police in the raid on the tavern on Route 30 near the Pennsylvania state line.

State Police arrested Lewis on the charge in executing a warrant obtained by Commissioners Virden and Finley.

But both failed to appear for a hearing Dec. 19 at 3:30 to press their complaints of illegal activities in the tavern, although Virden showed up at 5:15, some 15 minutes after the charge had been dismissed for lack of evidence.

$3,500 Blaze Strikes Home

Short Circuit Cited In Hillcrest Fire

Fire caused approximately $3,500 damage to a small cement block home in Hillcrest, Wellsville, Tuesday night at 10:45.

The blaze at the home of Pete Gardner, 1024 Crawford Rd., was caused by a short circuit in the electrical wiring, firemen said.

Firemen said the fire had been burning for some time when they arrived. The heat built up inside, causing the windows to burst out.

Heat damage resulted to the contents of the four-room home, the wallboard, woodwork and all the floors. Chief Robert Lewis set the loss at $2,000 to the contents and $1,500 to the home. The loss was insured.

The blaze started in a partition behind a refrigerator in the kitchen, then burned through the wall and into a bedroom.

The family had been absent and discovered the blaze when returning home. Gardner notified the department.

Grand Jury On Time, Report Due Thursday

LISBON — The Columbiana County Grand Jury is on schedule and if it completes today's 13 cases with 21 witnesses, it will report late Thursday afternoon, according to Prosecutor G. William Brokaw.

Cases scheduled tomorrow include those of armed robberies against James R. Booher, three for traffic manslaughter and one investigation, with a total of 22 witnesses slated, Brokaw said.

3 Members Of Wellsville Family Hurt

Trio Injured When Truck Rams Car In Lisbon Area Mishap

Three members of a Wellsville area family were injured in a car-truck mishap south of Lisbon Tuesday afternoon, a Minerva area girl was hit by a car and a semi - trailer truck smashed against a Route 30 bridge south of West Point in three of four district mishaps yesterday and today.

The Ohio Highway Patrol at Lisbon reported a pickup truck driven by Hobart Shields, 65, of Wellsville R. D. 1 and a car operated by Richard Simballa, 31, of Lisbon R.D. 3 collieded on Roller Coaster Rd. southeast of Lisbon at 2 p. m.

Officers said Simballa drove out of an intersecting road into the path of the pickup truck.

Shields suffered bruises of the left knee, and two passengers—Viola Shields, 57, and Patricia Shields, 17—received bruises of the scalp and knees. They were treated by a Lisbon physician.

Simballa was cited for failure to yield the right-of-way.

Catherine Sue Krizon, 11, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Krizon of Minerva R. D., ran into the path of a car operated by Ray Miller, 31, of Minerva on Route 30 about a mile east of the Stark County line at 7:30 p. m. She was treated by a physician for a cut of the leg and bruises of the head.

A semi - trailer truck driven by Albert L. Beachy, 27, of Hartville left the roadway of Route 30 headed southeast from West Point, and hit the side of the concrete bridge, causing heavy damage to the rig and damaging the span at 5:15 a. m. today. He was cited for reckless operation.

A car operated by Robert W. Reash, 38, of East Palestine R.D. 1 hit the rear of a parked truck on Route 14 a half mile west of Unity last night about 8:30.

Officers said the truck, operated by Fred Hess, 43, of Carnegie, had drifted from a parking place and its rear was on the roadway when struck by Reash's car.

7 Astronauts Not Going To Accept Homes

WASHINGTON (AP) — America's seven astronauts have had their minds made up for them: they are not going to accept $24,000 homes plus furnishings offered by the great heart of Texas.

Under gentle tutelage from higher-ups Tuesday it might be misunderstood if they accepted the spanking new houses from the Houston Home Builders Association.

None of the spacemen was present when the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced at a news conference that the astronauts were regretfully declining the offer.

But Lt. Col. John A. (Shorty) Powers, the "voice of the astronauts," was there, as was C. Leo DeOrsey, business adviser for the spacemen.

It was DeOrsey who had decided it was perfectly ethical for the spacemen to accept the houses in Houston, which is soon to be the home of a new $90-million manned space slight center.

Then the White House, the Pentagon and NASA began to have qualms, especially after the situation was highly publicized.

Another Round Slated In Lisbon Firm's Case

LISBON — Another effort by the Lisbon Salesbook Co. to block a state appeal on dismissal of anti - gambling law indictments has been made by the firm's attorney.

Atty. William Moore has filed briefs in the case with the 7th District Court of Appeals, which last month overruled his motion to have the appeal by Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy dismissed.

Judge Joel H. Sharp in December threw out indictments against the firm for illegally printing numbers slips, under a new state law.

Lack Of Fund Bill May Stall Aid Payments

Auditor Sees Need Of Special Session To Avoid Holdup

The city will be unable to issue about $3,000 in cash relief checks due Tuesday for 50 clients unless Council enacts the annual appropriation ordinance in the meantime, Auditor Lawrence C. Applegate said today.

Since the temporary appropriation ordinance ran out last Saturday and the fiscal measure for the full year has been given only two of the required three readings, the city is without authority to issue the checks, Applegate pointed out.

Council's next regular session falls on April 16, so a special meeting would be required if the checks are to be issued on time, he added.

The ordinance was given first reading, 5-1, at a special meeting March 28. It advanced through second reading Monday night, 5-2. Six affirmative votes are required for immediate enactment of the legislation, as it carries an emergency clause.

Councilman Frank Duffy opposed passage of the legislation on first reading. At the meeting Monday night, he was joined in opposition by Councilman Floyd Murray. They urged certain economies, particularly elimination of several jobs.

Applegate said he called the problem to Mayor Bert H. Goodballet's attention late Tuesday afternoon, as the mayor has the right to call a special Council meeting.

Applegate said he also has notified as many councilmen as possible by telephone, explaining his inability to issue the checks unless the ordinance is passed. He said he managed to reach Councilmen Murray, S. James Welch

Kennedy, Macmillan To Be Dinner Guests

WASHINGTON (AP) — British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan and President Kennedy will be guests at a dinner to be given April 27 by the White House Correspondents Association and the White House News Photographers Association.

Macmillan is coming to this country to address the American Newspaper Publishers Association in New York April 26. He is expected to confer with Kennedy here April 28.

Reno Hotel Destroyed

21 Are Missing In Nevada Blaze

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Fallen floors and inner walls and charred gambling equipment formed a blackened mass for searchers to probe today after a 10-hour hotel fire in the downtown casino district. The death toll couldn't be determined until wrecking crews topple dangerously weakened walls later in the day.

Authorities said an unidentified middle-aged woman had perished in the blaze which destroyed the historic and newly remodeled New Golden Hotel.

Twenty-one persons still were unaccounted for today. The search for bodies continued, but battalion fire chief Sam Saibini said it probably would be midday before an intensive search could begin. The wreckage inside the building has to be cleared out first, he said.

"It doesn't take much smoke to kill, and there's a hell of a lot of it in that building," a fire chief said, fearing some of the guests had been trapped in the four-story building. Seventeen persons were injured.

As soon as the fire was out, business resumed its usual hectic pace at gambling palaces just across an alley from the hotel. Some neighboring buildings were damaged in the area on Center Street, just off Virginia Street and separated from the largest casinos by Douglas Alley.

The fire broke out Tuesday morning, apparently from an exploding basement boiler or acetylene tank.

Patrons at nearby Harold's Club fled the smoke as owner Harold Smith Jr. fiddled to prevent panic.

Most guests raced down fire escapes or were led down ladders by firemen. A big cement bucket on a crane felled the hotel's false front, creating an escape route for others.

A Hollywood chorus girl, Carol Maye, 20, apparently did not escape from a fourth-floor window where she stood screaming.

Police theorized that most of the guests unaccounted for had left town without leaving word. For awhile 70 guests were unreported, but by late Tuesday night 31 had been located or had called in.

New Golden officials could come no closer to a damage estimate than "millions." The hotel was remodeled for $250,000 six years ago and in 1960 began staging Las Vegas-style bare-bosom chorus girl productions.

Mr. Niblock was born here Nov. 1, 1904, to Mrs. Lillian McBane Niblock of Cadmus St., and the late William Niblock. He began his printing career in 1922 with the Morning Tribune, which later became the Review-Tribune and then The Review.

Council Acts On Vacations At Wellsville

Veteran Firemen, Policemen Will Get Period Of 3 Weeks

The first step in a proposal to grant three weeks vacation to members of the police and fire departments with 12 or more years service was taken by Wellsville City Council Tuesday night when it ordered legislation providing that part of a patrolman's salary be taken from the parking meter fund.

Police Chief John B. Hephner and Fire Chief Robert Lewis in a joint letter requested the three-week vacation for the older members of their departments.

They cited the protection offered residents of the city and commented a vacation adjustment is needed.

Three members of the police department and two firemen would be eligible for the extended period.

Councilman William Stroble commented the extra time will cost approximately $340.

Solicitor William Bush explained that it would be proper to use money from the meter fund to pay a portion or all of a patrolman's salary since an officer is used to check for meter violations.

This would leave additional money in the general fund to be used to make the vacation adjustment.

The legislation was then ordered after brief comment from Council members.

Councilman Robert Taggart commented he was opposed to the move, pointing to the mayor's report for March which showed a total of $554.80 collected in fines and fees.

He said this is a "pretty weak" report and that the additional money could be obtained if motorists ignoring no passing signs on Clark Ave. were arrested.

Speaking of the police, Taggart said "I think they're on vacation now."

Councilman Allen Baldwin commented "I don't think that is fair to the police department. It's the mayor who is on vacation—look at the small fines handed out to traffic violators."

Revolt Ends As Syria Aims At Arab Unity

May Mean Renewed Link With Nasser; Travel Ban Relaxed

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP)—The high command announced today that, with the revolt ended in northern Syria, one of its aims now is to bring about comprehensive Arab unity. This may mean some sort of renewed link with President Gamal Abdel Nasser's United Arab Republic.

A ban on travel between cities was relaxed.

"The crisis has ended," said a high command statement broadcast by Radio Damascus.

At that meeting Sunday at Homs, midway between Damascus and Aleppo, the pro-U.A.R. officers from Aleppo demanded restoration of ties with President Gamal Abdel Nasser's government broken by the army command's revolt last Sept. 28.

The rebels also demandde exiling of junta officers influential in both the September revolt and the March 28 coup which toppled President Nazem el Koudsi's conservative regime.

Seven exiled junta officers arrived in Switzerland Tuesday aboard a special Syrian airliner.

Senate Unit To Air White Nomination

Bar Operator Pleads Guilty In 'Slot' Case

The operator of Club Paddock in Hancock County Tuesday again faced a four-month-old charge of possession of gambling equipment that had been dismissed once for lack of evidence by Squire John Bryan of New Cumberland.

Arthur E. Lewis, 43, of Route 30, Chester, had been charged with possession of four slot machines in a raid by West Virginia State Police touched off by two county commissioners Nov. 28.

A hearing on the charge was postponed three times by Squire Bryan and finally dismissed when Commissioners Lyle F. Virden and James Finley failed to appear at the fourth hearing to testify as complaining witnesses.

But Tuesday, Lewis appeared at the New Cumberland squire's office and pleaded guilty to the charge, also signing a waiver that authorizes State Police to destroy the four "one-armed bandits" seized in the raid Nov. 28.

Pros. Atty. Floyd R. Tarr said Lewis apparently had received word of impending action by the April Grand Jury which convenes next Tuesday and settled for a $100 fine rather than face possible indictment.

Squire Bryan fined Lewis $25 for each machine confiscated by State Police in the raid on the tavern on Route 30 near the Pennsylvania state line.

State Police arrested Lewis on the charge in executing a warrant obtained by Commissioners Virden and Finley.

But both failed to appear for a hearing Dec. 19 at 3:30 to press their complaints of illegal activities in the tavern, although Virden showed up at 5:15, some 15 minutes after the charge had been dismissed for lack of evidence.

$3,500 Blaze Strikes Home

Short Circuit Cited In Hillcrest Fire

Fire caused approximately $3,500 damage to a small cement block home in Hillcrest, Wellsville, Tuesday night at 10:45.

The blaze at the home of Pete Gardner, 1024 Crawford Rd., was caused by a short circuit in the electrical wiring, firemen said.

Firemen said the fire had been burning for some time when they arrived. The heat built up inside, causing the windows to burst out.

Heat damage resulted to the contents of the four-room home, the wallboard, woodwork and all the floors. Chief Robert Lewis set the loss at $2,000 to the contents and $1,500 to the home. The loss was insured.

The blaze started in a partition behind a refrigerator in the kitchen, then burned through the wall and into a bedroom.

The family had been absent and discovered the blaze when returning home. Gardner notified the department.

None of the spacemen was present when the National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced at a news conference that the astronauts were regretfully declining the offer.

But Lt. Col. John A. (Shorty) Powers, the "voice of the astronauts," was there, as was C. Leo DeOrsey, business adviser for the spacemen.

It was DeOrsey who had decided it was perfectly ethical for the spacemen to accept the houses in Houston, which is soon to be the home of a new $90-million manned space slight center.

Then the White House, the Pentagon and NASA began to have qualms, especially after the situation was highly publicized.

Another Round Slated In Lisbon Firm's Case

LISBON — Another effort by the Lisbon Salesbook Co. to block a state appeal on dismissal of anti - gambling law indictments has been made by the firm's attorney.

Atty. William Moore has filed briefs in the case with the 7th District Court of Appeals, which last month overruled his motion to have the appeal by Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy dismissed.

Judge Joel H. Sharp in December threw out indictments against the firm for illegally printing numbers slips, under a new state law.

Lack Of Fund Bill May Stall Aid Payments

Auditor Sees Need Of Special Session To Avoid Holdup

The city will be unable to issue about $3,000 in cash relief checks due Tuesday for 50 clients unless Council enacts the annual appropriation ordinance in the meantime, Auditor Lawrence C. Applegate said today.

Since the temporary appropriation ordinance ran out last Saturday and the fiscal measure for the full year has been given only two of the required three readings, the city is without authority to issue the checks, Applegate pointed out.

Council's next regular session falls on April 16, so a special meeting would be required if the checks are to be issued on time, he added.

The ordinance was given first reading, 5-1, at a special meeting March 28. It advanced through second reading Monday night, 5-2. Six affirmative votes are required for immediate enactment of the legislation, as it carries an emergency clause.

Councilman Frank Duffy opposed passage of the legislation on first reading. At the meeting Monday night, he was joined in opposition by Councilman Floyd Murray. They urged certain economies, particularly elimination of several jobs.

Applegate said he called the problem to Mayor Bert H. Goodballet's attention late Tuesday afternoon, as the mayor has the right to call a special Council meeting.

Applegate said he also has notified as many councilmen as possible by telephone, explaining his inability to issue the checks unless the ordinance is passed. He said he managed to reach Councilmen Murray, S. James Welch

Reno Hotel Destroyed

21 Are Missing In Nevada Blaze

RENO, Nev. (AP) — Fallen floors and inner walls and charred gambling equipment formed a blackened mass for searchers to probe today after a 10-hour hotel fire in the downtown casino district. The death toll couldn't be determined until wrecking crews topple dangerously weakened walls later in the day.

Authorities said an unidentified middle-aged woman had perished in the blaze which destroyed the historic and newly remodeled New Golden Hotel.

Twenty-one persons still were unaccounted for today. The search for bodies continued, but battalion fire chief Sam Saibini said it probably would be midday before an intensive search could begin. The wreckage inside the building has to be cleared out first, he said.

"It doesn't take much smoke to kill, and there's a hell of a lot of it in that building," a fire chief said, fearing some of the guests had been trapped in the four-story building. Seventeen persons were injured.

As soon as the fire was out, business resumed its usual hectic pace at gambling palaces just across an alley from the hotel. Some neighboring buildings were damaged in the area on Center Street, just off Virginia Street and separated from the largest casinos by Douglas Alley.

The fire broke out Tuesday morning, apparently from an exploding basement boiler or acetylene tank.

Patrons at nearby Harold's Club fled the smoke as owner Harold Smith Jr. fiddled to prevent panic.

Most guests raced down fire escapes or were led down ladders by firemen. A big cement bucket on a crane felled the hotel's false front, creating an escape route for others.

A Hollywood chorus girl, Carol Maye, 20, apparently did not escape from a fourth-floor window where she stood screaming.

Police theorized that most of the guests unaccounted for had left town without leaving word. For awhile 70 guests were unreported, but by late Tuesday night 31 had been located or had called in.

New Golden officials could come no closer to a damage estimate than "millions." The hotel was remodeled for $250,000 six years ago and in 1960 began staging Las Vegas-style bare-bosom chorus girl productions.

Council Acts On Vacations At Wellsville

Veteran Firemen, Policemen Will Get Period Of 3 Weeks

The first step in a proposal to grant three weeks vacation to members of the police and fire departments with 12 or more years service was taken by Wellsville City Council Tuesday night when it ordered legislation providing that part of a patrolman's salary be taken from the parking meter fund.

Police Chief John B. Hephner and Fire Chief Robert Lewis in a joint letter requested the three-week vacation for the older members of their departments.

They cited the protection offered residents of the city and commented a vacation adjustment is needed.

Three members of the police department and two firemen would be eligible for the extended period.

Councilman William Stroble commented the extra time will cost approximately $340.

Solicitor William Bush explained that it would be proper to use money from the meter fund to pay a portion or all of a patrolman's salary since an officer is used to check for meter violations.

This would leave additional money in the general fund to be used to make the vacation adjustment.

The legislation was then ordered after brief comment from Council members.

Councilman Robert Taggart commented he was opposed to the move, pointing to the mayor's report for March which showed a total of $554.80 collected in fines and fees.

He said this is a "pretty weak" report and that the additional money could be obtained if motorists ignoring no passing signs on Clark Ave. were arrested.

Speaking of the police, Taggart said "I think they're on vacation now."

Councilman Allen Baldwin commented "I don't think that is fair to the police department. It's the mayor who is on vacation—look at the small fines handed out to traffic violators."

Trustees Pick 2 Constables For St. Clair

Two new St. Clair Township police constables have been appointed by the township trustees — making a total of four officers—and pay boosts have been granted two other officers.

Robert Jones of Glenmoor, employe of a Glenmoor area grocery store, and Richard Wright of Calcutta, Crucible Steel Co. worker, were named police constables at $75 a month by trustees at a meeting Monday night.

Jones, former Glenmoor fire chief, succeeds Harry Skelton of Grimms Bridge, whose resignation the trustees accepted. Wright will make the fourth police constable for the growing township which began utilizing paid officers about two years ago.

Chief Constable John Jackson's salary was increased from $85 a month to $100, and Constable Lester McElhaney of Calcutta was given a $15 pay boost to $90.

In other action, trustees approved the annual appropriation measure calling for $55,362 for 1962, up $7,993 from the $47,369 appropriation last year.

Burton Cables, Then Calls Wife To Reassure Her

LONDON (AP)—Actor Richard Burton cabled his wife today reassuring her that he still loves her despite his headlined kisses with Elizabeth Taylor.

Friends said the cable was in Welsh to keep the message from prying eyes.

It said: "Love to all. Everything fine."

He followed up the cable with a telephone call. The result was that Burton's blonde wife, Sybil, 32, was much happier today, friends said.

Actor-playwright Emlyn Williams, long-time friend of the Burtons and godfather to one of their two children, said he was convinced that everything was fine between Burton and his wife.

Williams emphatically denied reports in two London papers that Mrs. Burton was planning to fly to Rome to join her husband, who has been reported kissing Liz on and off the set of the movie "Cleopatra."

An attorney in New York announced Monday that Miss Taylor and singer Eddie Fisher, her fourth husband, had agreed to part and would seek a divorce.

It Will Take A While

Stories of murder and brutality in Algeria eventually will disappear from the news. But it is a near certainty that murder and brutality will continue to be commonplace there even though the current truce ripens into a permanent peace.

The United States can understand why.

The Irish can understand why.

It has been only in very recent times that violence was called off in Ireland, after decades of fierce and senseless hatred generated originally by Irish revolutionaries.

In the United States the Ku Klux Klan, to which the Secret Army Organization in Algeria bears a striking resemblance, was still engaged in terrorism in the early part of this century. Its name and some of its methods continue to be found in various parts of the United States.

Such things are the long-term consequences of violent hatreds that erupt into terrorism finally carried on for its sake, much like the mountain feuds that lingered on in this country generations after the original quarrels had been forgotten.

There will be no quick settlement of the feuding in Algeria. It will not matter that one day soon the French army will announce it has wiped out the main elements of the Secret Army nor that later on the Moslem government will announce it has complete control of bitter-enders.

Their legatees will be busy for a generation—even longer if they learn to wear spooky costumes and hold "monster conclaves" by moonlight.

Worthwhile Study

The five-man Council committee named to study the possibility of eliminating some jobs from the city payroll as an economy measure has an opportunity to perform a worthwhile service.

An objective approach to the problem certainly can do no harm and whatever findings result could be the basis for a more efficient operation. If "fat" is found on the city payroll, it should be chopped off. If the jobs in question are found to be essential, the scope of each should be re-evaluated.

Economy goes hand in hand with the city income tax. The more unessential operations that can be eliminated the greater the benefits that can be derived from the money realized from the tax.

Not A Theoretical Exercise

It may be assumed that a steel industry settlement in 1962 without even the threat of a strike is not causing a murmur of dissent among members of United Steelworkers. A settlement has been made in advance. Steelworkers are hoping they can stay on the job this year.

This in itself would not be too remarkable if it weren't for the fact the settlement does not promise to increase the take-home pay of workers. There is the usual uncertainty about how much it may cost employers for indirect benefits, but it may not cause any increase in the price of steel, either.

What, then, is the merit of this unusual procedure, aside from the fringe benefits it bestows on workers in the steel industry and aside from the fact it averted the threat of a steel strike?

A CLIPPING from The New York Times may give a better answer indirectly than could be given directly. It was an announcement that two giant ore carriers which Bethlehem Steel had hoped to build in the United States would be built by Schlicker-Werft in Hamburg, Germany, instead.

The reason the work will be done in Germany is because of a 100 per cent difference in the cost of constructing the two ships — $14 million in Germany, $28 million in the United States.

Even so, it is stipulated in the shipbuilding contract that steel plates, other steel parts and propulsion machinery must come from the United States, much of the material from Bethlehem Steel itself. When the vessels are put into service, they will be operated by a Bethlehem subsidiary, to haul ore from Liberia to the United States —much of it again for Bethlehem Steel. Bethlehem could not ever afford to compete against itself.

THIS IS THE KIND of competition the United States is up against. No one has estimated what the two ore carriers would cost if West Germany furnished the steel as well as the shipbuilding service. But even with most of the steel coming from the United States, ships can be built in Hamburg for half what they cost in the United States.

It is not a theoretical exercise when apprehensive Americans talk about foreign competition. It is a matching of competitive factors. U.S. workers and managers are competing for a livelihood in a world that takes Americans seriously when they say competition is the spice of life. It must keep its costs down or lose by default.

The Symbolic Orval Faubus

Whether men shape their times or the times shape men is a question that has been debated endlessly.

The recent decision of Orval Faubus not to seek re-election as governor of Arkansas offers a good example. His announcement was of interest from coast to coast.

Before 1957 people outside of Arkansas couldn't have cared less about who the governor of that state was. But a significant event—the integration of Little Rock schools —propelled the governor of Arkansas into national and international prominence.

Desegregation of schools was not, and is not, an issue peculiar to Little Rock or to Arkansas. It was, and is, an issue important to all men.

How Orval Faubus responded to the crisis which arose over integration, therefore, became important to all Americans. The governor of Arkansas became a symbol of the integration issue. To segregationists he was a hero; to integrationists, a despot.

In his four terms as governor, Orval Faubus must have accomplished far more important results than to become a symbol. But how many persons will remember what they were?

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Newly appointed Supreme Court justice is Byron White, once famed All-American college football player and pro-star. This could speed up court but there is no chance it will number judges and replace black robes with "jerseys." There is little if any opposition to appointment. This is natural since White was always a winner over "interference" and would-be blockers.

Nickname of "Whizzer," which he held in gridiron days, will sound good to public as contrasting with high court slowness. Man in street is confident football star on bench will not be inclined to 5-4 scores in Blackstone Bowl.

White met John Kennedy in London 22 years ago and later in Solomon Island waters in PT exploits. Sportswriters might classify bench appointment as longest forward pass in history.

Supreme Court justice who has quick reflexes, speed and is never likely to stop during a stirring broken-field run to file a dissent will make hit with people.

High court has seemed to have too many kickers and too few ground-gainers.

There have been times when members have appeared to be playing two different games, running in both directions with ball and even reaching goal posts without ball. Fumbling has often been charged.

White is Colorado University, Rhodes Scholar and Yale man. He could be the first man to relieve tense moments in judicial huddles by singing the Whiffenpoof song. He worked way through law school as pro football halfback.

Since those days he has had great career as lawyer and public servant. Football is far behind him, but his appointment gives public the impression the high court may look more like a team, attacking problem without split formations, seldom having trouble locating goal posts and in one group on same team at the final whistle.

THE GARBLE SISTERS are asking about that new movie in which Julius Burton and Antony Fisher are appearing in "Cleotaylor."

High Jinks At The Secret Bases

By Victor Riesel

HUNTSVILLE, Ala.

Here, away from the giant spotlights which have made Col. Glenn's orbits glisten with so much publicity, you find the gentle people, the scientists who "work" in the land of tomorrow known as the Marshall Space Flight Center. They talk of the Nova, the Centaur, the Saturn rockets soon to hurtle toward the Moon, Mars and Venus. You listen. You know that somewhere someone must be actually printing interstellar space time tables.

Victor Riesel

Outside the base you run into the "practical men." They worry about the hundreds of millions needed to mock up the space models. And some of the men are bitter. One especially told me of high-jinx, low jokes, drunkedness and arrogant little dictators on some bases not too far from here where United States money is treated as cavalierly as ice cubes in Reykjavik.

MY INFORMANT is an angry man. There will be a congressional investigation.

If this probe is not stopped it will sweep down on a little known series of installations. Everybody is aware of Florida's east coast sky carnival known as Canaveral. But few know of the equally vital West Coast installations.

There, along what is called the Gulf Test Range, our specialists put the smaller — killer — rockets into flight.

The rockets, to which the Bomarc is typical, are tactical flying bombs. They are air-to-air, air-to-ship, air-to-earth, earth-to-air short range rockets. They are tested along the tracking range by electronics and cameras.

And disclosures of high life on the virtually unknown and highly secret test sites originally comes from a relative of House Speaker John McCormack. The informant has said he plans to pass his exposures of waste and drunkenness on to Senators Margaret Chase Smith, Ben Smith and Leverett Saltonstall. Also to the speaker.

From this informant comes word that at one West Florida coast site an official has frequently returned from lunch as high as one of his test missiles. The official then has proceeded to put on weird hats embellished with miniature beer cans. Also gayly colored feathers. In gay spirits, wearing his hat, he has climbed onto a bicycle.

BUT THIS MAN is a bicylist with a twist. He has ridden it down the main corridor of the central office building. It also was not unusual for him to mount a power lawn mower after one of his long liqued luncheon sessions and ride it like a rodeo bronco buster, or he would roll bowling balls down the hallways.

He had sober moments. He and another chap — also a high official — ran a fish trap on government property. Until Air Force surveillance teams hove into sight, they used government time and government material to haul well over 50 pounds of fish away in company trucks.

One of them got into a vehicle when he was as wet inside as his fish and lost control. It was smashed.

On a drunken junket, an official became ill. He demanded to be taken home immediately. Trouble was he forgot he lived 400 miles distant.

At another test site, one bureaucrat decided he did not like who was talking to whom and who was taking whom home after the Christmas party. So he followed one chap — a skilled technician — and beat him brutally with a blackjack.

ONE ADMINISTRATOR accosted a female employe. She had not taken his advice on a business matter. He told her he had a .45-calibre automatic in his car. He would use it on her, said he, the first chance he got. She went to the police at a famed West Florida coastal community.

There have been a series of incidents which have hurt morale on some to the sites and have cost the government real money. But all this is happening in a very highly classified area.

Even those who specialize in following on-site missile base disputes and activity, know nothing of the secret installations. One or two away up on top say they can't "even discuss" the general type of work there.

Fun is fun. But we are talking here of our most vital inner defense line projects. Somebody should take a good look at the bases — right now.

Small Change

The Bureau of the Mint, in common with many of its customers, can't make money fast enough.

The mint's presses are stamping out coins by the billion, but the big demand for small change creates periodic shortages.

Not a single coin was left in the Denver and Philadelphia mints after the 1961 Christmas shopping season. New York banks ran out of nickels recently.

The penny is perennially in short supply. A Connecticut bank plaintively advertised in a trade journal for any spare pennies that neighboring banks might have. Speculators offered midwestern merchants 100 penines for $1.05.

The mint lists several reasons for the popularity of clinking money. Vending machines are becoming more numerous. Some four million of the devices are now gobbling up coins. Money stays out of circulation longer in the machines than in cash registers.

Parking meters line more and more streets. New shopping centers and banks all over the country require small mountains of change to open for business. The familiar prices of 49 cents, 98 cents and $199.98 make pennies a standard part of most purchases.

Pennies are rushed by the truckload to state enacting sales taxes. New Jersey and Texas temporarily emptied the mint of one-cent pieces by imposing sales taxes at the same time.

Executive Blackmail

By David Lawrence

Kennedy's School Aid Step Questioned

A passion to win the votes of minority groups seeme to have taken precedence in the policies of President Kennedy over the plain requirements of the Constitution. It also seems to have affected Abraham Ribicoff, secretary of health, education and welfare, who is about to enter the race for United States senator in Connecticut.

David Lawrence

Congress has passed a law giving financial aid to schools in what are known as "federally impacted areas," were children of military and other government personnel are educated. The statute doesn't say a word about the desegregation question. Yet the President now has ordered the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to withhold federal funds from the schools in those areas unless they are desegregated.

Members of Congress are calling it "blackmail of the highest order." Newspapers in some of the districts affected are calling it a violation of the Constitution.

Secretary Ribicoff is reported by the Southern School News — an information service on education — as having said two months ago that funds would not be withheld because Congress had not made desegregation a condition for receipt of the money and that, until Congress did so, he would continue to disburse the funds to "segregated as well as desegregated schools alike." About a year ago, Mr. Ribicoff said:

"I think it is a tragedy to put on the back of education the problems of everything, including the problem of civil rights."

But last week a ruling was nevertheless issued by Secretary Ribicoff to withhold funds from areas where the schools are not desegregated within the next year.

The Sarasota, Fla., Herald Tribune, calling attention to these inconsistencies of Mr. Ribicoff and to the effect of the new ruling on certain schools in Florida, says in an editorial:

"Is this upholding the spirit and the letter of the Constitution — a document that establishes a system of checks and balances giving Congress the power to enact laws and ordering the president to 'take care that all laws be faithfully executed'?

"Each time the executive branch of the U.S. government makes an end run around Congress, our system of checks and balances is further eroded and our Constitution weakened, no matter how 'worthy' and 'moral' the cause. This is the implication of Mr. Ribicoff's action.

It is being asserted in Washington that, since legislation on the subject of desegregation can't get through Congress, only the President, acting on his own, can accomplish the change — in other words, that "the end justifies the means."

This is the cry that used to be heard when an impassioned and unreasoning group of citizens lynched an alleged murdered without waiting for a trial. The argument always was: "Why wait for a court order when he's guilty anyhow?"

SCARCELY a month goes by that this argument, in one form or another, isn't being used in Washington with respect to circumventing the Constitution.

The school of thought which is gaining headway here these days is the one that believes an executive ruling can get around the Constitution.

President Kennedy apparently has become a believer in this philosophy. He recently issued an executive order declaring that anyone who sells goods or services to the government — and more than $50 billion of contracts are involved — must agree in advance to conform, in effect, to the government's edict concerning the employment of persons of a certain color.

Does the Constitution really give the power to the chief executive to tell an employer whom he shall hire just because he sells goods or services to the federal government?

No where in the Constitution is anything said on the subject.

The Supreme Court of the United States unfortunately has in certain cases closed the door to judicial appeal by aggrieved citizens. This completes the picture of what may be truly called dictatorial power by the chief executive.

Congress, however, not only can pass a law assuring judicial appeal but also can limit the power of the chief executive to use federal funds as a form of economic blackmail.

CONGRESS, moreover, has the right to appropriate funds in the first place.

What President Kennedy and Secretary Ribicoff really have done is to sound the death knell of federal aid to education for a large number of Democrats will not vote for financial aid to schools and colleges if this is to be used as a means of forcing desegregation and otherwise controlling education by order from Washington.

Also a large number of members of Congress of both parties who are opposed to the use of federal funds in schools and colleges where religion is taught now may be confronted by the fact that, by executive order, such funds can be allocated or withheld at the will of a president.

Court orders are understandable in the desegregation controversy, but to use the executive order as a means of withholding federal funds unless the wishes of the executive are followed is an attempt to secure conformity by coercion.

Through A Meat Grinder

By Truman Twill

They play politics for keeps in Massachusetts, and they outdid themselves a few days ago by airing the record of an 18-year-old freshman of 1951 who left Harvard University by request because he had arranged to have a classmate take an examination in his behalf.

The 1951 freshman was Edward M. Kennedy, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator from Massachusetts. The examination was in Spanish, which had been a tough course for him.

After he left the university, the young man put in a couple years of military service. After that he was admitted to Harvard the second time, did satisfactory work there, went on to law school at the University of Virginia and now is bidding for a chance to join his brothers, John and Robert in Washington.

What's the catch?

It's the fact the airing was done by Mr. Kennedy, himself, responding to a question asked by a "friend." Admitting he had made a mistake, the youngest Kennedy explained the whole affair before his political rivals had a chance to spring it on him. This meant he knew they had the story and were waiting for a chance to hurt him with it.

The young man was baring his soul so he could go before the Democratic voters of Massachusetts with clean hands and a pure heart. Or you could surmise he was baring his soul because the opposition was getting ready to bare it for him.

This sort of thing always has the same effect. It makes voters wonder if it wouldn't be a good thing for all contenders to bare their souls.

For instance, whenever those fellows they call solons in headlines — and nowhere else—put the pressure on a businessman to cleanse himself of his securities so he can serve the public with clean hands and a pure heart, you wonder about the solons.

Where a student passes over the line that divides youthful indiscretion from major character flaw is vague. If Ted Kennedy had tried to cheat at blocks and sandpiles in kindergarten, no harm could have come from it.

He might have tried to cheat in high school — might even have got away with it — and no harm would have resulted. But trying to cheat at Harvard is unforgivable. Why?

Most voters didn't go to Harvard. They plotted their schemes to dodge moments of truth elsewhere. Nothing has challenged the ingenuity of man to produce more cute contraptions for concealing the harsh evidence of ignorance than the examination system.

And you can be sure that people who have gone through the mill will be doubly harsh in judging others for their falls from grace. It's human nature. Young Mr. Kennedy has just been put through a meat-grinder.

It Will Take A While

Stories of murder and brutality in Algeria eventually will disappear from the news. But it is a near certainty that murder and brutality will continue to be commonplace there even though the current truce ripens into a permanent peace.

The United States can understand why.

The Irish can understand why.

It has been only in very recent times that violence was called off in Ireland, after decades of fierce and senseless hatred generated originally by Irish revolutionaries.

In the United States the Ku Klux Klan, to which the Secret Army Organization in Algeria bears a striking resemblance, was still engaged in terrorism in the early part of this century. Its name and some of its methods continue to be found in various parts of the United States.

Such things are the long-term consequences of violent hatreds that erupt into terrorism finally carried on for its sake, much like the mountain feuds that lingered on in this country generations after the original quarrels had been forgotten.

There will be no quick settlement of the feuding in Algeria. It will not matter that one day soon the French army will announce it has wiped out the main elements of the Secret Army nor that later on the Moslem government will announce it has complete control of bitter-enders.

Their legatees will be busy for a generation—even longer if they learn to wear spooky costumes and hold "monster conclaves" by moonlight.

Worthwhile Study

The five-man Council committee named to study the possibility of eliminating some jobs from the city payroll as an economy measure has an opportunity to perform a worthwhile service.

An objective approach to the problem certainly can do no harm and whatever findings result could be the basis for a more efficient operation. If "fat" is found on the city payroll, it should be chopped off. If the jobs in question are found to be essential, the scope of each should be re-evaluated.

Economy goes hand in hand with the city income tax. The more unessential operations that can be eliminated the greater the benefits that can be derived from the money realized from the tax.

Not A Theoretical Exercise

It may be assumed that a steel industry settlement in 1962 without even the threat of a strike is not causing a murmur of dissent among members of United Steelworkers. A settlement has been made in advance. Steelworkers are hoping they can stay on the job this year.

This in itself would not be too remarkable if it weren't for the fact the settlement does not promise to increase the take-home pay of workers. There is the usual uncertainty about how much it may cost employers for indirect benefits, but it may not cause any increase in the price of steel, either.

What, then, is the merit of this unusual procedure, aside from the fringe benefits it bestows on workers in the steel industry and aside from the fact it averted the threat of a steel strike?

A CLIPPING from The New York Times may give a better answer indirectly than could be given directly. It was an announcement that two giant ore carriers which Bethlehem Steel had hoped to build in the United States would be built by Schlicker-Werft in Hamburg, Germany, instead.

The reason the work will be done in Germany is because of a 100 per cent difference in the cost of constructing the two ships — $14 million in Germany, $28 million in the United States.

Even so, it is stipulated in the shipbuilding contract that steel plates, other steel parts and propulsion machinery must come from the United States, much of the material from Bethlehem Steel itself. When the vessels are put into service, they will be operated by a Bethlehem subsidiary, to haul ore from Liberia to the United States —much of it again for Bethlehem Steel. Bethlehem could not ever afford to compete against itself.

THIS IS THE KIND of competition the United States is up against. No one has estimated what the two ore carriers would cost if West Germany furnished the steel as well as the shipbuilding service. But even with most of the steel coming from the United States, ships can be built in Hamburg for half what they cost in the United States.

It is not a theoretical exercise when apprehensive Americans talk about foreign competition. It is a matching of competitive factors. U.S. workers and managers are competing for a livelihood in a world that takes Americans seriously when they say competition is the spice of life. It must keep its costs down or lose by default.

The Symbolic Orval Faubus

Whether men shape their times or the times shape men is a question that has been debated endlessly.

The recent decision of Orval Faubus not to seek re-election as governor of Arkansas offers a good example. His announcement was of interest from coast to coast.

Before 1957 people outside of Arkansas couldn't have cared less about who the governor of that state was. But a significant event—the integration of Little Rock schools —propelled the governor of Arkansas into national and international prominence.

Desegregation of schools was not, and is not, an issue peculiar to Little Rock or to Arkansas. It was, and is, an issue important to all men.

How Orval Faubus responded to the crisis which arose over integration, therefore, became important to all Americans. The governor of Arkansas became a symbol of the integration issue. To segregationists he was a hero; to integrationists, a despot.

In his four terms as governor, Orval Faubus must have accomplished far more important results than to become a symbol. But how many persons will remember what they were?

But last week a ruling was nevertheless issued by Secretary Ribicoff to withhold funds from areas where the schools are not desegregated within the next year.

The Sarasota, Fla., Herald Tribune, calling attention to these inconsistencies of Mr. Ribicoff and to the effect of the new ruling on certain schools in Florida, says in an editorial:

"Is this upholding the spirit and the letter of the Constitution — a document that establishes a system of checks and balances giving Congress the power to enact laws and ordering the president to 'take care that all laws be faithfully executed'?

"Each time the executive branch of the U.S. government makes an end run around Congress, our system of checks and balances is further eroded and our Constitution weakened, no matter how 'worthy' and 'moral' the cause. This is the implication of Mr. Ribicoff's action.

It is being asserted in Washington that, since legislation on the subject of desegregation can't get through Congress, only the President, acting on his own, can accomplish the change — in other words, that "the end justifies the means."

This is the cry that used to be heard when an impassioned and unreasoning group of citizens lynched an alleged murdered without waiting for a trial. The argument always was: "Why wait for a court order when he's guilty anyhow?"

SCARCELY a month goes by that this argument, in one form or another, isn't being used in Washington with respect to circumventing the Constitution.

The school of thought which is gaining headway here these days is the one that believes an executive ruling can get around the Constitution.

President Kennedy apparently has become a believer in this philosophy. He recently issued an executive order declaring that anyone who sells goods or services to the government — and more than $50 billion of contracts are involved — must agree in advance to conform, in effect, to the government's edict concerning the employment of persons of a certain color.

Does the Constitution really give the power to the chief executive to tell an employer whom he shall hire just because he sells goods or services to the federal government?

No where in the Constitution is anything said on the subject.

The Supreme Court of the United States unfortunately has in certain cases closed the door to judicial appeal by aggrieved citizens. This completes the picture of what may be truly called dictatorial power by the chief executive.

Congress, however, not only can pass a law assuring judicial appeal but also can limit the power of the chief executive to use federal funds as a form of economic blackmail.

CONGRESS, moreover, has the right to appropriate funds in the first place.

What President Kennedy and Secretary Ribicoff really have done is to sound the death knell of federal aid to education for a large number of Democrats will not vote for financial aid to schools and colleges if this is to be used as a means of forcing desegregation and otherwise controlling education by order from Washington.

Also a large number of members of Congress of both parties who are opposed to the use of federal funds in schools and colleges where religion is taught now may be confronted by the fact that, by executive order, such funds can be allocated or withheld at the will of a president.

Court orders are understandable in the desegregation controversy, but to use the executive order as a means of withholding federal funds unless the wishes of the executive are followed is an attempt to secure conformity by coercion.

Through A Meat Grinder

By Truman Twill

They play politics for keeps in Massachusetts, and they outdid themselves a few days ago by airing the record of an 18-year-old freshman of 1951 who left Harvard University by request because he had arranged to have a classmate take an examination in his behalf.

The 1951 freshman was Edward M. Kennedy, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for U.S. senator from Massachusetts. The examination was in Spanish, which had been a tough course for him.

After he left the university, the young man put in a couple years of military service. After that he was admitted to Harvard the second time, did satisfactory work there, went on to law school at the University of Virginia and now is bidding for a chance to join his brothers, John and Robert in Washington.

What's the catch?

It's the fact the airing was done by Mr. Kennedy, himself, responding to a question asked by a "friend." Admitting he had made a mistake, the youngest Kennedy explained the whole affair before his political rivals had a chance to spring it on him. This meant he knew they had the story and were waiting for a chance to hurt him with it.

The young man was baring his soul so he could go before the Democratic voters of Massachusetts with clean hands and a pure heart. Or you could surmise he was baring his soul because the opposition was getting ready to bare it for him.

This sort of thing always has the same effect. It makes voters wonder if it wouldn't be a good thing for all contenders to bare their souls.

For instance, whenever those fellows they call solons in headlines — and nowhere else—put the pressure on a businessman to cleanse himself of his securities so he can serve the public with clean hands and a pure heart, you wonder about the solons.

Where a student passes over the line that divides youthful indiscretion from major character flaw is vague. If Ted Kennedy had tried to cheat at blocks and sandpiles in kindergarten, no harm could have come from it.

He might have tried to cheat in high school — might even have got away with it — and no harm would have resulted. But trying to cheat at Harvard is unforgivable. Why?

Most voters didn't go to Harvard. They plotted their schemes to dodge moments of truth elsewhere. Nothing has challenged the ingenuity of man to produce more cute contraptions for concealing the harsh evidence of ignorance than the examination system.

And you can be sure that people who have gone through the mill will be doubly harsh in judging others for their falls from grace. It's human nature. Young Mr. Kennedy has just been put through a meat-grinder.

and Edward Massey last night. He said he asked Murray to relay the information to Duffy.

"I feel this is a serious situation," Applegate said. "If the ordinance is not passed in the meantime, the relief clients will have to wait at least eight days for issuance of their checks."

Applegate explained the checks are issued once a month to persons requiring cash to meet bills for such necessities as food, rent, utilities and medicine. The checks are made out for a single amount, but list a breakdown of the sums to be used for each item, he explained.

The checks range from $10 to $100, the auditor said. Approximately $10,000 was provided for relief in the temporary appropriation for the period Jan. 1-March 31, but the allocation has been exhausted, Applegate said.

Council already is scheduled to convene informally Friday night and it might take advantage of the opportunity to call a special meeting to give the ordinance third reading. At its session Monday, Council agreed to meet Friday at 7 p. m. with the representative of a parking meter company and at 8:30 with Mayor Goodballet.

The unit agreed to postpone until next month a decision on the main fund-raising project for 1962. A decision is also expected next month on a proposal to equip pupils with identification tags. The proposal is to be discussed by the parents.

Following a discussion, it was agreed that the PTA will decide from year to year on the number of special holidays that treats will be provided for pupils.

Mrs. George Smith reviewed duties of the homeroom mothers. Mrs. Hayward, president, presided.

The program featured slides on astronomy screened by Calvin Sowers of Industry, an amateur astronomer and an engineer at Crucible Steel Co. in Midland.

Walker Raps Kennedy And All Officials

WASHINGTON (AP)—Edwin A. Walker, former Army major general, told investigating senators today he "was a scapegoat of an unwritten policy of collaboration and collusion with the international Communist conspiracy."

The Army veteran lashed out at all officials, from the President down, in an appearance before a special Senate investigation into charges that anti-Communist activities of military leaders have been muzzled.

"With this nation's survival at stake, our armed forces are paralyzed by our national policy of 'no win' and retreat from victory," Walker said.

"I, myself, am a victim of this 'no win' policy. I was charged with nothing. I have been found guilty of nothing, I have been punished for nothing."

Walker was relieved of command of the 24th Army Division in Germany last year and admonished after his troop indoctrination program came into controversy.

The Army found he had made derogatory statements about prominent Americans, including former President Harry S. Truman and Eleanor Roosevelt, widow of President Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Walker subsequently resigned from the Army and refused retirement pay. He is now living in Texas and is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor of that state.

Walker read slowly from a 32-page prepared statement which disputed most charges against him and lashed out at his critics.

"The result of what happened to me is that there is today no effective program of psychological warfare training in the United States armed services," Walker said.

"The traditional civilian control of the military has been perverted and extended into a commissar-like training in the United States armed services.

"Finally, our will to resist communism is fast being sapped."

When he resigned, Walker said: "Cold war efforts, indoctrination and training have been unrealistically suppressed and censored—and are not in consonance with the existing state of war, infiltration and aggression, in providing the security and protection of the nation or the soldier from exposure to the enemy."

Walker's statement on resigning was issued by the office of Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., whose Senate speeches charging censorship of anti-Communist speeches delivered by military officers led to the present investigation.

Goulart Lauds U.S. Aid To Latin States

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Joao Goulart of Brazil has opened a six-day visit with praise for U.S. aid to Latin America, and a word of caution to other American republics against sacrificing the rule of law to political expedience.

Today he was to address a joint session of Congress and continue talks with President Kennedy.

Goulart's Washington welcome Tuesday included a 21-gun salute and a greeting from Kennedy at Andrews Air Force Base, a White House luncheon, and a state dinner given by Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

To top it off, the Treasury Department announced it is ready to release $129 million in U.S. aid to Brazil.

While Goulart did not mention Cuba, his remarks on law and principle before the Council of the Organization of American States clearly were a defense of Brazil's stand against expulsion of Fidel Castro's Cuban regime from the inter-American system.

Brazil insisted there was no legal basis for the U.S.-backed action taken by the OAS in January at Punta del Este, Uruguay. Brazil did join other hemisphere nations in condemning the Communist regime in Cuba.

Kennedy declared in a White House toast to Goulart that the governments of the United States and Brazil must work to "prove that the free life and the abundant life go hand in hand."

Goulart said Brazil looks to the United States "with great hopes and great expectations."

At Counseling Dinner

Question Raised On Present-Day Education Aims

A veiled warning that our educational program has become "too complicated" was sounded Tuesday night when the Child Counseling Center held its eighth annual dinner meeting.

Expressing the feeling was Dr. Walter B. Barbe, head of the Department of Special Education at Kent State University.

More than 160 attended the event at the Trinity United Presbyterian Church.

DURING A brief business session, the following new directors were named: Mrs. Dorothy Horsley, Miss Ethelyn Exley, Glenn B. Roberts and Clayton Aughinbaugh.

Mrs. H. Russell Smith, the center's president, presided and extended the welcome.

Dr. Barbe, introduced by Assistant Superintendent of Schools Paul H. Blair, criticized the tendency to constantly "drive" youngsters. Instead, he said the goal should be to "teach the child to compete with himself and do the best he can".

The child, he explained, should be taught to develop and use the gifts that he has. "Teach him how 'to be sweet' and how to love the process of learning," and the desired results will follow in most cases, Dr. Barbe declared.

THE SPEAKER pointed out that every youngster should be developed to the limit of his ability—but not beyond. He called for special attention to the areas in which a child can be successful rather than for a hammering away at apparent weak points.

The basic human needs of both children and adults were used as the springboard into the discussion.

Dr. Barbe subdivided these needs into the "ego status" and the "social status".

Punctuating his remarks with related anecdotes, he said that people must be made "to feel worthwhile within themselves".

The Kent State educator said that too often "we ask things of our children that we couldn't do ourselves".

"One's I.Q. is not an all-limiting factor," he stated.

After a discussion of three counseling methods — direct, indirect and non-directive — the speaker summed up counseling responsibility as that which provides the child with love, security and understanding.

He stressed that a child should have counseling help at proper centers when needed, just as he needs medical and other types of help at certain times.

—:—

DR. OLIVE WOODRUFF of Kent State University, who gave the local counseling center a helping hand in its formative years, again was a guest.

Speaking briefly, she declared she was impressed by the center's growth over the years and the expanding list of contributors. "It truly has become a community project," she commented.

Also expressing concern over the "advanced trend" in education, Dr. Woodruff suggested that "people should be concerned about people rather than 'programs' ".

As adults, it is important that we learn to listen to each other—"not just with our ears, but with our hearts and with our minds".

The invocation for the meeting was by the Rev. H. Gene Toot of the Trinity church and the invocation by the Rev. Paul D. Dippolito of the Chester First Methodist Church.

Mrs. William O. Sutherland presented piano selections before the dinner.

Pike's Revenue In March Broke Pair Of Records

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—March revenue on the Ohio Turnpike not only topped all previous Marches but also tops the best first quarter since the toll road opened in 1955, figures released by the Turnpike Commission show.

Estimated revenue during March was more than $1.7 million, the commissioners heard at their meeting Tuesday. The record month brought first quarter income to $.6 million, $145,000 higher than 1960, the next best year.

Records show commercial vehicles paid $774,000 to use the Northern Ohio highway, a record for any month from that source. The largest single day in the pike's history for commercial vehicles—$32,996—came March 8.

Commissioners said the records are significant because March has not been one of the better income months in the past for commercial vehicles.

4 Youths Report To Rotary On World Affairs Institute

Four local youths, describing their experiences at the 16th World Affairs Institute in Cincinnati, told the Rotary Club Tuesday afternoon in the Travelers Hotel they would like to go again next year.

The club sponsored William Shaffer of Chester High School, Dave Brugh of Beaver Local, Tom Kraft of East Liverpool and Rick Webb of Newell to the event Friday and Saturday as an annual project.

The four juniors joined 525 student delegates from four states in group discussions on "The United States and the International Communist Challenge," toured the city and attended special entertainment.

The institute was held in the Sheridan-Gibson Hotel where the boys stayed after flying there from Greater Pittsburgh Airport.

Kraft described his first air flight as "thriling" and told of the early part of the visit when they sat in on group discussions and movies about Communism.

The movies included one which gave the objective survey of the USSR, and another which was about the "cold war" and the manner in which Communists "twist the truth," Shaffer said.

Webb described a visit to Xavier University where he observed a laboratory experiment in which students attempted to find the correlation between cold and light on the nerve centers of a baby chicken. He also saw students using a language laboratory.

Of the many speeches heard during the two-day visit, the best was given by Dr. Perry Swartz, a specialist in Soviet affairs, and an official with the New York Times, Webb said.

The speaker declared that "We are living 30 minutes from annihilation and by the generosity of Premier Khrushchev and President Kennedy," Webb added.

Brugh quoted the speaker as also pointing out that "The Berlin Wall was a big downfall to the Reds as it proved to the world that there is something good about the West."

The students were introduced by Robert F. Beatty, program chairman. George M. VanHorne was chairman of the project.

Ralph Dillon of the Youngstown Rotary Club extended an invitation to the 665th District Conference April 12-13 at the Pick-Ohio Hotel. Rep. Walter Judd of Minnesota will be the featured speaker. William E. Williams is chairman of attendance for the local club.

George Hargraves reminded members of a campaign under way by a citizens' committee to sell season football tickets for games of the East Liverpool Potters.

Dr. R. Jay Kinsey, president, presided. Dr. Samuel Rich, retired city resident now residing in Florida, was a guest.

4 Youths Report To Rotary On World Affairs Institute

Four local youths, describing their experiences at the 16th World Affairs Institute in Cincinnati, told the Rotary Club Tuesday afternoon in the Travelers Hotel they would like to go again next year.

The club sponsored William Shaffer of Chester High School, Dave Brugh of Beaver Local, Tom Kraft of East Liverpool and Rick Webb of Newell to the event Friday and Saturday as an annual project.

The four juniors joined 525 student delegates from four states in group discussions on "The United States and the International Communist Challenge," toured the city and attended special entertainment.

The institute was held in the Sheridan-Gibson Hotel where the boys stayed after flying there from Greater Pittsburgh Airport.

Kraft described his first air flight as "thriling" and told of the early part of the visit when they sat in on group discussions and movies about Communism.

The movies included one which gave the objective survey of the USSR, and another which was about the "cold war" and the manner in which Communists "twist the truth," Shaffer said.

Webb described a visit to Xavier University where he observed a laboratory experiment in which students attempted to find the correlation between cold and light on the nerve centers of a baby chicken. He also saw students using a language laboratory.

Of the many speeches heard during the two-day visit, the best was given by Dr. Perry Swartz, a specialist in Soviet affairs, and an official with the New York Times, Webb said.

The speaker declared that "We are living 30 minutes from annihilation and by the generosity of Premier Khrushchev and President Kennedy," Webb added.

Brugh quoted the speaker as also pointing out that "The Berlin Wall was a big downfall to the Reds as it proved to the world that there is something good about the West."

The students were introduced by Robert F. Beatty, program chairman. George M. VanHorne was chairman of the project.

Ralph Dillon of the Youngstown Rotary Club extended an invitation to the 665th District Conference April 12-13 at the Pick-Ohio Hotel. Rep. Walter Judd of Minnesota will be the featured speaker. William E. Williams is chairman of attendance for the local club.

George Hargraves reminded members of a campaign under way by a citizens' committee to sell season football tickets for games of the East Liverpool Potters.

Dr. R. Jay Kinsey, president, presided. Dr. Samuel Rich, retired city resident now residing in Florida, was a guest.

Council Clears Bill

Easement Given Wellsville Board

Legislation granting a three-foot-wide easement in a section of Oak Alley to the Board of Education was adopted after third and final reading by Wellsville Council Tuesday night. The board plans to erect a safety barrier outside the entrance doors to Beacom Memorial gym so students will not step into traffic.

Councilmen Robert Taggart and Dwight MacLean opposed the measure while Councilmen Allen Baldwin, William Stroble and Mrs. Kay Drago favored it. Councilmen Donald Miller and Frank DeLonzo were absent.

COUNCIL received a complaint from Mrs. Robert H. Hall of the Old Salineville Rd., who said a section of Route 45 near the entrance to the Pleasant Valley clay mine of the H. K. Porter Co. was slipping over the hill.

She said work at the mine caused a sewer to break and the water is running over her property and causing the road to slide, which broke her water line.

The street and light committee, headed by Stroble, will meet Monday afternoon at 2 with Mrs. Hall to investigate the problem. Stroble agreed with Mrs. Hall and said H. K. Porter officials have not been co-operative in the past.

First reading was given legislation setting the salary of Oscar Van Dyke, parking meter collector and repairman, at $30 a month. His salary had been $20 a month for the job. He also is City Hall custodian.

TAGGART SAID Bill Long, dog warden, had requested he be paid for catching stray cats as well as dogs. He asked for 50 cents per cat. The request was sent on to the finance committee.

The street and light committee was asked to check a high manhole on Henry Ave. Cars drag on it.

A discussion was held on possible repair to the water standpipes on the hillside above Highland Ave. Stroble commented he would like to see the work begin as quickly as possible. The city had discussed having the work done last fall by the Continental-Fremont Co. of Fremont but action was delayed because of bad weather.

THE FIRM will be checked to see if it will still do the work for the same price offered last year.

Stroble was asked to have his committee check on the possibility of opening an old road into the standpipes. Solicitor William Bush was asked to check with nearby property owners on allowing equipment to stand on their property while the repairs are being made.

Stroble commented he was perturbed about the condition of city streets. He suggested relief workers be utilized in repairing the alleys and asked Safety - Service Director Fred Baldasare to comment.

Baldasare said he used cold patch on Broadway but it came out in a few days. He said a sealer was used underneath and the blacktop was heated before the patching applied.

FIRST DONATION. Cynthia Bennett, East Liverpool's Cancer Fund girl, receives from Mayor Bert H. Goodballet an initial donation for the American Cancer Society Crusade being conducted this month. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Bennett, 336 W. 6th St. Left to right are Postmaster Sam Brown, city chairman for the drive; Dr. J. Fraser Jackson, who represents the medical phase, and Mrs. Audrey Newtz, Columbiana County crusade supervisor. The mayor is also chairman for the city employes' division of the drive. Brown said details for a house-to-house canvass will be announced later. The county goal is $22,000.

HE SAID it would be a waste of money to try anymore until the weather gets warmer. Stroble said "we have to please the people."

Baldasare replied "do we please them for a couple of more days by dumping more cold patch and using more money."

Stroble said "go back and put more in. It isn't going to cost that much money. A lot of people think the street department is broke, but it isn't."

Mrs. Mary Rahter, Council president, said residents should be informed of the problem. The streets in East Liverpool are worse than in Wellsville, she said.

Councilmen Taggart and MacLean both agreed it was impossible to fill holes now.

BALDWIN URGED the city try the suggestion offered at the last meeting by Mrs. Drago to park on the opposite side of Broadway and allow traffic to use the right side of the street. Police Chief John Hephner said this would prove hazardous for those getting out of their cars. "They would be stepping into the path of the traffic," he said.

Stroble said he heard that Midland officials were contemplating a wage tax for the city. He said he is opposed to such a tax and asked that letters be sent Ohio state officials and to Rep. Wayne L. Hays for possible legislation to prevent one state from taxing a resident from another.

He said Pennsylvania and Ohio do not have a reciprocal agreement on taxes "and even if one ever were adopted here we couldn't get back the money from the residents working in Midland.

—:—

MRS. RAHTER said Ohio Valley Gas Co. officials had asked that Council and the utility work toward an agreement on a rate increase.

The utility has been seeking an increase since last fall. She said Bellaire has accepted a new rate proposal.

Bush commented that the proposal the utility now is making is 5 per cent return on its capital. This would amount to a 10 to 11 per cent increase in rates.

Mrs. Rahter said she had been informed it was just a flat 5 per cent increase on rates.

Mayor William Daugherty outlined a cleanup and beautification campaign started by a group of citizens. He said Robert Andrews, minister of the First Christian Church, is chairman with Mrs. Floreine Broderick, president of the Wellsville Women's Civic Club, as secretary.

Others on the planning committee include John Bryor, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Richard Grills, president of Kiwanis Club; the Rev. Arden Beck, president of the Ministerial Association; John Baker of the Southern Ruritan Club, Frank Fusco, Jaycee president, Fr. Gerald Curran of the Immaculate Conception Catholic Church, Fire Chief Robert Lewis, Chief Hephner and the Rev. William Carswell of the Baptist Church.

The group met this afternoon at Meade's Restaurant to further plans.

The Rev. William Hewitt gave the opening prayer. Students from the High School American Problems Class attended.

Several Injured When Explosion Rips Building

CINCINNATI (AP) — Several persons were injured, apparently none seriously, today as an explosion caused heavy damage to a three-story apartment building just beyond the north edge of the downtown district.

At least two persons were reported taken to hospitals. Others, suffering from cuts and bruises from flying glass and debris, were treated at the scene.

Cause of the explosion was not determined immediately but police said one of the injured told them he smelled gas shortly before the blast.

The explosion caused part of the roof to collapse into the third floor. Windows in the buildings were shattered. Windows in the buildings across the street also were broken.

The building, one room wide, houses a cafe on the first floor.

Unemployment Seen Substantial

The East Liverpool - Salem area is one of 12 in Ohio classified as areas of "substantial unemployment" by the U. S. Department of Labor.

The classification indicates 6 per cent or more of the total work force is unemployed.

The labor department gave the same classification to Canton, Hamilton - Middleton, Lorain - Elyria, Toledo and Youngstown-Warren along with the smaller areas of Ashtabula - Conneaut, Athens, Batavia - Georgetown, Cambridge, Fremont, Kent - Ravenna, Mount Vernon, New Philadelphia - Dover, Portsmouth, Sandusky and Zanesville.

Akron, Cincinnati, Cleveland, Columbus, Dayton and Steubenville were listed with "moderate unemployment" of between 3 and 5.9 per cent of the total work force.

Cause of the explosion was not determined immediately but police said one of the injured told them he smelled gas shortly before the blast.

The explosion caused part of the roof to collapse into the third floor. Windows in the buildings were shattered. Windows in the buildings across the street also were broken.

The building, one room wide, houses a cafe on the first floor.

3 Boys Drown, 2 Others Safe As Boat Capsizes

Firemen, deputies and highway patrolmen dragged the creek through the night for the bodies of Harold Wolfe, 17; Billy Crawford, 15, and Tommy Mitchell, 11. But by early today, none had been found, with debris in the swollen creek hampering efforts.

Jack Gray, 17, and Charles Stephens, 15, lived to tell the tale of the misadventure near the city

All the boys lived in Cambridge, except Stephens of Bloomfield, Muskingum County.

The five youths were in a 15-foot craft when its motor quit. They began paddling, but all got on one side of the boat and it overturned.

Stephens made it to shore. Gray escaped with the help of Emil Choma of Rt. 1, Cambridge, who was driving along the creek and spotted the boy hanging onto a tree limb.

Rehabilitation Tough Project, DiSalle Claims

CINCINNATI (AP) — Rehabilitation and retraining will not solve all problems of welfare, Gov. Michael W. DiSalle says.

"Rehabilitation is a tough project. It takes a great deal of tolerance, patience and understanding. And it can't be done overnight," the governor told the Central States Conference of the American Public Welfare Association Tuesday night.

Nor will retraining solve everything, DiSalle said. He mentioned the 149,000 persons who last month applied for unemployment compensation in Ohio, and asserted:

"There's a limit to the skills that some of these people can attain. Special programs still will have a hard core unable to be retrained."

Summing up, the governor declared Ohioans should be willing to support the "welfare burden of approximately 3 per cent" as a compensation for their good fortune.

"In a society as fluid as ours, has anybody discovered a better system than one in which 97 per cent of the people who can care for themselves also care for the 3 per cent who cannot do so?" DiSalle asked.

Fire of undetermined origin damaged the interior of an unoccupied dwelling on Densmore Ave. Tuesday night and firemen from the Liverpool Township West department brought the flames under control after an hour and 45 minutes.

The fire started in the kitchen flooring and spread to the back wall and then the roof. There was no furniture in the dwelling. The loss is not covered by insurance.

The department received the alarm at 11:30 and responded with 18 men and three trucks. The Glenmoor department sent a truck to the station in LaCroft for standby while firemen were on the call.

Cronin said an investigation is under way to determine the cause of the blaze.

Activity Picks Up As Cleveland Shipping Opens

CLEVELAND (AP) — Activity along the Cleveland waterfront has picked up with the opening of the 1962 navigation season.

The self-unloader, R. C. Norton of Columbia Steamship Division, arrived here Tuesday with 5,000 tons of pig iron from Detroit for the Ford Motor Co. plant. It was the first freighter of the season into the port of Cleveland.

The S. T. Grapo, member of the Huron Portland Cement Co. fleet, came in later from Alpena, Mich., carrying 45,000 barrels of cement to the portland docks in the Cuyahoga River.

At Ashtabula, the Canadian Steamship Lines' Georgian Bay became the first vessel to enter that port. It came for a load of 15,600 tons of coal for Hamilton, Ont.

The Coast Guard has reported all harbors are clear on Lake Erie except at the eastern half of the lake.

Oklahoma has 12,581 teams affiliated with the American Bowling Association.

The average American consumer spends 25.3 per cent more in retail stores today than 10 years ago. Retailers, in an effort to capture as much of this market as they can, advertise in newspapers, which reach more people than any other advertising medium. They invest 80 per cent of their advertising budgets in their local daily newspapers.

Activity Picks Up As Cleveland Shipping Opens

CLEVELAND (AP) — Activity along the Cleveland waterfront has picked up with the opening of the 1962 navigation season.

The self-unloader, R. C. Norton of Columbia Steamship Division, arrived here Tuesday with 5,000 tons of pig iron from Detroit for the Ford Motor Co. plant. It was the first freighter of the season into the port of Cleveland.

The S. T. Grapo, member of the Huron Portland Cement Co. fleet, came in later from Alpena, Mich., carrying 45,000 barrels of cement to the portland docks in the Cuyahoga River.

At Ashtabula, the Canadian Steamship Lines' Georgian Bay became the first vessel to enter that port. It came for a load of 15,600 tons of coal for Hamilton, Ont.

The Coast Guard has reported all harbors are clear on Lake Erie except at the eastern half of the lake.

Oklahoma has 12,581 teams affiliated with the American Bowling Association.

The average American consumer spends 25.3 per cent more in retail stores today than 10 years ago. Retailers, in an effort to capture as much of this market as they can, advertise in newspapers, which reach more people than any other advertising medium. They invest 80 per cent of their advertising budgets in their local daily newspapers.

Ribbons Won By Stanton Students

This display of Stanton Local High School won third place among county schools at the annual Ohio Industrial Arts convention held over the weekend at the Neil House Hotel in Columbus.

The Irondale school entered 54 projects and was awarded 12 ribbons and an honorable mention for the manner in which the projects were displayed.

Three seniors who won ribbons display an achievement certificate amid the projects. From the left, they are Larry Grimm, Bob Perkins and Floyd Minor.

A total of 3,047 projects were entered by 88 schools in the event and only 14 cups and ribbons were awarded.

Stanton students who won two ribbons each included Dale Minor, Jerry Minor, Darrell Utt, and Johnny Rogers. One ribbon each went to Grimm, Perkins, Bill Davis and Larry Mills.

In addition, a black plastic salad bowl made by young Utt was selected for publication in a plastics textbook.

Robert McCullough is industrial arts instructor at Stanton. The school entered the event for the third year, winning one of the top three awards for the first time.

The student projects is on display this week at Paisley Bros. grocery store.

Cosmetologists Set Scholarships

A scholarship program for four district high schools has been announced by the Academy of Cosmetology, Inc., on E. 4th St., which held its grand opening over the weekend.

Guidance directors from East Liverpool, Beaver Local, Wellsville and Midland high schools will assist in the selection of the students who will receive the full-tuition grants.

Mrs. Eileen Lewis, Jo Weinberger and Susan Hill, operators of the academy here, have been associated in the field of cosmetology for the last 10 years and founded their first academy five years ago in Youngstown.

Ballot Printing Due Despite Lawsuits By 2

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Hamilton County Board of Elections is going ahead with preparations to print ballots for the May 8 primary elections despite lawsuits by two men trying to get on the ballot. A spokesman said if the Ohio Supreme Court upholds the two men, stickers with their names will be put on the ballots.

The two are Elmer C. Schwrz, seeking a Democratic nomination as state representative, and John H. Ferguson, a Republican seeking nomination as state treasurer.

Dawson Replies To Applegate On Tax Office Jobs

The city income tax office is staffed by "capable, efficient, qualified people," Treasurer Bert A. Dawson said today in reply to a statement issued Tuesday by Auditor Lawrence C. Applegate asserting that selection of personnel should be based "on merit alone."

"Our local office is considered a model in Ohio for income tax operations," the treasurer said. "It balanced out to the penny in an audit just concluded by the examiners of the State Bureau of Inspection and Supervision of Public Offices."

"The office always has operated according to the letter of the law," he added.

"Since Mr. Applegate has told me he meant no reflection on this office in his statement, I feel the public should know that all the girls there have finished high on Civil Service lists in exams for city jobs," Dawson said.

"The Civil Service list always has been the source of our appointees, aside from the tax commissioner, whose job is not subject to classified service," the treasurer said. "The office always has abided by the rules of the Civil Service Commission."

Massillon Doctor Complains To PUC Of Electrical Service

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A Massillon doctor has complained to the Public Utilities Commission about the stability of electrical services supplied by the Ohio Edison Co.

A letter from the doctor, R. Kenneth Loeffler, a specialist in therapeutic radiology, was received by the commission Tuesday.

Dr. Loeffler asserted there have been "short, but frequent voltage fluctuations of great magnitude" in electrical power from Ohio Edison. He said he has recorded the voltages at various times of day and in various parts of the city and wants to submit the recordings as evidence at a commission hearing.

The company at first denied existence of any fluctuation, but recently its engineers admit fluctuations occur and "that many are correlated with the activities of the Massillon Steel Casting Co.," Loeffler said.

The Utilities Commission is treating the letter as a formal complaint, meaning the company has 14 days to reply and the commission then will schedule a public hearing on the matter. A spokesman said it is unusual for the commission to treat such a letter in this manner.

Loeffler said he has also made voltage recordings in Canton areas served by the Ohio Power Co. and found Canton's power is "extraordinarily stable, despite the existence of much larger industry."

He asks for a formal explanation of why Ohio Edison, "charging higher rates than does the Ohio Power Co., cannot supply current of equal stability."

The company has told Loeffler, he says, that the "fluctuations are within reasonable limits and that the expense to eliminate them would be prohibitive."

Four Indicted Youths To Face Arraignment

NEWARK, Ohio (AP) — Four Newark youths indicted in the Feb. 24 death of Newark salesman Paul E. Cullison, 60, are to be arraigned in Licking County Common Pleas Court Monday.

Handed first-degree murder indictments by the grand jury Tuesday were Andrew Lester Sherman, 21; Robert Redman, 20; David Lee Rowland, 17, and Ronald Lee Waddell, 17. They are accused of knocking Cullison to the ground in an attempt to rob him. Cullison hit his head on the pavement and died of a cerebral hemmorhage.

More Testimony Due In NLRB's Hearing

HUNTINGTON, W. Va. (AP)—Several days' more testimony is expected in a National Labor Relations Board hearing involving WHTN-TV of Huntington, which got under way Tuesday. The National Association of Broadcast Employes and Technicians, AFL-CIO, complained the television station engaged in unfair labor practices.

NLRB trial examiner John H. Eadie of Washington is conducting the hearing in Cabel County Common Pleas Courtroom. The union alleges WHTN-TV officials overstepped their bounds in several respects before and during an 88-day strike that ended March 4.

Reports Profits Down

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — General Tire & Rubber Co. profits for the first quarter were below the $5,304,000, or 94 cents a share, in the same period last year, the annual meeting was told Tuesday. Shareholders approved a 3-for-1 common stock split, effective April 10.

South Side's Curriculum Changes Set

Curriculum changes for next term and further improvement of the science program at South Side Schools near Hookstown were approved by the Southern Beaver County Joint Board of Education Monday evening.

Victor Thomas, supervising principal, said a major change will be the introduction of conversational French in the seventh and eighth grades.

Another change will be in the 12th grade. The state requires students to take economics and the school plans one semester of economics and one of social studies. Problems in Democracy, instead of two semesters of social studies.

Under the science program, an accelerated group of eighth graders will be given ninth grade general science in lieu of the regular eighth grade science. The accelerated group will be offered biology in the ninth grade while other students take the regular general science. In the 10th grade the group will be given space science while others study biology. Thomas said that under the program, the group will be able to get in four years of science in the upper four grades.

Thomas, Donald Chewning, baseball coach, and members of the board's building and grounds committee met Tuesday afternoon to discuss the possibility of developing a baseball field on the school property. Teams have been using the Georgetown ballfield.

Since there was no school March 6 due to snow and the state requires the day be made up, the board changed the last day of school from Thursday, June 7, to Friday, June 8. The day was not taken from the Easter vacation since parents and teachers have already made plans.

The board authorized Mrs. Katherine McElhaney, secretary, to advertise for bids for general supplies and fuel oil for next term.

Thomas said as soon as he has made his budget preparations he plans to have a meeting of the budget committee with Chester Elliott, chairman, and secretaries of the individual boards. Where the secretary is a non-member, the secretary will attend along with a board member. The meeting will be in the next several weeks.

Mrs. Dorothy Hayward of Shippingport was elected an assistant secretary of the joint board, a position recently authorized by the state. She will be compensated when ever she fills in for the regular secretary.

The board took no definite action on hiring a full-time solicitor and said members should be notified by the next meeting, May 7, that the matter will be considered.

Atty. H. J. Albaugh of Aliquippa explained the duties of a solicitor and reasons for hiring one. The school has employed a solicitor only when needed.

South Side's Curriculum Changes Set

Curriculum changes for next term and further improvement of the science program at South Side Schools near Hookstown were approved by the Southern Beaver County Joint Board of Education Monday evening.

Victor Thomas, supervising principal, said a major change will be the introduction of conversational French in the seventh and eighth grades.

Another change will be in the 12th grade. The state requires students to take economics and the school plans one semester of economics and one of social studies, Problems in Democracy, instead of two semesters of social studies.

Under the science program, an accelerated group of eighth graders will be given ninth grade general science in lieu of the regular eighth grade science. The accelerated group will be offered biology in the ninth grade while other students take the regular general science. In the 10th grade the group will be given space science while others study biology. Thomas said that under the program, the group will be able to get in four years of science in the upper four grades.

Thomas, Donald Chewning, baseball coach, and members of the board's building and grounds committee met Tuesday afternoon to discuss the possibility of developing a baseball field on the school property. Teams have been using the Georgetown ballfield.

Since there was no school March 6 due to snow and the state requires the day be made up, the board changed the last day of school from Thursday, June 7, to Friday, June 8. The day was not taken from the Easter vacation since parents and teachers have already made plans.

The board authorized Mrs. Katherine McElhaney, secretary, to advertise for bids for general supplies and fuel oil for next term.

Thomas said as soon as he has made his budget preparations he plans to have a meeting of the budget committee with Chester Elliott, chiarman, and secretaries of the individual boards. Where the secretary is a non-member, the secretary will attend along with a board member. The meeting will be in the next several weeks.

Mrs. Dorothy Hayward of Shippingport was elected an assistant secretary of the joint board, a position recently authorized by the state. She will be compensated when ever she fills in for the regular secretary.

The board took no definite action on hiring a full-time solicitor and said members should be notified by the next meeting, May 7, that the matter will be considered.

Atty. H. J. Albaugh of Aliquippa explained the duties of a solicitor and reasons for hiring one. The school has employed a solicitor only when needed.

Ohio Valley Gas Employe Serving 39 Years Retires

William E. Slonaker, 541 Broadway, Wellsville, a meter serviceman in East Liverpool for the Ohio Valley Gas Co. has retired after 39 years with the firm.

He started as a serviceman in East Liverpool in 1922 and was transferred to Wellsville seven years later as sub-foreman. He returned to East Liverpool in 1936 as a meter serviceman.

Born in Washing County, Slonaker attended school near New Matamoras and worked as an auto painter in East Liverpool before going with the utility.

He is 64. He and his wife, Laura, have a daughter, Mrs. Ralph Hulse of Lakeland, Fla., and a son, Gary Lee, at home.

Booher Charged Again In Mahoning Cases

LISBON — James Richard Booher, 25, of Poland pleaded guilty to armed robbery and rape at a hearing Tuesday before County Judge Bruce Black of Sebring and he was bound over to the Mahoning County Grand Jury under $15,000 bond.

Booher pleaded innocent Monday of armed robbery of the Ferguson Market at a hearing in Eastern District court at East Palestine and this case will be presented to the April Grand Jury now in session.

Booher allegedly committed at least four armed robberies in March — Ferguson's Market, the Casa Loma Club and Johnson Clothing Store, along with one at an exhibition home on Route 62, west of Salem, along with rape, authorities said.

De Gaulle Pays Visit To Italian Premier

TURIN, Italy (AP)—President Charles de Gaulle of France arrived for a one-day meeting with Italian Premier Amintore Fanfani.

The two leaders were expected to concentrate on European unity questions during their brief meeting. French officials hinted that De Gaulle wanted to press his ideas for a political confederation of the six Common Market nations—France, Italy, West Germany, Holland, Belgium and Luxembourg.

Youth, 13, Didn't Let Big One Get Away

NEWBURGH, N.Y. (AP) — Determined David Fekishazy, 13, didn't let the big one get away on the opening day of the New York state trout season.

Fully clothed, the boy dived into a creek and grabbed an 18-inch trout with his hands after the fish squirmed off his hook.

City Officials Withdraw Aid On Surplus Food

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—City officials have voted to withdraw Birmingham's support of a county-wide surplus food program following a Negro boycott of downtown stores.

An overwhelming majority of those receiving the surplus food are Negroes.

The three city commissioners voted unanimously Tuesday to withhold the city's share of the $100,000 program. Since seven months of the program have expired, the city's share for the remaining months would amount to about $18,750.

The program is supported by other communities in Jefferson County, which has a population of about 640,000.

Mayor Arthur J. Hanes said, "We've got to do something to nip this boycott in the bud." He said business license fees are governed by business volume and that when business is off, license fees decline. He said the city loses money "and we've got to make it up somewhere."

The boycott began about two weeks ago after Negro leaders demanded that downtown merchants desegregate hiring practices, rest rooms and drinking fountains.

Hawaii Governor Makes Appeal In Food Emergency

HONOLULU (AP) — Gov. William F. Quinn declared Hawaii in a state of food emergency Tuesday night and called on President Kennedy to authorize military transportation for relief.

Quinn also pleaded with both sides of the West Coast shipping strike to agree to unloading of eight strikebound ships in Honolulu harbor.

The Matson freighters are laden with more than 30,000 tons of food and other items for strike-strapped business on all the islands.

In his fourth appeal to President Kennedy since the strike began March 16, Quinn said there is two weeks or less supply of 20 staple foods.

Shippingport Budget's Set

Shippingport Council adopted a final budget for 1962 Tuesday evening, amounting to $5,739.46, and gave third and final reading to an ordinance setting a tax rate of 8 mills on real estate and 14 mills occupation.

Both taxes are the same as last year. The budget is $493.92 higher than the tentative budget adopted March 6 and $2,114.63 higher than the 1961 budget of $3,624.83.

William Green, secretary, reported also that Council adopted Daylight Saving Time, effective midnight April 29. Council also accepted the auditors' report for 1961.

The resignation of Mrs. June White as an auditor was accepted.

Smith Hayward is president. Next meeting is May 1.

Hays Named For New Congressional Group

Rep. Wayne L. Hays of the 18th Congressional District Tuesday was elected a member of the Congressional Steering Committee to represent the 9th Region of Ohio and West Virginia.

The new committee of the majority party will determine what legislation is to be introduced in Congress. It is the first such committee in 14 years, Hays said.

Rep. Michael Kirwan of the 19th District also is a member of the committee.

Brown Raps DiSalle On Financial Question

CLEVELAND (AP)—State Sen. John W. Brown of Medina charged Tuesday night Gov. Michael V. DiSalle is guilty of chicanery in attempting to "blame the Republican members of the General Assembly for his administration's financial failure."

Brown, seeking the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor, claimed the Republican-controlled 104th General Assembly did more to meet the state's obligations than the Democratic-controlled 103rd General Assembly. He spoke at a GOP club in suburban Parma.

Brown Raps DiSalle On Financial Question

CLEVELAND (AP)—State Sen. John W. Brown of Medina charged Tuesday night Gov. Michael V. DiSalle is guilty of chicanery in attempting to "blame the Republican members of the General Assembly for his administration's financial failure."

Brown, seeking the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor, claimed the Republican-controlled 104th General Assembly did more to meet the state's obligations than the Democratic-controlled 103rd General Assembly. He spoke at a GOP club in suburban Parma.

CLEVELAND (AP) — Herman Sweatt, central figure in a U.S. Supreme Court decision against racial segregation more than a decade ago, is leaving his post as research director of the Cleveland Urban League to become associate director of the National Urban League's southern regional office.

Sweatt in 1950 became the first person to enter the University of Texas law school after the high court ruled against the "separate but equal" doctrine applying to admission of Negroes to schools.

'Beyond The Call' Award Won By Night Operator

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The resourcefulness a Morrow County night telephone operator displayed in discovering and reporting a fire has won her the eighth annual "Beyond the Call" award.

The award, sponsored by the Ohio Independent Telephone Association, was to be presented today to Mrs. Mary McKibbin of Rt. 3, Marengo.

The association, in its 67th annual convention here, said Mrs. McKibbin's actions saved several business properties in Mount Gilead last December.

In the predawn hours of Dec. 21, the citation reads, Mrs. McKibben's suspicions were aroused when she failed to receive response to a line light associated with a restaurant near the telephone exchange of the Ohio Central Telephone Corp. She investigated and located the fire in the restaurant.

The operator turned in a fire alarm, then contacted many of the businessmen whose places were threatened, giving them an opportunity to save valuable records.

The association honored 18 of its 93 member companies for outstanding safety records during 1961. They are:

Ashtabula Telephone Co., Bascom Mutual Telephone Co., Camden Rural Telephone Co., Centerville Telephone Co. of Jacobsburg, Conneaut Telephone Co., Elyria Telephone Co., Fayetteville Telephone Co., General Telephone Co. of Ohio (Marion), Minford Telephone Co.

New Bavaria Mutual Telephone Co., New Knoxville Telephone Co., Nova Telephone Co., Oakwood Mutual Telephone Co., Ohio Telephone Service Co. of Greenville, Orwell Telephone Co., Ottoville Mutual Telephone Co., Ridgeville Telephone Co. and Sycamore Telephone Co.

Ad For Inventors Listed As Item For Science At Work

By The Associated Press

A want ad for inventors, a new help for bank tellers, a warning about termites are subjects for science at work.

Wanted: Wireless Power

The U.S. armed forces have a new entry for the "help wanted" columns. They're asking the nation's inventors to develop a way to transmit power without wires or cables.

So reports the National Inventors Council of the U.S. Commerce Department. Prime requirements: a technique to transmit 1,000 watts of power for up to 50 miles in usable form. A transmitter would broadcast the electrical power and it would be picked up by a receiver many miles away.

Account or No Account

Ever wait for a bank teller to look up your account so he'd know whether you had enough money to cover your check?

To solve this, computers have been put to work in a new system, that would be located right in front of the teller and would provide him the desired information in two-fifths of a second.

Dan M. Bowers of the Computer Control Co., Framingham, Mass., described the system last week to the Institute of Radio Engineers.

It can, he said, check the last transaction, even though it occurred only five seconds before. The first model, to handle eventually 250,000 accounts, has been designed for the Provident Institution for Savings, Boston.

Termite Time Again

After spring rains, when temperature and moisture are right, termites signal their presence by rising in swarms. They search out wood, paper, or anything containing cellulose. Other signs: mud tunnels built along basement walls as the termites migrate to wooden structures.

They look a little like flying ants, says the National Pest Control Association. But they are different. Termites have thick bodies, no waistline, and four wings of equal length, while flying ants have rear wings shorter than those in front.

4 Firemen Are Killed As Chemicals Explode

NORWICH, Conn. (AP) — "My God, this thing is going to blow!" Philip Marcelline screamed.

Moments later, a truckload of chemicals exploded outside a storage plant, killing four firemen.

The firemen had been called to put out what started as a small fire on the truck. After the blast, the fire spread to the Van Tassel Storage Co. Additional explosions in the warehouse demolished the building.

Authorities said the initial fire on the truck probably started when a highly inflammable chemical, methyl ethyl ketone, used as an industrial solvent, spilled.

Marcelline was one of four men unloading the chemicals from the truck.

There are more daily newspapers published in the U.S. than in any other country in the world —over 1,750.

Man Who Didn't Want Job Re-elected Mayor

ASHLAND, Mo. (AP)— Lehmon Wren, who didn't want it, was re-elected mayor of Ashland Tuesday when 55 voters wrote his name on their ballots.

"I'm tired of listening to bellyaches of other people—I wouldn't run again if they paid me," Wren said before the election.

Everyone else apparently felt the same way because nobody filed. Nobody else got a vote.

Ashland, a town of 465 residents, doesn't pay its mayor.

Killed In Collision

KENTON, Ohio (AP) — Harve Potter Jr., 42 of Kenton, was killed Tuesday afternoon when a truck struck his car as he was making a turn of Ohio 68 just south of here. A tractor - trailer rig driven by John D. Noel of Girard landed on the automobile, crushing the driver's side of the car, deputies said.

In Argentina Elections

Peronist Leader Urges Vote Victory Recognition

BUENOS AIRES (AP)— Peronist leader Andres Framini today demanded "absolute and unconditional" recognition of the Peronists' sweeping victories in the March 18 elections.

In his first public statement since Argentina's military command ousted President Arturo Frondizi and replaced him with Senate President Jose Maria Guido, Framini said the Peronists were "willing to participate in the national reconstruction, but not to give legitimacy through our support to an unjust, illegal and anti-national regime."

Framini, a trade union leader whose victory in the race for governor of Buenos Aires Province was swept away by government decree, said that if the Peronist victories are recognized, the Peronists offer as a contribution to national peace their "irrevocable decision to forget the harm and persecutions suffered in the recent crisis."

He also called for the liberation of all political prisoners, amnesty for all exiled Argentines—presumably including ex-dictator Juan Peron, a new economic program to replace Frondizi's austerity and a review of all obligations considered harmful to Argentine sovereignty.

He did not elaborate on the last point but nationalist circles contend agreements with the United States and U.S. business are unfavorable to the expansion of local industry.

The military ousted Peron in 1955 and barred his party from organized political activity.

Flight, 15 Years In Making, Slated For Happy Landing

CINCINNATI (AP)—A flight — 15 years in the making—from behind the Iron Curtain is scheduled for a happy ending today at the Greater Cincinnati Airport.

On the flight will be Cincinnati-born Mrs. Elizabeth Wenzel and her husband, John, a native of Romania.

Mrs. Wenzel was born in the Over-the-Rhine area of Cincinnati a half-century ago as Elizabeth Lech. While she was a child, her parents took her back to Grosz-pecia, a village near Bucharest in Romania.

She returned to Cincinnati in her teens, but went back to Romania in 1932. There she married John Wenzel, a machinist. They lived through World War II in Romania.

Shortly after the war, Mrs. Wenzel began making applications to return to the United States. The Romanian government turned her down.

Her sister, Mrs. John S. Yass of Cincinnati, took up the fight, writing to congressmen and public officials. Both former Rep. William E. Hess and Rep. Donald Clancy, R-Ohio, helped.

The Romanian government finally granted the Wenzels permission last Friday to leave the country. They arrived in New York Late Tuesday night.

Mrs. Yass' husband said the couple will stay at first with a niece and that Wenzel will get a job at his garage and auto repair shop.

Boy In Custody, One Sought In Break-In Attempt

MEDINA, Ohio (AP) — One youth was in police custody and his companion was sought today in connection with a reported break-in at a service station near Wadsworth late Tuesday night.

Held for investigation was Bill Wright, 19, of New York. A manhunt was on in the rural area around Wadsworth for his 29-year-old companion from West Virginia.

Medina County sheriff's deputies said Wright was found hiding inside the service station by deputies investigating a report of a break-in.

Wadsworth police fired at Wright's companion when he ran into the wooded section. Deputies said the youth's car was found parked a quarter mile from the service station.

The state highway patrol joined Wadsworth police and sheriff's deputies in the search for the youth who fled.

Ex-Newspaperman Claimed By Leukemia

LOS ANGELES (AP) —Kyle Palmer, who spent much of his 45-year newspaper career as political editor of the Los Angeles Times, is dead of leukemia at the age of 70.

Palmer had received about 100 blood transfusions in recent months. He died Tuesday at his Malibu home.

Palmer joined the old Los Angeles Evening Express at the age of 21 and went to the Times seven years later. He became political editor in 1939 and retired last year.

British Posters Hit Cigarette Smoking

LONDON (AP) —The British government today launched a hard-hitting poster campaign against cigarette smoking.

More than 400,000 posters were dispatched to all parts of the nation.

The drive started as a result of last month's report by the Royal College of Physicians that there is a direct connection between cigarette smoking and lung cancer.

Barking Dog, His Mistress Lead To Escapees' Capture

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)—"With a little bit of luck," and "If we hadn't been trapped" were some musings of five San Quentin convicts on their way from 29 hours of freedom to 29 days in solitary.

The quintet fled up a ladder, over the prison wall and down a rope early Monday, planning, they said, to steal a car and drive far away.

They were back in custody today because a dog named Duke barked and his mistress had sharp eyes.

"Duke deserves all the credit," said Dorothy Worley, a Santa Venetia housewife. Duke spotted the five fugitives when, cold and hungry, they stopped to sleep early Tuesday on a hillside behind her home, less than 10 miles from San Quentin.

Mrs. Worley spotted three of the escapees. A quick call to the sheriff, a speedy response, and the five meekly surrendered.

James Dubois, 29, insisted he would have fought guards if he hadn't been trapped.

John L. Rucker, 31, said he was convinced that "with a little bit of luck, we'd have made it." Then he admitted that if Mrs. Worley hadn't spotted them "it would have been someone else."

Kenneth E. Adams, 32, said he could have made it. The other escapees were J. F. Spatola, 31, and G. C. Roark, 27.

They face escape charges which could add one-year-to-life sentences to their present terms for crimes ranging from drunken driving to robbery.

Parkersburg Voters Elect Brown Mayor

PARKERSBURG (AP) — Voters of this Ohio River city have restored 47-year-old William G. Brown to the mayor's office, a position he held from 1953 to 1956.

With 45.6 per cent of the electorate participating in yesterday's municipal election, Brown, an attorney and builder, defeated Mayor Dean T. Jackson, also 47, by 7,145 votes to 5,625.

Brown and four councilmen will assume three-year terms April 16.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate has received from President Kennedy nominations for Ohio postmasterships at Avon Lake (Joseph M. Bellissimo), Spencerville (Karl A. Krendl), and Wilberforce (Claude M. McGee.)

Air Force, Navy Are Jostling On Nuclear Testing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force and Navy reportedly are jostling for a greater share of the limited number of nuclear weapons tests to be conducted in the Pacific later this month.

The final decision on the specific makeup of the tests is up to President Kennedy, acting on the recommendation of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and scientific experts from the Pentagon, the Atomic Energy Commission and the White House.

There has been no official word on the number of tests planned, but it is understood there will be about three dozen shots. Some will come at altitudes of several hundred miles.

Sources said there is virtually no chance that any missiles which may be fired by combat crews in the upcoming tests will pass over populated areas of the United States. In all likelihood, they will be fired from Vandenberg Air Force Base in California out over the Pacific.

Ohio Man Arrested For Unlawful Flight

LITTLETON, Mass. (AP) — A man identified as Robert S. Egan, 41, of Cleveland, wanted by the FBI for unlawful flight to avoid prosecution, was arrested at a Littleton motel today by Massachusetts State Police Sgt. John J. Julik.

Egan was held for arraignment before a U.S. commissioner in Boston. State police said he is wanted in Cleveland for passing bad checks.

In Argentina Elections

Peronist Leader Urges Vote Victory Recognition

BUENOS AIRES (AP)— Peronist leader Andres Framini today demanded "absolute and unconditional" recognition of the Peronists' sweeping victories in the March 18 elections.

In his first public statement since Argentina's military command ousted President Arturo Frondizi and replaced him with Senate President Jose Maria Guido, Framini said the Peronists were "willing to participate in the national reconstruction, but not to give legitimacy through our support to an unjust, illegal and anti-national regime."

Framini, a trade union leader whose victory in the race for governor of Buenos Aires Province was swept away by government decree, said that if the Peronist victories are recognized, the Peronists offer as a contribution to national peace their "irrevocable decision to forget the harm and persecutions suffered in the recent crisis."

He also called for the liberation of all political prisoners, amnesty for all exiled Argentines—presumably including ex-dictator Juan Peron, a new economic program to replace Frondizi's austerity and a review of all obligations considered harmful to Argentine sovereignty.

He did not elaborate on the last point but nationalist circles contend agreements with the United States and U.S. business are unfavorable to the expansion of local industry.

The military ousted Peron in 1955 and barred his party from organized political activity.

Flight, 15 Years In Making, Slated For Happy Landing

CINCINNATI (AP)—A flight — 15 years in the making—from behind the Iron Curtain is scheduled for a happy ending today at the Greater Cincinnati Airport.

On the flight will be Cincinnati-born Mrs. Elizabeth Wenzel and her husband, John, a native of Romania.

Mrs. Wenzel was born in the Over-the-Rhine area of Cincinnati a half-century ago as Elizabeth Lech. While she was a child, her parents took her back to Groszjecia, a village near Bucharest in Romania.

She returned to Cincinnati in her teens, but went back to Romania in 1932. There she married John Wenzel, a machinist. They lived through World War II in Romania.

Shortly after the war, Mrs. Wenzel began making applications to return to the United States. The Romanian government turned her down.

Her sister, Mrs. John S. Yass of Cincinnati, took up the fight, writing to congressmen and public officials. Both former Rep. William E. Hess and Rep. Donald Clancy, R-Ohio, helped.

The Romanian government finally granted the Wenzels permission last Friday to leave the country. They arrived in New York Late Tuesday night.

Mrs. Yass' husband said the couple will stay at first with a niece and that Wenzel will get a job at his garage and auto repair shop.

Boy In Custody, One Sought In Break-In Attempt

MEDINA, Ohio (AP) — One youth was in police custody and his companion was sought today in connection with a reported break-in at a service station near Wadsworth late Tuesday night.

Held for investigation was Bill Wright, 19, of New York. A manhunt was on in the rural area around Wadsworth for his 29-year-old companion from West Virginia.

Medina County sheriff's deputies said Wright was found hiding inside the service station by deputies investigating a report of a break-in.

Wadsworth police fired at Wright's companion when he ran into the wooded section. Deputies said the youth's car was found parked a quarter mile from the service station.

The state highway patrol joined Wadsowrth police and sheriff's deputies in the search for the youth who fled.

The first cattle on the American continents were those transported by Columbus in 1493.

LOS ANGELES (AP) —Kyle Palmer, who spent much of his 45-year newspaper career as political editor of the Los Angeles Times, is dead of leukemia at the age of 70.

Palmer had received about 100 blood transfusions in recent months. He died Tuesday at his Malibu home.

Palmer joined the old Los Angeles Evening Express at the age of 21 and went to the Times seven years later. He became political editor in 1939 and retired last year.

British Posters Hit Cigarette Smoking

LONDON (AP) —The British government today launched a hard-hitting poster campaign against cigarette smoking.

More than 400,000 posters were dispatched to all parts of the nation.

The drive started as a result of last month's report by the Royal College of Physicians that there is a direct connection between cigarette smoking and lung cancer.

Barking Dog, His Mistress Lead To Escapees' Capture

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP)—"With a little bit of luck," and "If we hadn't been trapped" were some musings of five San Quentin convicts on their way from 29 hours of freedom to 29 days in solitary.

The quintet fled up a ladder, over the prison wall and down a rope early Monday, planning, they said, to steal a car and drive far away.

They were back in custody today because a dog named Duke barked and his mistress had sharp eyes.

"Duke deserves all the credit," said Dorothy Worley, a Santa Venetia housewife. Duke spotted the five fugitives when, cold and hungry, they stopped to sleep early Tuesday on a hillside behind her home, less than 10 miles from San Quentin.

Mrs. Worley spotted three of the escapees. A quick call to the sheriff, a speedy response, and the five meekly surrendered.

James Dubois, 29, insisted he would have fought guards if he hadn't been trapped.

John L. Rucker, 31, said he was convinced that "with a little bit of luck, we'd have made it." Then he admitted that if Mrs. Worley hadn't spotted them "it would have been someone else."

Kenneth E. Adams, 32, said he could have made it. The other escapees were J. F. Spatola, 31, and G. C. Roark, 27.

They face escape charges which could add one-year-to-life sentences to their present terms for crimes ranging from drunken driving to robbery.

Driver Dozes And Wrecks

A New Cumberland area man was injured slightly when he fell asleep at the wheel of his car and struck a utility pole early Monday morning, Hancock County sheriff's deputies reported today.

William McPherson, 29, of R. D. 2 was treated at City Hospital for skull and left knee injuries received in the crash at 2:10 a. m. on State Route 2 south of the county seat.

Deputies said he was returning home after working two shifts at the Weirton Steel Co. No charges were filed.

Deputies investigated 13 traffic accidents in March, the office of Sheriff Joseph H. Manypenny said today in its monthly report.

The accidents involved 19 vehicles, and 10 persons were injured. Deputies estimated damage at $7,450.

Deputies rolled up 10,300 miles on cruisers in serving 173 court papers and patroling the county.

They made 22 arrests during the month. Deputies confined 19 prisoners during March, while seven were confined by Weirton police, seven by New Cumberland Chief William Webster, two by West Virginia State Police and one by Chester police.

There were 27 misdemeanor and nine felony charges filed. In addition, there were eight juveniles, five "sleepers" and two mental patients confined in the County Jail during March.

The sheriff's office released 46 prisoners during the month, and 14 still were in custody on March 31.

Deputies made three trips to Weston State Hospital, and one each to the Girls Industrial School at Salem, Moundsville State Penitentiary and Texas.

Keith Langdon, speech-arts teacher of East Liverpool High School, is directing the three-act comedy to be presented Friday and Saturday nights at 8 at the Westgate School Auditorium. Tom Futhey is assisting with lighting. Tickets may be purchased at the door.

Businessmen Pick Date For Spring Event

The annual spring outing of the East Liverpool Merchants Association is scheduled Wednesday, May 16, Leslie Blumenthal, chairman of the committee on arrangements, reported Tuesday at a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce office.

As in the past, the outing will be highlighted by a trip to Pittsburgh by chartered bus to see a baseball game between the Pirates and the Milwaukee Braves, Blumenthal said. Dinner at a Pittsburgh restaurant will precede the game.

In other business, ELMA voted to place in the hands of a special five-man committee the question of conducting a so-called shopper's survey to determine preferences in store hours and other factors relating to retail business.

The motion instructed the committee to make a complete study of the question and then submit suggestions to the group. Ralph A. Finley, chairman of the association, will name the committee.

Donald Baxter asked the ELMA members to support the Chamber's part in the annual citywide spring cleanup campaign, expected to be conducted in early May.

Sweeping Order By U.S. Judge

Desegregation Ordered For New Orleans Schools

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — U.S. Dist. Judge J. Skelly Wright has thrown out an intregation slowdown law and ordered desegregation of the first six grades of all New Orleans public schools next fall.

The sweeping order Tuesday brought from a Louisiana legislative leader promises of drastic action next month. Members of the Orleans Parish Board said they would appeal.

Token desegregation is now in effect in six scattered elementary schools in the city.

Wright's ruling came a week after Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel ordered desegregation of all Catholic parochial and private schools next fall and in the midst of a furore over excommunication threats against some leading Catholic segregationists.

In addition to speeding up desegregation, Wright's order declared the application of Louisiana's pupil placement law in New Orleans unconstitutional. He did not rule on its application in the rest of the state. Every Louisiana city operates a segregated school system.

This knocked out one of the last rear-guard actions by the Louisiana Legislature. State Sen. E. W. Gravolet said legislators may have an answer and promised drastic action, but he didn't say what that would be.

Theodore H. Shepard Jr., president of the Orleans Parish School Board, said he "almost definitely" will call a special meeting Friday to authorize an appeal.

Wright, 49, a native New Orleanian and a federal judge for 11 years, issued the original order desegregating the city's public schools. When the order was implemented on Nov. 14, 1960, white parents withdrew their children almost en masse from the two elementary schools which accepted Negro first graders.

Gov. Jimmie H. Davis took control of the city's schools in an attempt to head off desegregation, but the action was nullified by a panel of federal judges.

Last fall the number of integrated schools in the city increased to six with only 12 Negro children attending previously all-white classes.

Board Raises 1962 Budget

The Western Beaver County Board of Education Monday evening adopted a tentative budget of $700,714.28 for the school year, which is $161,161 higher than the final budget of $539,553 adopted last June.

The budget increase is due mainly to the district's new junior-senior high school which opens in September and allows for personnel, including 24 new secondary teachers and new maintenance workers, and equipment to staff the new building, the office of Frank Meredith, supervising principal, said.

The board also tentatively adopted tax rates with the only increase in the real estate tax, from 20 to 30 mills. Other taxes remain the same, wage or income tax, 10 mills, and the per capita tax of $12, which includes $5 under the school code and $7 under Act 481.

Final adoption will be made in 30 days. James P. McClaskey, president, presided at the meeting at the Ray W. Snyder elementary school in Industry. Bills of $11,176.84 were ordered paid.

Next meeting is May 7.

Council Airs Zoning Plan

Georgetown Borough Council held a public hearing Monday evening at a special meeting on a new zoning ordinance but discussion between councilmen and residents attending held up passage on first reading, it was reported.

Moore read the ordinance and explained parts, heard complaints and answered questions. Tony Decapio, president, presided.

Jersey Kegler 2nd In ABC All-Events

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—Pat D'Apolito of Hillside, N.J., jolted the American Bowling Congress tournament out of a siege of doldrums Tuesday by piling up a nine-game total of 1958, enough to earn second place in the regular all-events.

The 32-year-old tailor rolled 684 in the team event Monday night and returned to shoot 618 in the doubles and 656 in the singles. Despite his big total, D'Apolito was still far off the 2007 pace set by southpaw John Blum of Austin, Minn., March 7.

D'Apolito also paired with Henry Martin, 40, for the best regular doubles total of the day, 1276. Martin supplied 658.

Jury's Probe Continues In Bribery Case

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cuyahoga County grand jury was to continue investigating today the case of an ex-convict accused of bribing a juror in a 625,000 civil suit.

Held in county jail in lieu of $10,000 bond is Ernest Constantine, 39. He is charged with giving $200 to Mrs. Eleanora J. Stewart, 43, a juror and Cleveland widow of four.

County Prosecutor John T. Corrigan Tuesday quoted Constantine as saying he also bribed two other jurors in the same case.

Corrigan said Constantine told him when he was arrested last Friday that he also paid $1,400 to a second juror and an undetermined amount to a third.

All served on a jury that heard the case James T. Gallick won against the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad in 1959. Gallick claimed he got an insect bite while working for the railroad near a pond and the resulting infection cost him both legs.

Corrigan said there was no evidence the money given Mrs. Stewart influenced her vote. She voted for the judgment. The prosecutor also cleared the other two jurors, both of whom he said have denied being approached.

Police said Constantile told authorities when he was arrested that he bribed Mrs. Stewart in "behalf of other parties" to get her to vote in favor of the plaintiff.

Constantine's case on the bribery charge has been continued in Municipal Court until April 12. At the time of the alleged bribe he worked as a bartender at a downtown tavern. He served two years in Ohio Penitentiary for armed robbery in the early 1940s.

The $625,000 award was reversed by the Court of Appeals in March 1961 and has been carried to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Yanks Favored In 'One-Sided' American Loop Race

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The Yankees. Who else?

One of the greatest power-hitting teams of all time, the New York Yankees have virtually everything going for them. They have a strong pitching staff, the best infield, the best catching and the most powerful one-two punch in baseball.

If that's not enough — and it should be—the Yankees have fortified their bench and have added some of the finest looking young prospects seen this spring. All this plus high morale and the cool, calm and efficient leadership of Manager Ralph Houk add up to a one-sided pennant race with the finish coming sooner than last year.

Detroit's Tigers again figure to provide the most stubborn opposition mainly because of an excellent outfield headed by Al Kaline and Rocky Colavito, American League batting king Norm Cash, the front-line pitching headed by Frank Lary, Jim Bunning and Don Mossi, and the improvement of infielders Steve Boros and Jake Wood.

Detroit Picked 2nd, Baltimore 3rd

No other club figures to be close. Chicago's White Sox improved their balance by exchanging old players for younger ones but they sacrificed a good percentage of their power and don't appear to have improved their pitching unless Herb Score stages a spectacular comeback and rookies Joel Horlen and Gary Peters come through.

Cleveland's Indians picked up pitching strength by the acquisition of Dick Donovan and Pedro Ramos and the promotion of Sam McDowell, their $70,000 bonus darling. They should be a more closely united group under their new manager, Mel McGaha, but they still lack power.

The Baltimore Orioles have been the hardest hit of last year's contenders. Their once superb pitching staff is depleted by an injury to Jack Fisher, illness of Milt Pappas and the call to the Army of Steve Barber, ace of the staff. The addition of John (Boog) Powell, prize rookie, the development of Jim Gentile into a feared batter, and the presence of Brooks Robinson, a star of first magnitude, make the Orioles an offensive threat for the first time.

The remaining five clubs all appear to have improved somewhat but not sufficiently to crack into the first division.

Here is how this observer rates them:

1. New York
2. Detroit
3. Baltimore
4. Chicago
5. Cleveland
6. Minnesota
7. Boston
8. Los Angeles
9. Washington
10. Kansas City

Benny Paret Never Had Chance To Pull Out From Injury

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press sports Writer.

NEW YORK (AP) — Benny (Kid) Paret never had a chance to come out of it.

Physicians knew the odds were only 10,000 to 1 that Paret would beat the severe brain injury he suffered in losing his world welterweight championship to Emile Griffith in Madison Square Garden 11 days ago.

Early Tuesday morning, the odds caught up with Paret. At 1:55 a.m. a nurse walked out of the special care unit at Roosevelt Hospital and told Paret's manager, Manuel Alfaro, softly:

"He's dead."

So today, burial plans are being made for him while crowds mill around the funeral home in the Spanish-speaking section of the city. Paret will be buried in Miami where he made his home.

The distraught Griffith also said he would pay his respects and offered any kind of help to Paret's widow, Lucy, who is expecting her second child in about five months.

"I will do everything in my power to help," said Griffith. "That means money or any other assistance I can render."

Griffith said, shocked as he was at the turn of events, he was not planning on retiring.

"But," he said, "it will be some time before I fight again."

Meantime New York Dist. Atty. Frank Hogan stepped up his investigation "to determine if culpable negligence is involved."

And at Vatican City, L'Osservatore Romano, the Vatican daily newspaper commented editorially that professional boxing is "an immoral sport" that "cannot be absolved" in Paret's death.

Putting Worries Palmer As Masters Approaches

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Arnold Palmer, who is not scared of the devil himself, goes after his third Masters golf title in five years Thursday with a couple of serious concerns — Augusta National's formidable greens and Jackie Nicklaus.

"The greens are going to fool a lot of people," the tournament favorite from Latrobe, Pa., said today. "They've changed the texture on some of the greens and, while I don't think they'll be any faster, they're going to be harder to read."

The Bermuda greens on the last nine holes of the golf course were sowed with a different type grass intended to give them a smoother putting surface. The first nine greens were left unchanged.

"My putting is the only thing bothering me," said Palmer, an 8-1 pre-tournament choice against a lineup of some 100 of the world's best amateur and professional golfers. "My only consolation is that I know the other fellows will be having trouble on the greens, too."

Asked who he thought might give him the toughest run for it, Palmer was quick with the answer.

"Well, Nicklaus has to be reckoned with. I've been playing with him in practice. He has been hitting the ball a ton. If he can putt these greens, he can be awfully though."

Besides Palmer and Nicklaus, the most highly regarded contenders are Ben Hogan, whose improved putting has projected him into a threatening role at the age of 49; Doug Sanders, the Georgian with the so-called telephone booth swing, and Bill Casper Jr., former National Open champion who is giving the boys putting lessons in practice.

Brown Isn't Pleased Over Meeting Giants In Opener

CLEVELAND (AP)— Cleveland Browns Coach Paul Brown isn't too pleased over the prospect of playing the National Football League's defending champion New York Giants in the 1962 season opener.

A 14-game schedule has been announced by the league.

The Browns are tied in overall play with the Giants; each team has won 11 games and tied two. They will open here Sunday, Sept. 16. The Giants beat the Browns 37-21 in their first meeting last year and they tied 7-7 in the closing game of the season.

"We had hoped to build up to that game," Brown said Tuesday. "We have made a number of changes while indications are that the Giants will be pretty much a set team."

The rest of the Browns' schedule:

Lakers Give Schaus Scare Before Gaining NBA Finals

DETROIT (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers made it into the National Basketball Association playoffs—but only after they nearly turned Coach Fred Schaus into a cardiac case.

The Lakers lost a 24-point lead before they licked the Detroit Pistons 123-117 Tuesday night and captured their best-of-seven Western Division final series 4-2.

Now the Lakers must await the outcome of the Eastern Division finals, knotted 3-3, between the Boston Celtics and the Philadelphia Warriors.

The Warriors beat Boston 109-99 Tuesday night. The rubber seventh game will be played Thursday in Boston with the Lakers starting the championship series with the winner Saturday.

Catcher's Interference Most Important Change

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The umpires have held several informal discussion periods during the exhibition baseball season, working on the new rules that were passed last December. The most important changes involve catcher's interference and obstruction plays.

Under the old rules, interference with a batter by a catcher —or any fielder—entitled the batter to first base without liability to be put out. The new rule gives the manager of the batting team an option to decline the interference penalty and accept the play.

Larry Napp, veteran American League umpire, explained it this way:

"Suppose there is a runner on third base who scored while the batter was being thrown out at first after being interfered with. Under the old rule, the runner would have to go back to third and the batter would be awarded first base.

"Under the new rule, the manager may advise the plate umpire that he wants to accept the play, instead of the penalty. In other words, he would accept the run scoring and let the batter be called out."

The other important rule change involves an obstruction play when a fielder blocks off a runner or impedes his progress.

Augi Donatelli, a leading National League umpire, gave this explanation of the new rule:

"If there is obstruction on a rundown play, say between second and third, the runner is awarded the next base ahead of his last position. In the past the placing of the runner depended on whether he was trying to get back to the base he just left or trying to advance an additional base."

NFL Sets 14-Week, 98-Game Card In '62

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Football League has put together a 14-week, 98-game schedule that includes among its innovation a "round-robin" between the perennial leaders of the East during the first three weeks of the season.

The main departure from tradition sends the New York Giants, defending Eastern champions, into Cleveland for a battle with the Browns opening day. The Giants then move into Philadelphia, then the following week the Eagles and Browns clash at Philadelphia to conclude the showdown series.

Play under the schedule starts Sept. 16 and ends Dec. 16.

Mount Union Loses

SHEPHERDSTOWN, W. Va. (AP) — Mount Union College's touring baseball team couldn't overcome a nine-run second inning and lost to Shepherd College 10-5 Tuesday. Chuck Kovach hit a three-run homer for the Alliance, Ohio, team which lost its first game in two tries.

Reds' Harper Will Start At 3rd Base

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—When the umpire yells "play ball" at Crosley Field next Monday, the fellow playing third base for the Cincinnati Reds may well be Tommy Harper.

Harper, a chunky 21-year-old from Berkeley, Calif., has been one of the pleasant surprises of the exhibition season.

He got two singles Tuesday as the Minnesota Twins shut out the Reds, 5-0. Only three Reds got any hits at all—shortstop Eddie Kasko, who got two singles, second baseman Cookie Rojas with a single and a double, and Harper.

Harper makes fielding errors—four of them so far. But he's also hit four doubles and two home runs. The first time Manager Fred Hutchinson put him in the line-up, he hit a double and helped the Reds beat the New York Mets.

The next time he played, he hit a home run. A week later, he hit a home run and a double the same day. And the days he's been hitless have been few.

The Reds are playing the Kansas City Athletes today in their last game this year at Lopez Field. The National League champions break camp tonight for a trip to Savannah, Ga.

Farmhand Helps Rangers Square Hockey Playoffs

NEW YORK (AP)—Rod Gilbert is a quietly confident young man who was toiling in hockey's hinterlands a week ago. Today he looms as a key man in New York's hopes of pulling out a victory in its Stanley Cup semifinal series with Toronto.

Gilbert, summoned from the Rangers' Kitchner, Ont. farm team last week to fill injury vacancies, scored two goals and set up the winner Tuesday night as the Rangers beat the Leafs 4-2 and squared their best-of-7 series at 2-2.

The series now shifts to Toronto—where the Leafs won all nine previous games with New York this season — for the fifth and sixth games, Thursday and Saturday. The seventh, if necessary, will be played in New York next Tuesday.

Gilbert, a baby-faced, 20-year-old wing in his first year of professional hockey, was credited with an assist in New York's Sunday victory.

Businessmen Pick Date For Spring Event

The annual spring outing of the East Liverpool Merchants Association is scheduled Wednesday, May 16, Leslie Blumenthal, chairman of the committee on arrangements, reported Tuesday at a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce office.

As in the past, the outing will be highlighted by a trip to Pittsburgh by chartered bus to see a baseball game between the Pirates and the Milwaukee Braves, Blumenthal said. Dinner at a Pittsburgh restaurant will precede the game.

In other business, ELMA voted to place in the hands of a special five-man committee the question of conducting a so-called shopper's survey to determine preferences in store hours and other factors relating to retail business.

The motion instructed the committee to make a complete study of the question and then submit suggestions to the group. Ralph A. Finley, chairman of the association, will name the committee.

Donald Baxter asked the ELMA members to support the Chamber's part in the annual citywide spring cleanup campaign, expected to be conducted in early May.

Baxter is chairman of a subcommittee of the civic and community affairs committee, which is in charge of the Chamber's phase in the cleanup campaign. He requested the merchants to support the campaign and help publicize it by mentioning it in their newspaper advertisements.

The members voted to take out a membership in the National Retail Merchants Association, which has its headquarters in New York City. The membership will entitle ELMA to information on retail problems and subscriptions to a monthly magazine and a Washington newsletter.

Later Store Hours Scheduled April 18

Store representatives attending a meeting of the East Liverpool Merchants Association Tuesday agreed their business places will remain open until 5 p. m. instead of closing at noon on Wednesday, April 18, because of the Easter shopping season.

The merchants also agreed that employes will be granted time off in the afternoon on Good Friday, April 20, to attend Good Friday services, if they wish. However, stores will remain open as usual.

Sweeping Order By U.S. Judge

Desegregation Ordered For New Orleans Schools

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — U.S. Dist. Judge J. Skelly Wright has thrown out an intregation slowdown law and ordered desegregation of the first six grades of all New Orleans public schools next fall.

The sweeping order Tuesday brought from a Louisiana legislative leader promises of drastic action next month. Members of the Orleans Parish Board said they would appeal.

Token desegregation is now in effect in six scattered elementary schools in the city.

Wright's ruling came a week after Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel ordered desegregation of all Catholic parochial and private schools next fall and in the midst of a furore over excommunication threats against some leading Catholic segregationists.

In addition to speeding up desegregation, Wright's order declared the application of Louisiana's pupil placement law in New Orleans unconstitutional. He did not rule on its application in the rest of the state. Every Louisiana city operates a segregated school system.

This knocked out one of the last rear-guard actions by the Louisiana Legislature. State Sen. E. W. Gravolet said legislators may have an answer and promised drastic action, but he didn't say what that would be.

Theodore H. Shepard Jr., president of the Orleans Parish School Board, said he "almost definitely" will call a special meeting Friday to authorize an appeal.

Wright, 49, a native New Orleanian and a federal judge for 11 years, issued the original order desegregating the city's public schools. When the order was implemented on Nov. 14, 1960, white parents withdrew their children almost en masse from the two elementary schools which accepted Negro first graders.

Gov. Jimmie H. Davis took control of the city's schools in an attempt to head off desegregation, but the action was nullified by a panel of federal judges.

Last fall the number of integrated schools in the city increased to six with only 12 Negro children attending previously all-white classes.

Board Raises 1962 Budget

The Western Beaver County Board of Education Monday evening adopted a tentative budget of $700,714.28 for the school year, which is $161,161 higher than the final budget of $539,553 adopted last June.

The budget increase is due mainly to the district's new junior-senior high school which opens in September and allows for personnel, including 24 new secondary teachers and new maintenance workers, and equipment to staff the new building, the office of Frank Meredith, supervising principal, said.

The board also tentatively adopted tax rates with the only increase in the real estate tax, from 20 to 30 mills. Other taxes remain the same, wage or income tax, 10 mills, and the per capita tax of $12, which includes $5 under the school code and $7 under Act 481.

Final adoption will be made in 30 days. James P. McClaskey, president, presided at the meeting at the Ray W. Snyder elementary school in Industry. Bills of $11,176.84 were ordered paid.

Next meeting is May 7.

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—Pat D'Apolito of Hillside, N.J., jolted the American Bowling Congress tournament out of a siege of doldrums Tuesday by piling up a nine-game total of 1958, enough to earn second place in the regular all-events.

The 32-year-old tailor rolled 684 in the team event Monday night and returned to shoot 618 in the doubles and 656 in the singles. Despite his big total, D'Apolito was still far off the 2007 pace set by southpaw John Blum of Austin, Minn., March 7.

D'Apolito also paired with Henry Martin, 40, for the best regular doubles total of the day, 1276. Martin supplied 658.

Jury's Probe Continues In Bribery Case

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Cuyahoga County grand jury was to continue investigating today the case of an ex-convict accused of bribing a juror in a 625,000 civil suit.

Held in county jail in lieu of $10,000 bond is Ernest Constantine, 39. He is charged with giving $200 to Mrs. Eleanora J. Stewart, 43, a juror and Cleveland widow of four.

County Prosecutor John T. Corrigan Tuesday quoted Constantine as saying he also bribed two other jurors in the same case.

Corrigan said Constantine told him when he was arrested last Friday that he also paid $1,400 to a second juror and an undetermined amount to a third.

All served on a jury that heard the case James T. Gallick won against the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad in 1959. Gallick claimed he got an insect bite while working for the railroad near a pond and the resulting infection cost him both legs.

Corrigan said there was no evidence the money given Mrs. Stewart influenced her vote. She voted for the judgment. The prosecutor also cleared the other two jurors, both of whom he said have denied being approached.

Police said Constantile told authorities when he was arrested that he bribed Mrs. Stewart in "behalf of other parties" to get her to vote in favor of the plaintiff.

Constantine's case on the bribery charge has been continued in Municipal Court until April 12. At the time of the alleged bribe he worked as a bartender at a downtown tavern. He served two years in Ohio Penitentiary for armed robbery in the early 1940s.

The $625,000 award was reversed by the Court of Appeals in March 1961 and has been carried to the U.S. Supreme Court.

Arcaro Announces Retirement After 30 Years In Saddle

Eddie To Enter Business With American Tote Co.

By JOHN CHANDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Arcaro, one of the great athletes of modern times, has come to the end of his brilliant career after 30 years in the saddle. But, he might have stuck around another year if Jaipur had been nominated for the Kentucky Derby.

The great 46-year-old jockey made official his retirement Tuesday night.

Arcaro probably has ridden more great horses than any jockey in American turf history. He quit as the greatest money rider of all time. No other rider has won five Kentucky Derbies, six Preakness and six Belmont stakes.

"But," and he paused with a resigned smile, "I sincerely believe that if Mr. Widener was going to run Jaipur in the derby, I'd have stayed around another year."

Jaipur was one of the top 2-year-olds of 1961, and Arcaro rode him. But George D. Widener, chairman of The Jockey Club and former president of Belmont Park has a consuming desire to win the Belmont Stakes.

He didn't name Jaipur for the May 5 derby, and the colt hasn't raced since last fall.

Arcaro listed three main reasons for retiring:

"One, I'm 46 years old.

"Two, I became bored with riding.

"Three, I had this business opportunity."

He will be field representative for the American Totalisator Co., which leases the "tote" machines at race tracks.

Arcaro's mounts earned a total of $1,606,707 in 1961, and his 10 per cent gave him a salary of $160,670.

'I feel like I'm leaving on top. If you had to mention the top five riders in the country today, I'm ham enough to think I'd have to be among them."

JOCKEY EDDIE ARCARO, forced to watch his diet during his racing career, digs into a dish of food after announcing his retirement at a press conference Tuesday in New York. Arcaro, the greatest money winner of them all, whose mounts won a million dollars in purses for each of his 30 years in the saddle, rode in 24,092 races. (UPI Telephoto)

Bobby Jones Had Urged Nicklaus Not To Turn Pro

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Bob Jones acknowledged today he had written Jack Nicklaus a letter last fall, urging Nicklaus not to turn professional.

"I must admit I was disappointed when Jack turned pro," the Grand Slam king from Atlanta said, "but no one can blame him—with that kind of money as a lure.

"I put in my two cents' worth. I told Jack I felt that he had a chance to reach a position in golf as an amateur which he would never be able to gain as a professional. I can understand and sympathize with his position, however."

Nicklaus, the 1961 national amateur champion from Columbus, Ohio, turned professional last November. Many observers had predicted that, if he remained an amateur, he might go on to become another Bob Jones, who dominated golf as an amateur until he retired after his Grand Slam (the British Amateur and Open and the U. S. Amateur and Open) in 1930.

"Nicklaus certainly has tremendous promise," Jones said. "He has a wonderful career ahead of him as a pro. I can only think of what a tremendous boost it would have been for golf if he could have remained an amateur. But some one else will come along, I'm sure."

Injuries Claimed 10 Boxers During 1961

NEW YORK (AP)—How did the fatality rate in boxing compare with sports like football and racing in 1961?

Ten boxers died of injuries last year around the world. Four of them were in the United States.

Last fall, there were 20 deaths directly attributable to injuries received in football games, according to a report by the American Football Coaches' Association committee on injuries and fatalities. Ten were in high school, six in college and four in sandlot games.

The committee also listed 18 other deaths indirectly attributable to football.

FIELD AND STREAM

By R. L. LIDE

As this was being written, I received a call from a Lake Guilford resident saying some sort of a sea monster has been spotted in Lake Guilford.

This was the monster's description as furnished by the caller: "About 30 feet long, with a horn on the end of its nose; head two feet wide, with fangs a foot long; webbed feet something like a duck."

I had no trouble identifying the "monster" as being a Lirpa Loof. Before you get too excited, let me assure you that the Lirpa Loof doesn't exist. In case you haven't caught on, just spell the name backwards.

RECENT TEST nettings at Atwood Dam prove there is an abundance of northern pike, according to Carroll County game protector Ronnie Miller. More than 50 were taken in the nets, many of them in the 9-pound class. They usually bite when other game fish seem to be on a hunger strike.

I never could see feeding the native winter birds, since they can survive any kind of winter weather. But at this time of the year when the snow falls and you see a bunch of robins, redwing blackbirds and other migrators that made the mistake of returning north too soon it would be very nice to scatter a few spotted apples or any kind of grain so the birds can get food to tide them over.

YOU NEVER know what will show up in the way of rare birds at this time of the year. On the lot across the road from where I live I saw a mocking bird perched on top of one of those metal swings. Where he came from or where he was going, I will never know. That makes five I have seen within the past year, but I haven't heard of any nesting in this section of Ohio.

I have had numerous calls from people who say they have several hen pheasants on their premises but no cock birds.

Let me say this, if there are hens around the cockbirds will find them. The mating season has begun and if you listen real early in the morning and toward dark chances are you will hear a cock bird crowing.

Alou Finds Homer Range, Gives Giants Big Punch

By MIKE RATHET

Felipe Alou, flashy San Francisco outfielder who with brother Matty learned to play baseball in the streets of the Dominican Republic, is threatening to give the Giants the most feared 1-2-3 hitting attack in the National League.

Ordinarily a line-drive hitter, the right-handed swinger has become a homer hammerer this spring, and added another long-ball threat to a team already well stocked in that department, with Orlando Cepeda and Willie Mays.

Alou tagged No. 8—his fifth in the last three games—Tuesday, a two-run shot that carried the Giants to an 8-3 victory over Cleveland at Tucson.

Alou has accounted for 24 RBI, a .462 batting average, and 65 total bases for an astounding 1.000 slugging percentage.

While Alou was continuing his outstanding spring performance, Billy O'Dell, 29, displayed top pitching form and became the first member of the Giants' pitching staff to go nine by fashioning a five-hitter against the Indians.

Other route-going performances were turned in by Roger Craig of the New York Mets and Moe Drabowsky of Cincinnati. Craig spaced nine hits in a 5-4 victory over Chicago's White Sox at Sarasota, but Drabowsky was beaten 5-0 by Minnesota at Orlando despite hurling a seven-hitter.

Elsewhere, Pittsburgh knocked off the New York Yankees 4-1 at Fort Lauderdale, St. Louis edged Detroit 7-6 at St. Petersburg, the Los Angeles Dodgers nipped Boston 2-1 at Scottsdale, Milwaukee belted Chicago's Cubs 8-6 at Mesa, Washington defeated Baltimore 6-4 at Miami, the Los Angeles Angels outlasted Houston 10-9 at Albuquerque and Philadelphia beat Kansas City 2-1 at Clearwater.

Bobby Gene Smith stroked a triple and two singles, driving in the winning run for the Mets in the seventh as they snapped the White Sox' six-game winning streak. Camilo Pascual and rookie Joe Bonikowski combined to hurl a six-hitter that beat the Reds and Drabowsky. A two-run homer by Don Mincher in the first gave the Twins the runs they needed.

Whitey Ford and Mickey Mantle were bedded with the flu as the Yankees bowed to the Pirates when catcher Don Leppert singled across two unearned runs in the seventh to snap a 1-1 tie. Cardinal shortstop Julio Gotay knocked in the tying and winning runs on an infield single with two out in the ninth against the Tigers.

Daryl Spencer hit a homer in the fifth and Ron Fairly doubled home the winner for the Dodgers in the eighth when the Red Sox' Lu Clinton misjudged the fly ball. Eddie Mathews broke out of his slump for his first extra base hits, slamming two homers and a double for five RBI in the Braves' triumph over the Cubs.

Willie Tasby cleared the bases with a pinch-hit double in the eighth as the Senators beat the Orioles with Pete Burnside, Claude Osteen and rookie Jim Hannan combining for a six-hitter. Lee Thomas' single in a five-run eighth-inning rally produced the winner for the Angels after the Colts had taken the lead with five in the top of the inning.

Chris Short and rookie Paul Brown limited the A's to five hits while John Callison provided the Phils' runs with a two-run homer in the eighth.

Midland Nine Drops Opener

The Midland Leopard nine dropped its season exhibition opener to the Beaver Bobcats, 6-3, Tuesday afternoon at Midland.

Beaver clinched the game by pushing across four runs in the fourth off starting and losing pitcher Dave Debronz. Two of the runs were unearned.

Paul Anthony was the only player to collect more than one base hit, driving a single to center in the first inning and dropping a bloop double down the right field line in the seventh. His single in the first pushed across the first two Leopard markers.

The Leopards led by two runs until Beaver exploded in their fourth.

Beaver added single runs in the third and sixth frames and Midland pushed one across in the fifth.

Chuck Krause turned in a fine relief job for Midland. He pitched the final three innings and gave up one run, one hit, and one walk while striking out five batters.

Midland will entertain the Beaver Falls Tigers this afternoon at Crucible Field. Game time is 4.

Wounded Ice Teams Wait Cup Playoff

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—This is a day of truce while the Chicago Black Hawks and Montreal Canadiens patch up the wounded in their Stanley Cup semifinal playoffs, which reached their brutish best Tuesday night in Chicago Stadium.

The Hawks won 5-3, taking both games on home ice after losing the first two of the best-of-seven series in Montreal last week. The fifth match will be on the National Hockey League champions' rnk Thursday night and the sixth rink Thursday night and the sixth

Hawk Coach Rudy Pilous accused Montreal's Lou Fontinato of deliberately spearing Stan Mikita. Twice Fontinato went out of his way to knock Mikita to the ice as the wild 16,663 fans shouted their wrath at the big "villain."

Meanwhile, the Hawks' ace defenseman, Reg Flaming, had to have 20 stitches in a gashed lower lip and dentist work on teeth that were shoved out of line. And scoring star Bobby Hull required six stitches in a wound above his upper lip.

Giants Pound Tribe's Bell

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — "You can take this message back to the home folks: Bell shall return and he'll be okay when the bell rings."

That was Cleveland pitcher Gary Bell's comment to reporters after he was mauled by San Francisco batters in the Indians' 8-3 loss Tuesday. He gave up six runs before being yanked with none out in the fourth inning.

"The only thing that's wrong with me is my control," was Bell's analysis. "My arm feels good. It felt better today than it has all spring."

The most crushing blow against Bell was Felipe Alou's two-run homer in the fourth inning. Bell was taken out after walking the next two batters.

The Indians received word Tuesday that pitcher Jim (Mudcat) Grant would be granted military leave to play every Saturday and Sunday.

Grant has been working out at Fort Belvoir, Va. He will be allowed to play all games in Baltimore and Washington, which are near Fort Belvoir.

Jim Perry was slated to hurl against the Giants today. Sam McDowell will pitch against the Giant's B team.

Patterson Says Title Go Due In September

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson indicated today that his title bout with Sonny Liston will not be held until September.

"The way it looks now, it won't be possible in June," Patterson said after his return from a 2½-week exhibition tour of Egypt. "September seems more like it at the present time," He didn't elaborate.

Patterson said he expected an announcement within two weeks on the date and site.

Yanks Favored In 'One-Sided' American Loop Race

★ ★ ★ Detroit Picked 2nd, Baltimore 3rd ★ ★ ★

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The Yankees. Who else?

One of the greatest power-hitting teams of all time, the New York Yankees have virtually everything going for them. They have a strong pitching staff, the best infield, the best catching and the most powerful one-two punch in baseball.

If that's not enough — and it should be—the Yankees have fortified their bench and have added some of the finest looking young prospects seen this spring. All this plus high morale and the cool, calm and efficient leadership of Manager Ralph Houk add up to a one-sided pennant race with the finish coming sooner than last year.

Detroit's Tigers again figure to provide the most stubborn opposition mainly because of an excellent outfield headed by Al Kaline and Rocky Colavito, American League batting king Norm Cash, the front-line pitching headed by Frank Lary, Jim Bunning and Don Mossi, and the improvement of infielders Steve Boros and Jake Wood.

No other club figures to be close. Chicago's White Sox improved their balance by exchanging old players for younger ones but they sacrificed a good percentage of their power and don't appear to have improved their pitching unless Herb Score stages a spectacular comeback and rookies Joel Horlen and Gary Peters come through.

Cleveland's Indians picked up pitching strength by the acquisition of Dick Donovan and Pedro Ramos and the promotion of Sam McDowell, their $70,000 bonus darling. They should be a more closely united group under their new manager, Mel McGaha, but they still lack power.

The Baltimore Orioles have been the hardest hit of last year's contenders. Their once superb pitching staff is depleted by an injury to Jack Fisher, illness of Milt Pappas and the call to the Army of Steve Barber, ace of the staff. The addition of John (Boog) Powell, prize rookie, the development of Jim Gentile into a feared batter, and the presence of Brooks Robinson, a star of first magnitude, make the Orioles an offensive threat for the first time.

The remaining five clubs all appear to have improved somewhat but not sufficiently to crack into the first division.

Here is how this observer rates them:

1. New York
2. Detroit
3. Baltimore
4. Chicago
5. Cleveland
6. Minnesota
7. Boston
8. Los Angeles
9. Washington
10. Kansas City

Wellsville, Big Red Meet In Basketball Next Season

Wellsville will renew relations with Steubenville Big Red in basketball during the 1962-63 season. Big Red will appear at Wellsville Jan. 29, while the Tigers will visit Steubenville during the 1963-64 campaign.

Don Lowe, faculty manager, said that Wellsville needs one game to complete its 18-game schedule for next season.

Wellsville and Big Red will be meeting in basketball for the first time since 1956.

Benny Paret Never Had Chance To Pull Out From Injury

By ED CORRIGAN
Associated Press sports Writer.

NEW YORK (AP) — Benny (Kid) Paret never had a chance to come out of it.

Physicians knew the odds were only 10,000 to 1 that Paret would beat the severe brain injury he suffered in losing his world welterweight championship to Emile Griffith in Madison Square Garden 11 days ago.

Early Tuesday morning, the odds caught up with Paret. At 1:55 a.m. a nurse walked out of the special care unit at Roosevelt Hospital and told Paret's manager, Manuel Alfaro, softly:

"He's dead."

So today, burial plans are being made for him while crowds mill around the funeral home in the Spanish-speaking section of the city. Paret will be buried in Miami where he made his home.

The distraught Griffith also said he would pay his respects and offered any kind of help to Paret's widow, Lucy, who is expecting her second child in about five months.

"I will do everything in my power to help," said Griffith. "That means money or any other assistance I can render."

Griffith said, shocked as he was at the turn of events, he was not planning on retiring.

"But," he said, "it will be some time before I fight again."

Meantime New York Dist. Atty. Frank Hogan stepped up his investigation "to determine if culpable negligence is involved."

And at Vatican City, L'Osservatore Romano, the Vatican daily newspaper commented editorially that professional boxing is "an immoral sport" that "cannot be absolved" in Paret's death.

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Arnold Palmer, who is not scared of the devil himself, goes after his third Masters golf title in five years Thursday with a couple of serious concerns — Augusta National's formidable greens and Jackie Nicklaus.

"The greens are going to fool a lot of people," the tournament favorite from Latrobe, Pa., said today. "They've changed the texture on some of the greens and, while I don't think they'll be any faster, they're going to be harder to read."

The Bermuda greens on the last nine holes of the golf course were sowed with a different type grass intended to give them a smoother putting surface. The first nine greens were left unchanged.

"My putting is the only thing bothering me," said Palmer, an 8-1 pre-tournament choice against a lineup of some 100 of the world's best amateur and professional golfers. "My only consolation is that I know the other fellows will be having trouble on the greens, too."

Asked who he thought might give him the toughest run for it, Palmer was quick with the answer.

"Well, Nicklaus has to be reckoned with. I've been playing with him in practice. He has been hitting the ball a ton. If he can putt these greens, he can be awfully though."

Besides Palmer and Nicklaus, the most highly regarded contenders are Ben Hogan, whose improved putting has projected him into a threatening role at the age of 49; Doug Sanders, the Georgian with the so-called telephone booth swing, and Bill Casper Jr., former National Open champion who is giving the boys putting lessons in practice.

Brown Isn't Pleased Over Meeting Giants In Opener

CLEVELAND (AP)— Cleveland Browns Coach Paul Brown isn't too pleased over the prospect of playing the National Football League's defending champion New York Giants in the 1962 season opener.

A 14-game schedule has been announced by the league.

The Browns are tied in overall play with the Giants; each team has won 11 games and tied two. They will open here Sunday, Sept. 16. The Giants beat the Browns 37-21 in their first meeting last year and they tied 7-7 in the closing game of the season.

"We had hoped to build up to that game," Brown said Tuesday. "We have made a number of changes while indications are that the Giants will be pretty much a set team."

The rest of the Browns' schedule:

Catcher's Interference Most Important Change

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The umpires have held several informal discussion periods during the exhibition baseball season, working on the new rules that were passed last December. The most important changes involve catcher's interference and obstruction plays.

Under the old rules, interference with a batter by a catcher —or any fielder—entitled the batter to first base without liability to be put out. The new rule gives the manager of the batting team an option to decline the interference penalty and accept the play.

Larry Napp, veteran American League umpire, explained it this way:

"Suppose there is a runner on third base who scored while the batter was being thrown out at first after being interfered with. Under the old rule, the runner would have to go back to third and the batter would be awarded first base.

"Under the new rule, the manager may advise the plate umpire that he wants to accept the play, instead of the penalty. In other words, he would accept the run scoring and let the batter be called out."

The other important rule change involves an obstruction play when a fielder blocks off a runner or impedes his progress.

Augi Donatelli, a leading National League umpire, gave this explanation of the new rule:

"If there is obstruction on a rundown play, say between second and third, the runner is awarded the next base ahead of his last position. In the past the placing of the runner depended on whether he was trying to get back to the base he just left or trying to advance an additional base."

NFL Sets 14-Week, 98-Game Card In '62

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Football League has put together a 14-week, 98-game schedule that includes among its innovation a "round-robin" between the perennial leaders of the East during the first three weeks of the season.

The main departure from tradition sends the New York Giants, defending Eastern champions, into Cleveland for a battle with the Browns opening day. The Giants then move into Philadelphia, then the following week the Eagles and Browns clash at Philadelphia to conclude the showdown series.

Play under the schedule starts Sept. 16 and ends Dec. 16.

Mount Union Loses

SHEPHERDSTOWN, W. Va. (AP) — Mount Union College's touring baseball team couldn't overcome a nine-run second inning and lost to Shepherd College 10-5 Tuesday. Chuck Kovach hit a three-run homer for the Alliance, Ohio, team which lost its first game in two tries.

Reds' Harper Will Start At 3rd Base

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—When the umpire yells "play ball" at Crosley Field next Monday, the fellow playing third base for the Cincinnati Reds may well be Tommy Harper.

Harper, a chunky 21-year-old from Berkeley, Calif., has been one of the pleasant surprises of the exhibition season.

He got two singles Tuesday as the Minnesota Twins shut out the Reds, 5-0. Only three Reds got any hits at all—shortstop Eddie Kasko, who got two singles, second baseman Cookie Rojas with a single and a double, and Harper.

Harper makes fielding errors—four of them so far. But he's also hit four doubles and two home runs. The first time Manager Fred Hutchinson put him in the line-up, he hit a double and helped the Reds beat the New York Mets.

The next time he played, he hit a home run. A week later, he hit a home run and a double the same day. And the days he's been hitless have been few.

The Reds are playing the Kansas City Athletes today in their last game this year at Lopez Field. The National League champions break camp tonight for a trip to Savannah, Ga.

Farmhand Helps Rangers Square Hockey Playoffs

NEW YORK (AP)—Rod Gilbert is a quietly confident young man who was toiling in hockey's hinterlands a week ago. Today he looms as a key man in New York's hopes of pulling out a victory in its Stanley Cup semifinal series with Toronto.

Gilbert, summoned from the Rangers' Kitchner, Ont. farm team last week to fill injury vacancies, scored two goals and set up the winner Tuesday night as the Rangers beat the Leafs 4-2 and squared their best-of-7 series at 2-2.

The series now shifts to Toronto—where the Leafs won all nine previous games with New York this season — for the fifth and sixth games, Thursday and Saturday. The seventh, if necessary, will be played in New York next Tuesday.

Gilbert, a baby-faced, 20-year-old wing in his first year of professional hockey, was credited with an assist in New York's Sunday victory.

Lakers Give Schaus Scare Before Gaining NBA Finals

DETROIT (AP) — The Los Angeles Lakers made it into the National Basketball Association playoffs—but only after they nearly turned Coach Fred Schaus into a cardiac case.

The Lakers lost a 24-point lead before they licked the Detroit Pistons 123-117 Tuesday night and captured their best-of-seven Western Division final series 4-2.

Now the Lakers must await the outcome of the Eastern Division finals, knotted 3-3, between the Boston Celtics and the Philadelphia Warriors.

The Warriors beat Boston 109-99 Tuesday night. The rubber seventh game will be played Thursday in Boston with the Lakers starting the championship series with the winner Saturday.

If Price Trends Continue

U.S. May Face Stiffer Competition On Cotton

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Agriculture Department study says the United States, as the world's largest single cotton exporter, faces stronger competition abroad if present price trends for cotton continue.

Present world cotton prices are encouraging expanded production in other countries and also is encouraging increased use of man-made fibers, the study reported.

The United States is already feeling the effects of rising trends in world cotton prices. Exports during the season ending Aug. 1 are expected to be about 5 million bales, or down 1.6 million from the preceding season.

"Higher world prices for cotton will inevitably lead to increased foreign production, and little doubt exists they will also accelerate increases in the production of man-made fibers," the report said.

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. soybeans are a better buy for foreign users this spring and summer than a year earlier despite a big boost in the government price support rate.

The Agriculture Department raised price supports from $1.85 a bushel on the 1960 crop to $2.30 on the 1961 crop. This action brought complaints from many foreign buyers.

But the higher supports encouraged a 25 per cent increase in production last year. As a consequence, market prices are running lower than a year ago when there was much speculative trading for the available supply. A year ago prices were far above the support rate. This year they are close to the rate.

The department expects soybean exports to reach a record high of 170 million bushels, up 40 million from last season. The increase will go mainly to Western Europe and Japan.

Lack Of Running Water Is Cited In 2 Fire Deaths

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP)—Lack of running water was indirectly responsible for the death of two small children in a fire in their home Tuesday.

Bernard Caffey, 18 months, and his sister, Patti, 5 months, died of burns. Another child ran to safety.

Fire Chief Paul Bing said the children's mother, Mrs. John Caffey, went to a neighbor's house for water and left the children with 4-year-old Patrick.

Bing said Patrick apparently stuck a roll of paper into a pot-bellied stove and dropped it on the floor after it ignited. He panicked and raced outside, shouting for his mother.

Mrs. Caffey carried Patti out of the house but was unable to reach Bernard. Bernard perished in the flames and Patti died several hours later.

Mr. Caffey was at work during the fire.

Peace Corps Bill Passed By House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has passed legislation that would authorize twice as much money and three times as many overseas volunteers for the Peace Corps.

The bill, sent to the Senate Tuesday by a 316-70 vote, would authorize a Peace Corps budget of $63.75 million for the year beginning July 1. Last year Congress voted $30 million to finance the training and assignment of 2,400 corpsmen to foreign posts.

Rep. Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee, said only 698 volunteers have been sent overseas so far. The extra funds, he said, would permit the number to climb to 10,000 by the end of 1963.

Township Authorities Investigate Accosting

St. Clair Township police are continuing an investigation of an accosting of a 11-year-old Glenmoor girl by a teen-age youth along the Y & & Rd. near Glenmoor Monday night.

The girl, walking home about 7 p. m. from a store, said the youth, also walking, stopped her and threatened to use a knife if she screamed. She broke loose and ran, officers reported.

Officers are also investigating the theft of a medical cabinet from a former St. Clair Ave. Ext. residence being remodeled for offices by Dr. Melbourne Burnett. The empty cabinet was taken sometime over the weekend, Chief Constable John Jackson said.

Art Rooney, owner of the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Shamrock Stable, has named one of his horses after Harold Weisman, a sports columnist for the New York Mirror.

Religious Beliefs Are Brought Into Custody Dispute

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — The religious beliefs of Dr. Curtis N. Sandage came into question as the 42-year-old bacteriologist battled in court Tuesday for custody of an 11 - year - old daughter.

"Do you believe in God?" asked William Poindexter, attorney for Mrs. Irma Sandage, a psychiatric social worker at Oxford, Ohio.

"Depends on how you define that," Sandage replied. "I believe in God if I can define it."

"Would you?"

"I prefer not."

"Would you call yourself an atheist?"

"I might, but I don't think I am."

Sandage said he has never denied his daughter, Anne, access to religious teachings.

While Sandage was prosecuting his petition for custody of Anne, Missouri Gov. John Dalton honored a request for the father's extradition to Ohio on a charge of stealing Anne from her school at Oxford Feb. 5.

The Sandages were divorced in 1959, when he was working at the Midwest Research Institute in Kansas City. Mrs. Sandage won custody of Anne and an older daughter, Lynn, 17.

Sandage charges Anne is a neglected child because his former wife favors Lynn and is busy, tired and irritable.

Akron's February Business Tops '61

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Business conditions in the Akron area in February were better than the same month a year ago, the Akron Chamber of Commerce reports.

A chamber survey released Tuesday showed fewer people were on relief rolls and department store sales, building permits and inbound and outbound freight tonnage were higher.

Average weekly earnings for the month were $107.26 in all private industry were and $120.56 in manufacturing. They were down slightly over January, but 8 to 12 per cent more than February 1961.

Schiro Elected In New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Victor H. Schiro soundly defeated his Republican opponent for a full four-year term as mayor of New Orleans.

Schiro, 58, has served as interim mayor for eight months.

His Republican opponent, E. Ross Buckley, 40, tried to capitalize on the segregation issue—which Schiro used in his primary fight—to score an upset in this traditionally Democratic Deep South city.

Schiro polled 81,623 votes in complete returns from the 351 precincts in Tuesday's general election. Buckley got 19,503—nearly four times more than his party's registered strength. Less than half of the 251,000 registered voters balloted.

deLesseps S. Morrison, the one-time boy wonder of Louisiana politics, resigned as mayor last summer to become U.S. ambassador to the Organization of American States.

3 In Hancock Attend Soil Group's Meeting

Three Hancock County men are attending the 20th anniversary program of the North Panhandle Soil Conservation District today in Wheeling.

Oliver Johnson, agricultural agent, and Shields Mayhew and C. F. Herron, both of Pughtown, were present for a business meeting this morning and a noon luncheon in the McClure Hotel.

Johnson screened a film of "Fence Building," illustrating the use of an automatic machine, at a meeting of the County Agricultural Club Monday night in New Cumberland.

There was also a discussion on soil testing, fertilizing, and use of chemicals to control weeds. Mayhew is chairman. A program on gardens will be presented at the meeting May 7 in the agricultural office in New Cumberland.

According to a recent study, the average monthly family expenditure for soft drinks is $4.48. Soft drink manufacturers spent $9.8 million in 1960 to advertise their products nationally in daily newspapers.

Arcaro Announces Retirement After 30 Years In Saddle

Eddie To Enter Business With American Tote Co.

By JOHN CHANDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Eddie Arcaro, one of the great athletes of modern times, has come to the end of his brilliant career after 30 years in the saddle. But, he might have stuck around another year if Jaipur had been nominated for the Kentucky Derby.

The great 46-year-old jockey made official his retirement Tuesday night.

Arcaro probably has ridden more great horses than any jockey in American turf history. He quit as the greatest money rider of all time. No other rider has won five Kentucky Derbies, six Preakness and six Belmont stakes.

"But," and he paused with a resigned smile, "I sincerely believe that if Mr. Widener was going to run Jaipur in the derby, I'd have stayed around another year."

Jaipur was one of the top 2-year-olds of 1961, and Arcaro rode him. But George D. Widener, chairman of The Jockey Club and former president of Belmont Park has a consuming desire to win the Belmont Stakes.

He didn't name Jaipur for the May 5 derby, and the colt hasn't raced since last fall.

Arcaro listed three main reasons for retiring:

"One, I'm 46 years old.

"Two, I became bored with riding.

"Three, I had this business opportunity."

He will be field representative for the American Totalisator Co., which leases the "tote" machines at race tracks.

Arcaro's mounts earned a total of $1,606,707 in 1961, and his 10 per cent gave him a salary of $160,670.

'I feel like I'm leaving on top. If you had to mention the top five riders in the country today, I'm ham enough to think I'd have to be among them."

JOCKEY EDDIE ARCARO, forced to watch his diet during his racing career, digs into a dish of food after announcing his retirement at a press conference Tuesday in New York. Arcaro, the greatest money winner of them all, whose mounts won a million dollars in purses for each of his 30 years in the saddle, rode in 24,092 races. (UPI Telephoto)

Bobby Jones Had Urged Nicklaus Not To Turn Pro

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — Bob Jones acknowledged today he had written Jack Nicklaus a letter last fall, urging Nicklaus not to turn professional.

"I must admit I was disappointed when Jack turned pro," the Grand Slam king from Atlanta said, "but no one can blame him—with that kind of money as a lure.

"I put in my two cents' worth. I told Jack I felt that he had a chance to reach a position in golf as an amateur which he would never be able to gain as a professional. I can understand and sympathize with his position, however."

Nicklaus, the 1961 national amateur champion from Columbus, Ohio, turned professional last November. Many observers had predicted that, if he remained an amateur, he might go on to become another Bob Jones, who dominated golf as an amateur until he retired after his Grand Slam (the British Amateur and Open and the U. S. Amateur and Open) in 1930.

"Nicklaus certainly has tremendous promise," Jones said. "He has a wonderful career ahead of him as a pro. I can only think of what a tremendous boost it would have been for golf if he could have remained an amateur. But some one else will come along, I'm sure."

Injuries Claimed 10 Boxers During 1961

NEW YORK (AP)—How did the fatality rate in boxing compare with sports like football and racing in 1961?

Ten boxers died of injuries last year around the world. Four of them were in the United States.

Last fall, there were 20 deaths directly attributable to injuries received in football games, according to a report by the American Football Coaches' Association committee on injuries and fatalities. Ten were in high school, six in college and four in sandlot games.

The committee also listed 18 other deaths indirectly attributable to football.

FIELD AND STREAM

By R. L. LIDZ

As this was being written, I received a call from a Lake Guilford resident saying some sort of a sea monster has been spotted in Lake Guilford.

This was the monster's description as furnished by the caller: "About 30 feet long, with a horn on the end of its nose; head two feet wide, with fangs a foot long; webbed feet something like a duck."

I had no trouble identifying the "monster" as being a Lirpa Loof. Before you get too excited, let me assure you that the Lirpa Loof doesn't exist. In case you haven't caught on, just spell the name backwards.

RECENT TEST nettings at Atwood Dam prove there is an abundance of northern pike, according to Carroll County game protector Ronnie Miller. More than 50 were taken in the nets, many of them in the 9-pound class. They usually bite when other game fish seem to be on a hunger strike.

I never could see feeding the native winter birds, since they can survive any kind of winter weather. But at this time of the year when the snow falls and you see a bunch of robins, redwing blackbirds and other migrators that made the mistake of returning north too soon it would be very nice to scatter a few spotted apples or any kind of grain so the birds can get food to tide them over.

YOU NEVER know what will show up in the way of rare birds at this time of the year. On the lot across the road from where I live I saw a mocking bird perched on top of one of those metal swings. Where he came from or where he was going, I will never know. That makes five I have seen within the past year, but I haven't heard of any nesting in this section of Ohio.

I have had numerous calls from people who say they have several hen pheasants on their premises but no cock birds.

Let me say this, if there are hens around the cockbirds will find them. The mating season has begun and if you listen real early in the morning and toward dark chances are you will hear a cock bird crowing.

Alou Finds Homer Range, Gives Giants Big Punch

By MIKE RATHET

Felipe Alou, flashy San Francisco outfielder who with brother Matty learned to play baseball in the streets of the Dominican Republic, is threatening to give the Giants the most feared 1-2-3 hitting attack in the National League.

Ordinarily a line-drive hitter, the right-handed swinger has become a homer hammerer this spring, and added another long-ball threat to a team already well stocked in that department, with Orlando Cepeda and Willie Mays.

Alou tagged No. 8—his fifth in the last three games—Tuesday, a two-run shot that carried the Giants to an 8-3 victory over Cleveland at Tucson.

Alou has accounted for 24 RBI, a .462 batting average, and 65 total bases for an astounding 1.000 slugging percentage.

While Alou was continuing his outstanding spring performance, Billy O'Dell, 29, displayed top pitching form and became the first member of the Giants' pitching staff to go nine by fashioning a five-hitter against the Indians.

Other route-going performances were turned in by Roger Craig of the New York Mets and Moe Drabowsky of Cincinnati. Craig spaced nine hits in a 5-4 victory over Chicago's White Sox at Sarasota, but Drabowsky was beaten 5-0 by Minnesota at Orlando despite hurling a seven-hitter.

Elsewhere, Pittsburgh knocked off the New York Yankees 4-1 at Fort Lauderdale, St. Louis edged Detroit 7-6 at St. Petersburg, the Los Angeles Dodgers nipped Boston 2-1 at Scottsdale, Milwaukee belted Chicago's Cubs 8-6 at Mesa, Washington defeated Baltimore 6-4 at Miami, the Los Angeles Angels outlasted Houston 10-9 at Albuquerque and Philadelphia beat Kansas City 2-1 at Clearwater.

Bobby Gene Smith stroked a triple and two singles, driving in the winning run for the Mets in the seventh as they snapped the White Sox' six-game winning streak. Camilo Pascual and rookie Joe Bonikowski combined to hurl a six-hitter that beat the Reds and Drabowsky. A two-run homer by Don Mincher in the first gave the Twins the runs they needed.

Whitey Ford and Mickey Mantle were bedded with the flu as the Yankees bowed to the Pirates when catcher Don Leppert singled across two unearned runs in the seventh to snap a 1-1 tie. Cardinal shortstop Julio Gotay knocked in the tying and winning runs on an infield single with two out in the ninth against the Tigers.

Daryl Spencer hit a homer in the fifth and Ron Fairly doubled home the winner for the Dodgers in the eighth when the Red Sox' Lu Clinton misjudged the fly ball. Eddie Mathews broke out of his slump for his first extra base hits, slamming two homers and a double for five RBI in the Braves' triumph over the Cubs.

Willie Tasby cleared the bases with a pinch-hit double in the eighth as the Senators beat the Orioles with Pete Burnside, Claude Osteen and rookie Jim Hannan combining for a six-hitter. Lee Thomas' single in a five-run eighth-inning rally produced the winner for the Angels after the Colts had taken the lead with five in the top of the inning.

Chris Short and rookie Paul Brown limited the A's to five hits while John Callison provided the Phils' runs with a two-run homer in the eighth.

Midland Nine Drops Opener

The Midland Leopard nine dropped its season exhibition opener to the Beaver Bobcats, 6-3, Tuesday afternoon at Midland.

Beaver clinched the game by pushing across four runs in the fourth off starting and losing pitcher Dave Debronz. Two of the runs were unearned.

Paul Anthony was the only player to collect more than one base hit, driving a single to center in the first inning and dropping a bloop double down the right field line in the seventh. His single in the first pushed across the first two Leopard markers.

The Leopards led by two runs until Beaver exploded in their fourth.

Beaver added single runs in the third and sixth frames and Midland pushed one across in the fifth.

Chuck Krause turned in a fine relief job for Midland. He pitched the final three innings and gave up one run, one hit, and one walk while striking out five batters.

Midland will entertain the Beaver Falls Tigers this afternoon at Crucible Field. Game time is 4.

Wounded Ice Teams Wait Cup Playoff

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN

CHICAGO (AP)—This is a day of truce while the Chicago Black Hawks and Montreal Canadiens patch up the wounded in their Stanley Cup semifinal playoffs, which reached their brutish best Tuesday night in Chicago Stadium.

The Hawks won 5-3, taking both games on home ice after losing the first two of the best-of-seven series in Montreal last week. The fifth match will be on the National Hockey League champions' rnk Thursday night and the sixth rink Thursday night and the sixth

Hawk Coach Rudy Pilous accused Montreal's Lou Fontinato of deliberately spearing Stan Mikita. Twice Fontinato went out of his way to knock Mikita to the ice as the wild 16,663 fans shouted their wrath at the big "villain."

Meanwhile, the Hawks' ace defenseman, Reg Flaming, had to have 20 stitches in a gashed lower lip and dentist work on teeth that were shoved out of line. And scoring star Bobby Hull required six stitches in a wound above his upper lip.

Giants Pound Tribe's Bell

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — "You can take this message back to the home folks: Bell shall return and he'll be okay when the bell rings."

That was Cleveland pitcher Gary Bell's comment to reporters after he was mauled by San Francisco batters in the Indians' 8-3 loss Tuesday. He gave up six runs before being yanked with none out in the fourth inning.

"The only thing that's wrong with me is my control," was Bell's analysis. "My arm feels good. It felt better today than it has all spring."

The most crushing blow against Bell was Felipe Alou's two-run homer in the fourth inning. Bell was taken out after walking the next two batters.

The Indians received word Tuesday that pitcher Jim (Mudcat) Grant would be granted military leave to play every Saturday and Sunday.

Grant has been working out at Fort Belvoir, Va. He will be allowed to play all games in Baltimore and Washington, which are near Fort Belvoir.

Jim Perry was slated to hurl against the Giants today. Sam McDowell will pitch against the Giant's B team.

Patterson Says Title Go Due In September

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson indicated today that his title bout with Sonny Liston will not be held until September.

"The way it looks now, it won't be possible in June," Patterson said after his return from a 2½-week exhibition tour of Egypt. "September seems more like it at the present time," He didn't elaborate.

Patterson said he expected an announcement within two weeks on the date and site.

If Price Trends Continue

U.S. May Face Stiffer Competition On Cotton

WASHINGTON (AP)—An Agriculture Department study says the United States, as the world's largest single cotton exporter, faces stronger competition abroad if present price trends for cotton continue.

Present world cotton prices are encouraging expanded production in other countries and also is encouraging increased use of man-made fibers, the study reported.

The United States is already feeling the effects of rising trends in world cotton prices. Exports during the season ending Aug. 1 are expected to be about 5 million bales, or down 1.6 million from the preceding season.

"Higher world prices for cotton will inevitably lead to increased foreign production, and little doubt exists they will also accelerate increases in the production of man-made fibers," the report said.

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. soybeans are a better buy for foreign users this spring and summer than a year earlier despite a big boost in the government price support rate.

The Agriculture Department raised price supports from $1.85 a bushel on the 1960 crop to $2.30 on the 1961 crop. This action brought complaints from many foreign buyers.

But the higher supports encouraged a 25 per cent increase in production last year. As a consequence, market prices are running lower than a year ago when there was much speculative trading for the available supply. A year ago prices were far above the support rate. This year they are close to the rate.

The department expects soybean exports to reach a record high of 170 million bushels, up 40 million from last season. The increase will go mainly to Western Europe and Japan.

Lack Of Running Water Is Cited In 2 Fire Deaths

SANDUSKY, Ohio (AP)—Lack of running water was indirectly responsible for the death of two small children in a fire in their home Tuesday.

Bernard Caffey, 18 months, and his sister, Patti, 5 months, died of burns. Another child ran to safety.

Fire Chief Paul Bing said the children's mother, Mrs. John Caffey, went to a neighbor's house for water and left the children with 4-year-old Patrick.

Bing said Patrick apparently stuck a roll of paper into a pot-bellied stove and dropped it on the floor after it ignited. He panicked and raced outside, shouting for his mother.

Mrs. Caffey carried Patti out of the house but was unable to reach Bernard. Bernard perished in the flames and Patti died several hours later.

Mr. Caffey was at work during the fire.

Newscaster, Bride Honeymoon In South

CLEVELAND (AP) — Warren Guthrie, newscaster for WJW-TV and his bride, the former Mrs. Kathleen Recroft, are honeymooning this week in Miami Beach., Fla.

Dr. Guthrie, a Western Reserve University professor, and Mrs. Recroft were married Saturday at Church of the Covenant. Dr. Harry B. Taylor performed the ceremony.

Professional chefs sometimes add monosodium glutamate to the dressing to be used for potato salad.

Peace Corps Bill Passed By House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has passed legislation that would authorize twice as much money and three times as many overseas volunteers for the Peace Corps.

The bill, sent to the Senate Tuesday by a 316-70 vote, would authorize a Peace Corps budget of $63.75 million for the year beginning July 1. Last year Congress voted $30 million to finance the training and assignment of 2,400 corpsmen to foreign posts.

Rep. Thomas E. Morgan, D-Pa., chairman of the Foreign Affairs Committee, said only 698 volunteers have been sent overseas so far. The extra funds, he said, would permit the number to climb to 10,000 by the end of 1963.

Township Authorities Investigate Accosting

St. Clair Township police are continuing an investigation of an accosting of a 11-year-old Glenmoor girl by a teen-age youth along the Y & & Rd. near Glenmoor Monday night.

The girl, walking home about 7 p. m. from a store, said the youth, also walking, stopped her and threatened to use a knife if she screamed. She broke loose and ran, officers reported.

Officers are also investigating the theft of a medical cabinet from a former St. Clair Ave. Ext. residence being remodeled for offices by Dr. Melbourne Burnett. The empty cabinet was taken sometime over the weekend, Chief Constable John Jackson said.

Art Rooney, owner of the Pittsburgh Steelers and the Shamrock Stable, has named one of his horses after Harold Weisman, a sports columnist for the New York Mirror.

DOUBTFUL JOHN

Religious Beliefs Are Brought Into Custody Dispute

KANSAS CITY, Kan. (AP) — The religious beliefs of Dr. Curtis N. Sandage came into question as the 42-year-old bacteriologist battled in court Tuesday for custody of an 11 - year - old daughter.

"Do you believe in God?" asked William Poindexter, attorney for Mrs. Irma Sandage, a psychiatric social worker at Oxford, Ohio.

"Depends on how you define that," Sandage replied. "I believe in God if I can define it."

"Would you?"

"I prefer not."

"Would you call yourself an atheist?"

"You might, but I don't think I am."

Sandage said he has never denied his daughter, Anne, access to religious teachings.

While Sandage was prosecuting his petition for custody of Anne, Missouri Gov. John Dalton honored a request for the father's extradition to Ohio on a charge of stealing Anne from her school at Oxford Feb. 5.

The Sandages were divorced in 1959, when he was working at the Midwest Research Institute in Kansas City. Mrs. Sandage won custody of Anne and an older daughter, Lynn, 17.

Sandage charges Anne is a neglected child because his former wife favors Lynn and is busy, tired and irritable.

Schiro Elected In New Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP) — Victor H. Schiro soundly defeated his Republican opponent for a full four-year term as mayor of New Orleans.

Schiro, 58, has served as interim mayor for eight months.

His Republican opponent, E. Ross Buckley, 40, tried to capitalize on the segregation issue—which Schiro used in his primary fight—to score an upset in this traditionally Democratic Deep South city.

Schiro polled 81,623 votes in complete returns from the 351 precincts in Tuesday's general election. Buckley got 19,503—nearly four times more than his party's registered strength. Less than half of the 251,000 registered voters balloted.

deLesseps S. Morrison, the one-time boy wonder of Louisiana politics, resigned as mayor last summer to become U.S. ambassador to the Organization of American States.

3 In Hancock Attend Soil Group's Meeting

Three Hancock County men are attending the 20th anniversary program of the North Panhandle Soil Conservation District today in Wheeling.

Oliver Johnson, agricultural agent, and Shields Mayhew and C. F. Herron, both of Pughtown, were present for a business meeting this morning and a noon luncheon in the McClure Hotel.

Johnson screened a film of "Fence Building," illustrating the use of an automatic machine, at a meeting of the County Agricultural Club Monday night in New Cumberland.

There was also a discussion on soil testing, fertilizing, and use of chemicals to control weeds. Mayhew is chairman. A program on gardens will be presented at the meeting May 7 in the agricultural office in New Cumberland.

HAL HUMPHREY

French TV Uses Machine Guns, Too

PARIS — One difference I immediately noticed between French and American television was the placement of the sub-machine guns. We use the machine guns in our shows, but the French use them to protect the building housing the government's TV headquarters.

Hal Humphrey

The day I went around to talk to the director of TV for Radiodiffusion-Television Francaise, the building entrance was surrounded with French riot police. Anyone driving up in front was quickly covered by a sub-machine gun held at the ready.

-:-

THERE HAD BEEN a bomb threat a few days earlier, presumably by France's OAS terrorists. (The French TV viewer may sometimes get pretty mad at the programs, but so far he hasn't resorted to violence.)

Foreigners like myself and Tony Pell of CBS, who came along to interpret, had to surrender our passports at the door before being ushered upstairs.

It must be a bit difficult to concentrate on programming problems when you don't know what second a bomb come hurtling your way, but Albert Ollivier seemed to be unperturbed.

Ollivier is head man of France's government-owned TV network. It's his job to see that too many American or other foreign film shows don't creep into the daily TV schedule. At the same time, he has to scratch and scramble to fill the six hours a day during which France's only TV channel is on the air.

LACK OF FUNDS and facilities harasses Ollivier. As a result, most French TV is comprised of panel discussions, news programs and short films.

There are three million Frenchmen who own TV receivers with which to watch this fare. Ollivier insists that they watch as consistently as Americans, but in my short stay here I've had the impression that the French react to this TV about the way they do to a traffic accident on the Champs Elysees. If it happens on their side of the streeet, they will stop, but they won't cross the street to look.

None of the cafes or bistros have TV sets. Ollivier says the French eat in front of their TV sets at home just as we do, but I have a feeling he was just trying to prove that a Frenchman can do anything an American does —a matter of preserving the honor of France.

THE THINGS Ollivier is not proud of, however, are the occasional commercials to be seen on French TV. He refers to these pictches as "compensated TV" and points out that it is only government-owned utilities (the gas company) or industry-wide associations like the beer and wine groups which are allowed to buy such TV time.

"The compensation really is not enough to do any good, and even then we must share it with other branches of our communications system," he complains.

In the week I have been watching French TV, it seems predominated by women. Each evening's programming is opened by a different and very attractive French femme dressed in the latest haute mode—as nice a way to start watching TV as I have found yet. Women also are employed to do most of the commentary work. They are called "speakerines."

OLLIVIER SAYS in the early days of France's "telley-VEEZyon" there were many technical difficulties, such as the picture going off and other bugs. When things got back to normal, it was discovered that a good-looking gal could better make the excuses to the viewers for these inadequacies.

"Psychologically, they made the trouble easier to take," he explains.

Now that the gals have this foothold, they aren't about to give it up without a struggle. Ollivier seemed to think they had served their usefulness, since the technical facilities are so improved.

I disagree, and I was surprised to find a Frenchman taking this un-Gallic attitude.

10 Area Men Sign In Army

Ten district men accepted for Army enlistment in March are taking basic training at Ft. Jackson, S.C., Sgt. Edward P. Vallor, city recruiter, said today.

Two of the recruits are scheduled for further training at the Signal School at Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

They are Robert J. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Smith, 301 Maplewood Ave., who enlisted for a 24-week cryptographic equipment repair course, and William T. Rager, 696 Church St., who signed for a 33-week radar repair course. Both are East Liverpool High School graduates.

Signing for the aircraft maintenance course at the Army Aviation School at Ft. Rucker, Ala., were Donald D. Whittington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Davis C. Whittington of Lisbon R. D. 3, and Glen E. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Moore of Elkton. Both are Beaver Local High School graduates. Whittington also attended Indiana Technical College at Ft. Wayne.

Joining for assignment to Hawaii was Thurman L. Mayfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Mayfield of R. D. 1. Robert E. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson of 3rd St. Ext., Chester, enlisted for assignment to Europe.

Larry M. Ewing of Columbiana signed for administrative work. Enlisting from Salem were Charles Adams, for the Army Security Agency, Frank Cozza, for cryptography, and Thomas E. Eichler, for airborne training.

County Jail Sets Record In March

LISBON — Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan said a total of 71 prisoners were received at the County Jail during March — biggest month in the history of the jail. As of March 1, there were 50 confined.

Some 69 prisoners were released, two were conveyed to state institutions and two mental patients were taken to state hospitals. There were 308 visitors at the jail.

A total of 4,868 meals were served at a cost of $1,171.18 making the average daily expense per prisoner 72 cents.

Deputies served 244 papers and 4,460 radio transmissions were handled along with 1,065 phone calls at the jail. Fees totaling $515.76 were collected.

Open House Planned At New Gas Facility

The Peoples Natural Gas Co., which serves the Midland area, will hold a public open house April 14 at its new Hopewell District Office and Service Center, 1315 Gringo Rd., Aliquippa.

William R. Bechdel, Hopewell manager, said doors will be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Refreshments and favors will be provided.

The $300,000 structure culminates Peoples' efforts in this section of its Western Division service area to consolidate business offices in Aliquippa, Burgettstown, Midland and the Imperial field station.

Air Force Continues Non-Graduate Policy

T.Sgt. James A. Lee, local Air Force recruiter, said a new regulation relaxes, for the second month, a ban on enlisting non-high school graduates.

The recruiter said the airman qualification examination will be given to all non-prior and prior servicemen at the City Hall Thursday at 9:30 a. m. Those with passing scores will be tentatively qualified for enlistment in a field of their choice.

Interested men may phone FU. 6-6181 or visit Sgt. Lee at the recruiting office at the City Hall before the time of the test.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Home Religion Teaches Basic Values

A number of mothers have written to entreat me to write more often on religion in the home. When I try to think of all the kinds of persons who read this column and attempt to show due regard for the rights and feelings of all of them, I can't with good conscience interpret religion in terms of my own personal experiences and preferences. Hard as it is for me to understand those who say they see no values in religion and recognize no Supreme Being, I would even like to respect their personal privilege to their own ideas on religion.

Dr. Garry Meyers

OF THE KINDS of religion I am familiar with, I like to consider the large ways in which they are alike. Though their modes of worship differ they all pray to the same God.

All these religions put emphasis on what can't be bought with price, what doesn't perish. It has always seemed to me that the emphasis of religion on the imperishables has great moral value in respect to human striving.

Surely emphasis on the imperishables is very desirable in the family in these times when money and what it can buy seem to be the measure of all things.

Do we want our children to evaluate other children in terms of the kind of houses they live in or the cost of the clothes they wear? Do we want our youths to choose their vocations chiefly in terms of monetary reward and be blinded to the satisfactions in service, as in the ministry, teaching, nursing and the like?

IN CONTRAST, when parents and children are reminded through home religious ceremonies and frequent contacts with men and women engaged in and concerned about things spiritual, we ought to expect some of these influences to help shape the growing child's ideals and upward-strivings, especially if there is a happy family companionship.

Religion's emphasis on values in terms of tomorrow or a time more remote, instead of the immediate moment, should help us parents and children to learn to wait.

"I want what I want right away" seems to be foremost in human urges. We see it strongest in the young child. Nor is it easy for us parents to train him to wait and to deny him what he wants that we are sure is not good for him.

Even when children and parents in the home together simply give up something in order to make a church offering, they seem to derive moral and spiritual values. In ever so many ways, religion calls for otherliness rather than selfishness.

WHEN RELIGION works best in the home it makes us parents more lovely to live with and causes all members of the family to feel and exercise deep consideration for every other member as a precious person.

So then if we parents would seek for greatest values from religion in our homes, we need to be truly religious ourselves and then to win the genuine and lasting esteem of our children. To this end I once wrote a prayer for myself as parent.

Anyone may have a copy of it in a stamped self - addressed envelope sent me in care of this newspaper.

Ruling Curbs Official In Sale Of Insurance

In an opinion issued at the request of Prosecuting Atty. G. William Brokaw, Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy has ruled that a public officer or an employe of a public official cannot sell auto insurance, which includes fire insurance, to the agency for which he works or any other public agency.

Brokaw said he asked the ruling at the request of several city and village solicitors who sell insurance as a sideline.

McElroy's opinion noted that the law specifically prohibits a public officer from selling fire insurance to public agencies. The prohibition stands even though the fire insurance is sold as part of a package policy of auto insurance, he ruled.

Court Action Continues To Delay Ballots

Despite a delay forced by a candidates' action before the Ohio Supreme Court, the Columbiana County Election Board will not hold up beyond April 15 in ordering the major Republican ballot printed for the May 8 primaries, Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk of the board, said today.

The board was instructed earlier by Secretary of State Ted W. Brown to delay at least temporarily the printing of the office-type GOP ballot because of an action filed before the high court by John H. Ferguson, seeking to have his name listed as a Republican candidate for state treasurer.

Brown had ruled Ferguson's declarations of candidacy insufficient and denied him a ballot place. In ordering the delay in ballot printing, Brown instructed the 8 Election Boards in Ohio to proceed at their own discretion and to be certain that supplies would be ready in time for the primaries.

According to the Wellsville Publishing Co., ballot contractor, April 15 is the last date on which printing can be started in time to have the tickets ready for Election Day, O'Hanlon pointed out.

If the ballots already are printed and the court rules in favor of Ferguson, the board might arrange to have a "sticker" printed listing all the names of GOP treasurer aspirants and have it affixed to the ballots, O'Hanlon said. That alternative would be cheaper than printing all the ballots again in order to list Ferguson's name, he pointed out.

In his notification to the Election Boards throughout the state, Brown suggested they go ahead with issuance of absentee ballots to service personnel. The absentee ballots do not list Ferguson's name.

The court action has "crippled" the board's other election preparations, normally well under way at this time, O'Hanlon said. For instance, it cannot prepare its election report sheets until it knows whether or not to include Ferguson's name, he said.

6,000 Families Of 7 Unions Eye Health Care Plan

CLEVELAND (AP)—A prepaid, comprehensive group health care plan for more than 6,000 families of seven unions in greater Cleveland is being considered.

The unions, through the newly-formed Cleveland Health Foundation, have requested the cooperation of the Western Reserve University Medical Center.

Union representatives and faculty members of the medical schools have consulted with experts on prepaid, comprehensive, group health care plans.

A new comprehensive care center would be built especially for ambulatory patients. It would be staffed by doctors, nurses, social workers, other specialists and trained laymen.

Members of the insured groups needing hospitalization would become ward patients at university hospitals. They would have access to free consultation from any of the medical school faculty. All physicians providing care at the center or in the hospital would be from Western Reserve University.

Enrollment would be voluntary. It is anticipated prepayment would include both the health center services and hospitalization. The center would be paid for actual costs of its services.

Union involved are the Retail Clerks, International Association of Machinists, United Auto Workers, United Steel Workers of America, Painters, Plumbers and Meatcutters.

Devastated Coastal Town

Community Shows Spirit Rebuilding After Storm

SEA ISLE CITY, N.J. (AP)—"We like it down here," says Dan Salerno, hard at work rebuilding the foundation of his storm-tossed summer home.

Salerno's home now sits 100 yards from its foundation. It was carried away by tides. But Salerno is wasting no time getting things right again.

He typifies the spirit here in the wake of last month's coastal storm that devastated much of this resort town and other areas along the New Jersey Atlantic Coast.

In two days the tides and winds caused damage estimated at $2.7 million to private property in Sea Isle City, destroying more than a tenth of all that was taxable.

The town, with 1,400 permanent residents, has made a valiant recovery from the worst blow in its history, but signs of the havoc are still seen everywhere.

Of 2,040 houses, 285 were destroyed or swept away, and about 45 more will have to be demolished. The storm left three feet of sand on Landis Avenue, the main street, and six or eight feet of debris on top of that.

Now, one month later, there is still some sand in the streets, but most of it has been cleared away by the State Highway Department. What remains is expected to be cleared by April 13.

Big trucks gather debris on the beachfront, carrying it to one side of town, where it is being burned.

All utilities are operating again.

"We've already wrecked 20 houses, that were beyond repair, with the owners' permission," Mayor Vincent Lamanna said. "We'll probably ask the public health authorities to condemn the others that need to be wrecked. We hope to have the beach cleared up by Memorial Day."

Memorial Day, the beginning of the summer resort season, is the goal in the minds of almost everybody.

"Many people will be coming here this season out of curiosity, if for no other reason," he said.

Political Leaders In France Eye Elections For Assembly

PARIS (AP)—French political leaders are looking beyond the referendum next Sunday on the Algerian cease-fire. Their eyes are focused on elections for a new National Assembly which are expected to follow.

President Charles de Gaulle apparently has not made up his mind yet to dissolve the Assembly. He has been talking to representatives from different political factions. But most politicians seem to take for granted that he will issue the orders soon after the referendum, which is expected to approve his Algerian peace agreement overwhelmingly.

Premier Michel Debre's government has been making announcements, or leaking driblets of information, that make campaign ammunition. Debre has been making speeches reviewing the accomplishments of his administration.

The government has announced that the military draft term is being cut. Increased allocations for the aged are expected to be approved soon. Finance Minister Valery Giscard D'Estaing has hinted that the income tax load of two million small taxpayers will be lightened soon.

The deputies' full five-year term would come to an end late in 1963, but the end of the Algerian war seems to present the ideal psychological moment for De Gaulle to call elections. The popularity of De Gaulle and his followers should be at a record high. He obviously will want a favorable Assembly and a cooperative government as he re-orients the nation's course at the end of almost 23 years of uninterrupted fighting in various parts of the world.

Achievement Day To Be Held May 1

LISBON — Dr. Marvin Koller, professor of sociology at Kent State University, and R. Bruce Tom, retired extension rural sociologist, will be the guest speakers at the 22nd annual Achievement Day of the Columbiana County Home Demonstration Council at the First Methodist Church in Columbiana May 1.

Floyd Lower, county extension agent in agriculture, said Dr. Koller will speak on "The Place of the Senior Citizen In the Community," and Tom on "Stay Alive as Long as You Live."

The program will begin at 10:30 a. m., following a 30-minute organ prelude and a display of exhibits. There will be installation of new officers and the appearance of the Salem Senior Citizens kitchen band.

Tickets may be purchased from the extension office at 113 S. Market St., or from home councilors in all the townships. The reservation deadline is April 23. Women of the church will serve a noon lunch.

Cincinnati Seen In Position To Get Big Bargain

CINCINNATI (AP) — City officials say Cincinnati is in a position to get a big bargain.

The investment of $14 million in the central business district and along the Ohio River could trigger developments using $100 million in private funds, they predict.

Councilman Eugene P. Ruehlmann (Republican) said at a hearing Tuesday the private money would come in the form of residential and business building if the city first rebuilt existing streets and established parks and other public services in the area.

He said $2 billion in private investments have been made in Hamilton County in the last decade.

"Very little meanwhile has been spent downtown," he observed. "Yet, whether we know it or not, downtown is in a very real sense the focal point of the whole area."

Another councilman, Thomas C. Spraul (Democrat), said plans for the river front call for a new municipal auditorium and a sport stadium. He said Council was agreed on the need of both, but had not decided the details of location and time.

Charles P. Taft, charterite councilman, added that unless Council is prepared to show an interested private developer the city is ready to carry out its part in renewing any section of the downtown area, little progress can be made.

Man Will Appeal Ruling Against 2 School Officials

CINCINNATI (AP)— Lawrence Ashcraft Sr. says he plans to appeal a Common Pleas Court ruling that threw out his $342,525 damage suit against two Cincinnati school officials.

Ashcraft sought the damages as a result of prosecution on charges of contributing to delinquency of minors because he would not send his sons to a predominantly Negro public school in the district where he lives.

Harry L. Lodge, then director of child accounting for the public schools, filed the affidavits against Ashcraft. The charges were later dismissed at the request of school authorities when they learned the two boys were in a parochial school.

Ashcraft sought damages on the grounds the prosecution was willfully instigated without probable cause.

Judge Orits R. Hess noted the testimony in Ashcraft's deposition showed he was guilty of the charge. He added the reason Ashcraft gave for keeping his sons out of school had no legal basis.

The other school official named in the suit was Supt. Wendell H. Pierce.

None Hurt As Bomb Tears Front Of Car

CLEVELAND (AP) — A dynamite bomb tore apart the front of a car parked in the driveway of a construction company foreman early today, police reported.

No one was hurt as the car hood was ripped off by the explosion at the South Euclid residence.

Joseph D'Angelo, 37, owner of the car, could give police no reason for the blast. He is a foreman for the Allison Construction Co. in South Euclid.

D'Angelo told police a bomb had ripped off the porch of his home two years ago when he lived in Cleveland Heights.

Police theorized the latest bomb had been placed on the car's front bumper.

Irate Husband Ruins His Ex-Wife's Car

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Angry at his former wife, Thurman Adkins, 26, took it out on her automobile, according to the case stated to the grand jury before it indicted him for malicious destruction of property.

The prosecution says Adkins jumped on the car's hood, kicked out the windshield, broke other windows, poured sugar in the gasoline tank and sand in the radiator.

Out Of The Air

HAL HUMPHREY

French TV Uses Machine Guns, Too

PARIS — One difference I immediately noticed between French and American television was the placement of the sub-machine guns. We use the machine guns in our shows, but the French use them to protect the building housing the government's TV headquarters.

Hal Humphrey

The day I went around to talk to the director of TV for Radiodiffusion-Television Francaise, the building entrance was surrounded with French riot police. Anyone driving up in front was quickly covered by a sub-machine gun held at the ready.

-:-

THERE HAD BEEN a bomb threat a few days earlier, presumably by France's OAS terrorists. (The French TV viewer may sometimes get pretty mad at the programs, but so far he hasn't resorted to violence.)

Foreigners like myself and Tony Pell of CBS, who came along to interpret, had to surrender our passports at the door before being ushered upstairs.

It must be a bit difficult to concentrate on programming problems when you don't know what second a bomb come hurtling your way, but Albert Ollivier seemed to be unperturbed.

Ollivier is head man of France's government-owned TV network. It's his job to see that too many American or other foreign film shows don't creep into the daily TV schedule. At the same time, he has to scratch and scramble to fill the six hours a day during which France's only TV channel is on the air.

LACK OF FUNDS and facilities harasses Ollivier. As a result, most French TV is comprised of panel discussions, news programs and short films.

There are three million Frenchmen who own TV receivers with which to watch this fare. Ollivier insists that they watch as consistently as Americans, but in my short stay here I've had the impression that the French react to this TV about the way they do to a traffic accident on the Champs Elysees. If it happens on their side of the streeet, they will stop, but they won't cross the street to look.

None of the cafes or bistros have TV sets. Ollivier says the French eat in front of their TV sets at home just as we do, but I have a feeling he was just trying to prove that a Frenchman can do anything an American does —a matter of preserving the honor of France.

THE THINGS Ollivier is not proud of, however, are the occasional commercials to be seen on French TV. He refers to these pictches as "compensated TV" and points out that it is only government-owned utilities (the gas company) or industry-wide associations like the beer and wine groups which are allowed to buy such TV time.

"The compensation really is not enough to do any good, and even then we must share it with other branches of our communications system," he complains.

In the week I have been watching French TV, it seems predominated by women. Each evening's programming is opened by a different and very attractive French femme dressed in the latest haute mode—as nice a way to start watching TV as I have found yet. Women also are employed to do most of the commentary work. They are called "speakerines."

-:-

OLLIVIER SAYS in the early days of France's "telley-VEEZyon" there were many technical difficulties, such as the picture going off and other bugs. When things got back to normal, it was discovered that a good-looking gal could better make the excuses to the viewers for these inadequacies.

"Psychologically, they made the trouble easier to take," he explains.

Now that the gals have this foothold, they aren't about to give it up without a struggle. Ollivier seemed to think they had served their usefulness, since the technical facilities are so improved.

I disagree, and I was surprised to find a Frenchman taking this un-Gallic attitude.

10 Area Men Sign In Army

Ten district men accepted for Army enlistment in March are taking basic training at Ft. Jackson, S.C., Sgt. Edward P. Vallor, city recruiter, said today.

Two of the recruits are scheduled for further training at the Signal School at Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

They are Robert J. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph H. Smith, 301 Maplewood Ave., who enlisted for a 24-week cryptographic equipment repair course, and William T. Rager, 696 Church St., who signed for a 33-week radar repair course. Both are East Liverpool High School graduates.

Signing for the aircraft maintenance course at the Army Aviation School at Ft. Rucker, Ala., were Donald D. Whittington, son of Mr. and Mrs. Davis C. Whittington of Lisbon R. D. 3, and Glen E. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ray Moore of Elkton. Both are Beaver Local High School graduates. Whittington also attended Indiana Technical College at Ft. Wayne.

Joining for assignment to Hawaii was Thurman L. Mayfield, son of Mr. and Mrs. Brooks Mayfield of R. D. 1. Robert E. Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Johnson of 3rd St. Ext., Chester, enlisted for assignment to Europe.

Larry M. Ewing of Columbiana signed for administrative work. Enlisting from Salem were Charles Adams, for the Army Security Agency, Frank Cozza, for cryptography, and Thomas E. Eichler, for airborne training.

County Jail Sets Record In March

LISBON — Sheriff Russell J. VanFossan said a total of 71 prisoners were received at the County Jail during March — biggest month in the history of the jail. As of March 1, there were 50 confined.

Some 69 prisoners were released, two were conveyed to state institutions and two mental patients were taken to state hospitals. There were 308 visitors at the jail.

A total of 4,868 meals were served at a cost of $1,171.18 making the average daily expense per prisoner 72 cents.

Deputies served 244 papers and 4,460 radio transmissions were handled along with 1,065 phone calls at the jail. Fees totaling $515.76 were collected.

Open House Planned At New Gas Facility

The Peoples Natural Gas Co., which serves the Midland area, will hold a public open house April 14 at its new Hopewell District Office and Service Center, 1315 Gringo Rd., Aliquippa.

William R. Bechdel, Hopewell manager, said doors will be open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. Refreshments and favors will be provided.

The $300,000 structure culminates Peoples' efforts in this section of its Western Division service area to consolidate business offices in Aliquippa, Burgettstown, Midland and the Imperial field station.

Air Force Continues Non-Graduate Policy

T.Sgt. James A. Lee, local Air Force recruiter, said a new regulation relaxes, for the second month, a ban on enlisting non-high school graduates.

The recruiter said the airman qualification examination will be given to all non-prior and prior servicemen at the City Hall Thursday a. 9:30 a. m. Those with passing scores will be tentatively qualified for enlistment in a field of their choice.

Interested men may phone FU. 6-6181 or visit Sgt. Lee at the recruiting office at the City Hall before the time of the test.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Home Religion Teaches Basic Values

A number of mothers have written to entreat me to write more often on religion in the home. When I try to think of all the kinds of persons who read this column and attempt to show due regard for the rights and feelings of all of them, I can't with good conscience interpret religion in terms of my own personal experiences and preferences. Hard as it is for me to understand those who say they see no values in religion and recognize no Supreme Being, I would even like to respect their personal privilege to their own ideas on religion.

OF THE KINDS of religion I am familiar with, I like to consider the large ways in which they are alike. Though their modes of worship differ they all pray to the same God.

All these religions put emphasis on what can't be bought with price, what doesn't perish. It has always seemed to me that the emphasis of religion on the imperishables has great moral value in respect to human striving.

Surely emphasis on the imperishables is very desirable in the family in these times when money and what it can buy seem to be the measure of all things.

Do we want our children to evaluate other children in terms of the kind of houses they live in or the cost of the clothes they wear? Do we want our youths to choose their vocations chiefly in terms of monetary reward and be blinded to the satisfactions in service, as in the ministry, teaching, nursing and the like?

IN CONTRAST, when parents and children are reminded through home religious ceremonies and frequent contacts with men and women engaged in and concerned about things spiritual, we ought to expect some of these influences to help shape the growing child's ideals and upward-strivings, especially if there is a happy family companionship.

Religion's emphasis on values in terms of tomorrow or a time more remote, instead of the immediate moment, should help us parents and children to learn to wait.

"I want what I want right away" seems to be foremost in human urges. We see it strongest in the young child. Nor is it easy for us parents to train him to wait and to deny him what he wants that we are sure is not good for him.

Even when children and parents in the home together simply give up something in order to make a church offering, they seem to derive moral and spiritual values. In ever so many ways, religion calls for otherliness rather than selfishness.

WHEN RELIGION works best in the home it makes us parents more lovely to live with and causes all members of the family to feel and exercise deep consideration for every other member as a precious person.

So then if we parents would seek for greatest values from religion in our homes, we need to be truly religious ourselves and then to win the genuine and lasting esteem of our children. To this end I once wrote a prayer for myself as parent.

Anyone may have a copy of it in a stamped self - addressed envelope sent me in care of this newspaper.

Injured In Crash

TOKYO (AP)—Lt. Col. Claude K. Griffin of Lima, Ohio, co-pilot of a T33 jet trainer, is recovering from minor cuts and bruises received in the crash landing of his plane about four miles south of Imabari, Shikoku Island. Griffin said an electrical failure brought about Tuesday's crash in which the other pilot was unhurt.

Ruling Curbs Official In Sale Of Insurance

In an opinion issued at the request of Prosecuting Atty. G. William Brokaw, Atty. Gen. Mark McElroy has ruled that a public officer or an employe of a public official cannot sell auto insurance, which includes fire insurance, to the agency for which he works or any other public agency.

Brokaw said he asked the ruling at the request of several city and village solicitors who sell insurance as a sideline.

McElroy's opinion noted that the law specifically prohibits a public officer from selling fire insurance to public agencies. The prohibition stands even though the fire insurance is sold as part of a package policy of auto insurance, he ruled.

Court Action Continues To Delay Ballots

Despite a delay forced by a candidates' action before the Ohio Supreme Court, the Columbiana County Election Board will not hold up beyond April 15 in ordering the major Republican ballot printed for the May 8 primaries, Frank R. O'Hanlon, clerk of the board, said today.

The board was instructed earlier by Secretary of State Ted W. Brown to delay at least temporarily the printing of the office-type GOP ballot because of an action filed before the high court by John H. Ferguson, seeking to have his name listed as a Republican candidate for state treasurer.

Brown had ruled Ferguson's declarations of candidacy insufficient and denied him a ballot place. In ordering the delay in ballot printing, Brown instructed the 8 Election Boards in Ohio to proceed at their own discretion and to be certain that supplies would be ready in time for the primaries.

According to the Wellsville Publishing Co., ballot contractor, April 15 is the last date on which printing can be started in time to have the tickets ready for Election Day, O'Hanlon pointed out.

If the ballots already are printed and the court rules in favor of Ferguson, the board might arrange to have a "sticker" printed listing all the names of GOP treasurer aspirants and have it affixed to the ballots, O'Hanlon said. That alternative would be cheaper than printing all the ballots again in order to list Ferguson's name, he pointed out.

In his notification to the Election Boards throughout the state, Brown suggested they go ahead with issuance of absentee ballots to service personnel. The absentee ballots do not list Ferguson's name.

The court action has "crippled" the board's other election preparations, normally well under way at this time, O'Hanlon said. For instance, it cannot prepare its election report sheets until it knows whether or not to include Ferguson's name, he said.

6,000 Families Of 7 Unions Eye Health Care Plan

CLEVELAND (AP)—A prepaid, comprehensive group health care plan for more than 6,000 families of seven unions in greater Cleveland is being considered.

The unions, through the newly-formed Cleveland Health Foundation, have requested the cooperation of the Western Reserve University Medical Center.

Union representatives and faculty members of the medical schools have consulted with experts on prepaid, comprehensive, group health care plans.

A new comprehensive care center would be built especially for ambulatory patients. It would be staffed by doctors, nurses, social workers, other specialists and trained laymen.

Members of the insured groups needing hospitalization would become ward patients at university hospitals. They would have access to free consultation from any of the medical school faculty. All physicians providing care at the center or in the hospital would be from Western Reserve University.

Enrollment would be voluntary. It is anticipated prepayment would include both the health center services and hospitalization. The center would be paid for actual costs of its services.

Union involved are the Retail Clerks, International Association of Machinists, United Auto Workers, United Steel Workers of America, Painters, Plumbers and Meatcutters.

Legion At Lisbon To Give Minstrel

LISBON — The American Legion Post's 17th annual minstrel will be presented Friday and Saturday night at 8 at the high school auditorium.

Endmen are Charles Faust, Bill Carlisle, Jerry Sanders, Chet Hanna, Dick Kuhns and Bob McCamon. William Haifley is interlocutor.

Featured will be Byron Griffith, John Snyder, Bob Huffman, Ed Nold, Bill Frankford, Al Hartman, Hoyte Sexton, Homer Ferguson, Tom Kastner, L. S. Firestone, Bob Cameron, Bill McDevitt and William Frew.

The second half will be a take-off of the Gary Moore show, "Those Wonderful Years."

Ray Hempstead, Don Smith, Kuhns and Frew comprise the general committee.

Miss Nancy Clark of Columbiana will be the accompanist and Kenny Nichols of East Liverpool, Bob Lower of Columbiana, Eddie Moore and Ralph Rose, of Lisbon are instrumentalists.

Tickets may be purchased from any Legion member or Russell Shaw, ticket sale chairman. All seats will be reserved for Saturday but not Friday.

Devastated Coastal Town

Community Shows Spirit Rebuilding After Storm

SEA ISLE CITY, N.J. (AP)—"We like it down here," says Dan Salerno, hard at work rebuilding the foundation of his storm-tossed summer home.

Salerno's home now sits 100 yards from its foundation. It was carried away by tides. But Salerno is wasting no time getting things right again.

He typifies the spirit here in the wake of last month's coastal storm that devastated much of this resort town and other areas along the New Jersey Atlantic Coast.

In two days the tides and winds caused damage estimated at $2.7 million to private property in Sea Isle City, destroying more than a tenth of all that was taxable.

The town, with 1,400 permanent residents, has made a valiant recovery from the worst blow in its history, but signs of the havoc are still seen everywhere.

Of 2,040 houses, 285 were destroyed or swept away, and about 45 more will have to be demolished. The storm left three feet of sand on Landis Avenue, the main street, and six or eight feet of debris on top of that.

Now, one month later, there is still some sand in the streets, but most of it has been cleared away by the State Highway Department. What remains is expected to be cleared by April 13.

Big trucks gather debris on the beachfront, carrying it to one side of town, where it is being burned.

All utilities are operating again.

"We've already wrecked 20 houses, that were beyond repair, with the owners' permission," Mayor Vincent Lamanna said. "We'll probably ask the public health authorities to condemn the others that need to be wrecked. We hope to have the beach cleared up by Memorial Day."

Memorial Day, the beginning of the summer resort season, is the goal in the minds of almost everybody.

"Many people will be coming here this season out of curiosity, if for no other reason," he said.

Political Leaders In France Eye Elections For Assembly

PARIS (AP)—French political leaders are looking beyond the referendum next Sunday on the Algerian cease-fire. Their eyes are focused on elections for a new National Assembly which are expected to follow.

President Charles de Gaulle apparently has not made up his mind yet to dissolve the Assembly. He has been talking to representatives from different political factions. But most politicians seem to take for granted that he will issue the orders soon after the referendum, which is expected to approve his Algerian peace agreement overwhelmingly.

Premier Michel Debre's government has been making announcements, or leaking driblets of information, that make campaign ammunition. Debre has been making speeches reviewing the accomplishments of his administration.

The government has announced that the military draft term is being cut. Increased allocations for the aged are expected to be approved soon. Finance Minister Valery Giscard D'Estaing has hinted that the income tax load of two million small taxpayers will be lightened soon.

The deputies' full five-year term would come to an end late in 1963, but the end of the Algerian war seems to present the ideal psychological moment for De Gaulle to call elections. The popularity of De Gaulle and his followers should be at a record high. He obviously will want a favorable Assembly and a cooperative government as he re-orients the nation's course at the end of almost 23 years of uninterrupted fighting in various parts of the world.

Achievement Day To Be Held May 1

LISBON — Dr. Marvin Koller, professor of sociology at Kent State University, and R. Bruce Tom, retired extension rural sociologist, will be the guest speakers at the 22nd annual Achievement Day of the Columbiana County Home Demonstration Council at the First Methodist Church in Columbiana May 1.

Floyd Lower, county extension agent in agriculture, said Dr. Koller will speak on "The Place of the Senior Citizen In the Community," and Tom on "Stay Alive as Long as You Live."

The program will begin at 10:30 a. m., following a 30-minute organ prelude and a display of exhibits. There will be installation of new officers and the appearance of the Salem Senior Citizens kitchen band.

Tickets may be purchased from the extension office at 113 S. Market St., or from home councilors in all the townships. The reservation deadline is April 23. Women of the church will serve a noon lunch.

Cincinnati Seen In Position To Get Big Bargain

CINCINNATI (AP) — City officials say Cincinnati is in a position to get a big bargain.

The investment of $14 million in the central business district and along the Ohio River could trigger developments using $100 million in private funds, they predict.

Councilman Eugene P. Ruehlmann (Republican) said at a hearing Tuesday the private money would come in the form of residential and business building if the city first rebuilt existing streets and established parks and other public services in the area.

He said $2 billion in private investments have been made in Hamilton County in the last decade.

"Very little meanwhile has been spent downtown," he observed. "Yet, whether we know it or not, downtown is in a very real sense the focal point of the whole area."

Another councilman, Thomas C. Spraul (Democrat), said plans for the river front call for a new municipal auditorium and a sport stadium. He said Council was agreed on the need of both, but had not decided the details of location and time.

Charles P. Taft, charterite councilman, added that unless Council is prepared to show an interested private developer the city is ready to carry out its part in renewing any section of the downtown area, little progress can be made.

Man Will Appeal Ruling Against 2 School Officials

CINCINNATI (AP)— Lawrence Ashcraft Sr. says he plans to appeal a Common Pleas Court ruling that threw out his $342,525 damage suit against two Cincinnati school officials.

Ashcraft sought the damages as a result of prosecution on charges of contributing to delinquency of minors because he would not send his sons to a predominantly Negro public school in the district where he lives.

Harry L. Lodge, then director of child accounting for the public schools, filed the affidavits against Ashcraft. The charges were later dismissed at the request of school authorities when they learned the two boys were in a parochial school.

Ashcraft sought damages on the grounds the prosecution was willfully instigated without probable cause.

Judge Orits R. Hess noted the testimony in Ashcraft's deposition showed he was guilty of the charge. He added the reason Ashcraft gave for keeping his sons out of school had no legal basis.

The other school official named in the suit was Supt. Wendell H. Pierce.

None Hurt As Bomb Tears Front Of Car

CLEVELAND (AP) — A dynamite bomb tore apart the front of a car parked in the driveway of a construction company foreman early today, police reported.

No one was hurt as the car hood was ripped off by the explosion at the South Euclid residence.

Joseph D'Angelo, 37, owner of the car, could give police no reason for the blast. He is a foreman for the Allison Construction Co. in South Euclid.

D'Angelo told police a bomb had ripped off the porch of his home two years ago when he lived in Cleveland Heights.

Police theorized the latest bomb had been placed on the car's front bumper.

Irate Husband Ruins His Ex-Wife's Car

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Angry at his former wife, Thurman Adkins, 26, took it out on her automobile, according to the case stated to the grand jury before it indicted him for malicious destruction of property.

The prosecution says Adkins jumped on the car's hood, kicked out the windshield, broke other windows, poured sugar in the gasoline tank and sand in the radiator.

Junior Editors Quiz on BATS

QUESTION: Are bats really blind?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: No, but their eyes are small. They can see fairly well, but they seem to prefer listening to looking. Their hearing is extremely delicate. Bats can hear sounds way out of human hearing range. They fly around at night, constantly making high-pitched sounds. They can tell when these sounds are bouncing off an object and when the sounds are going straight on into space. If they hear their sounds bouncing off something they know not to fly straight ahead, but instead to fly around the obstruction. Bats are mammals. They range from ½ to 12 inches long and some have a wing spread as wide as 5 feet. We are more familiar with dark brown bats, but there are also white ones and bright orange-red ones. Most bats eat fruits or insects. Some eat other bats and small animals, but these are few. Bats usually sleep during the day, hanging down in groups. They prefer warm weather to cold and they hibernate in the winter.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Perhaps because of their odd appearance and their preference for flying at night, bats have been connected with witchcraft. What other animals can you think of that seem in place or Halloween?

★ ★ ★

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: What can I do about my husband? He is a collector. He doesn't collect things of value, you understand. That would make too much sense. He collects only junk.

Wendell still has the suit he was married in (25 years ago). Of course he can't button it but he says the style might come back and then maybe he'll go on a diet.

Our basement is a nightmare. I cry whenever I have to go down there to do the washing. He has magazines stacked up from 1935, also books he had when he was in Sunday school. And then there is the furniture from his mother's old house.

Two years ago I couldn't stand the way he had cluttered up our clothes closets. I gave him 10 days' warning and then threw out a lot of trash, including his Eagle Scout uniform. He was so mad he wouldn't speak to me for a week. What's the answer? —COLLECTOR'S WIFE.

Dear Wife: Life with a pack rat isn't easy.

Try this: String up a monk's cloth curtain across part of the basement and call it his warehouse.

Resolve never to look behind it. Let him pile up anything and everything behind that curtain but make it plain that he's got to fit in all the junk.

More About Rings

Dear Ann Landers: I am writing in regard to the pregnant woman who was embarrassed because she had to go to the doctor's office for checkups without a wedding ring. It seems she had lost her wedding ring and her husband was mad at her for being careless and wouldn't buy her another one.

I read that column in the doctor's waiting room. I was there for a checkup, too. My baby is due next month. I am not wearing a wedding ring either. My hands swelled up three months ago. I looked around and there were four other women also obviously expecting. Two of them were not wearing rings.

I turned to the ringless woman next to me and asked when she stopped wearing her rings. She replied, "I had to have mine cut off in the fourth month. My fingers ballooned up almost overnight."

Thought you'd like to know. — PUFFY BUT HAPPY.

Dear Happy: Thanks for writing. And thanks, too, all you warm-hearted readers who sent wedding rings with instructions to forward them to the ringless mother-to-be.

You are terribly kind but sorry, no can do. One of you gave me no return address. May I have it so I can send back the lovely ring?

Thrives On Noise

Dear Ann: I'm 15 and need help. My mother thinks you are the living end. If you back me up, my worries are over.

I like to study with the radio or TV on full blast. My mother says nobody can concentrate with all that noise. It so happens that I can't concentrate without it. I've tried studying in the quiet and the silence gets on my nerves. I actually need a background of racket before I can think.

Please tell her that such a thing is possible. She won't believe me. —NOISE LOVER.

Dear Lover: People who concentrate best when surrounded by a lot of racket have trained themselves to do this. Noise is not a natural companion of medication and reflection.

This is not a particularly good study habit and you'd be wise to kick it. One of these days you may have to concentrate in a quiet classroom — or in an office. Then what? (Sorry if I crossed you up, Pal, but I had to level with you.)

BLIND BARTIMAEUS

"... And as he went out of Jericho with his disciples and a great number of people, blind Bartimaeus, the son of Timaeus, sat by the highway side begging."

—Mark X:46

As it is to this day in the Holy Land, blindness was a common affliction in the time of Jesus.

It is easy to imagine the unpleasant appearance of Bartimaeus, the blind beggar of Jericho—the sightless, staring eyes, encrusted with dried secretion and infested with flies.

Probably the disciples turned away from him in disgust. But Jesus perceived the strong light of faith that shone through his inner darkness, and led him, through his feelings, to know that he was in the presence of the Master.

It is evident that Bartimaeus did so recognize Jesus, for he addressed Him by his Messianic title:

"Jesus, thou Son of David, have mercy on me."

Mark tells in his gospel that "many charged him that he should hold his peace." But blind Bartimaeus, groping towards the Radiance that suddenly shone in the heaven of his personal night, would not be suppressed. He cried out louder than ever.

"And Jesus stood still, and commanded him to be called. And they call the blind man, saying unto him, Be of good comfort, rise; he calleth thee.

"And he, casting away his garment, rose, and came to Jesus.

"And Jesus answered and said unto him, What wilt thou that I should do unto thee? The blind man said unto him, Lord, that I might receive my sight.

"And Jesus said unto him, Go thy way; thy faith hath made thee whole. And immediately he received his sight, and followed Jesus in the way."

In our day, it is by such faith as that of this blind beggar of Jericho that we receive our spiritual sight, and can follow Him "in the way."

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Spring Fashions Call For Slim Waist

The tiny waist is in again. Everybody is doing the spring thing —waist whittlers. Daily stretch-bends tone and tighten the side muscles of the trunk which form the waist. If you are more out of shape than you are overweight, exercise is the remedy.

Ida Jean Kain

The place to begin exercise is invariably smack in the middle. It's easy to understand the middle spread — fat tends to infiltrate the least-used muscles. Also, the midsection depends solely on muscle tone for support since there is no bony framework from ribs to pelvic girdle.

For a slim-waisted look the abdominal muscles need exercise too. The obliques which are a part of the abdominal group span out bias-wise and wrap criss - cross fashion at either side of the midriff. It's when these diagnoal abdominals get flabby that the waist slips its moorings.

EASE INTO exercise with this bias stretch.

Position: Lying on back on floor on mat — stretched out to full extension. Have right arm stretched back on floor beyond head, and both legs straight down.

The second streamliner combines a stretch with a side bend.

Position: Sit on a straight chair, half way out on the seat. Sit "tall" with no wrinkles at the waistline. Arch arms overhead, with fingertips touching.

Movement: Very slowly stretch upward along the left side of the trunk, then follow through with a bend toward the right side. Keep this movement smooth and flowing. As you stretch and bend, get the feeling of pulling the ribs up away from the waist to elongate that span between waist and ribs. Repeat this stretch-bend movement 4 to 6 times, alternating sides.

—:—

YOUNG WOMEN inquire if exercise can be continued through the menstrual period. Yes, increased circulation during this period is particularly helpful. Jumping and jarring movements should be avoided for the first few days.

Exercise is wonderfully rewarding. A cinched-in waist will put dash in any spring wardrobe—old or new.

Junior Editors Quiz on BATS

QUESTION: Are bats really blind?

★ ★ ★

ANSWER: No, but their eyes are small. They can see fairly well, but they seem to prefer listening to looking. Their hearing is extremely delicate. Bats can hear sounds way out of human hearing range. They fly around at night, constantly making high-pitched sounds. They can tell when these sounds are bouncing off an object and when the sounds are going straight on into space. If they hear their sounds bouncing off something they know not to fly straight ahead, but instead to fly around the obstruction. Bats are mammals. They range from ½ to 12 inches long and some have a wing spread as wide as 5 feet. We are more familiar with dark brown bats, but there are also white ones and bright orange-red ones. Most bats eat fruits or insects. Some eat other bats and small animals, but these are few. Bats usually sleep during the day, hanging down in groups. They prefer warm weather to cold and they hibernate in the winter.

★ ★ ★

FOR YOU TO DO: Perhaps because of their odd appearance and their preference for flying at night, bats have been connected with witchcraft. What other animals can you think of that seem in place or Halloween?

★ ★ ★

David Berry of Fort Plain, N. Y., wins $10 for this question. Send your question on a postcard to Junior Editors in care of The Review.

It is evident that Bartimaeus did so recognize Jesus, for he addressed Him by his Messianic title:

"Jesus, thou Son of David, have mercy on me."

Mark tells in his gospel that "many charged him that he should hold his peace." But blind Bartimaeus, groping towards the Radiance that suddenly shone in the heaven of his personal night, would not be suppressed. He cried out louder than ever.

"And Jesus stood still, and commanded him to be called. And they call the blind man, saying unto him, Be of good comfort, rise; he calleth thee.

"And he, casting away his garment, rose, and came to Jesus.

"And Jesus answered and said unto him, What wilt thou that I should do unto thee? The blind man said unto him, Lord, that I might receive my sight.

"And Jesus said unto him, Go thy way; thy faith hath made thee whole. And immediately he received his sight, and followed Jesus in the way."

In our day, it is by such faith as that of this blind beggar of Jericho that we receive our spiritual sight, and can follow Him "in the way."

Spring Fashions Call For Slim Waist

The tiny waist is in again. Everybody is doing the spring thing —waist whittlers. Daily stretch-bends tone and tighten the side muscles of the trunk which form the waist. If you are more out of shape than you are overweight, exercise is the remedy.

Ida Jean Kain

The place to begin exercise is invariably smack in the middle. It's easy to understand the middle spread — fat tends to infiltrate the least-used muscles. Also, the midsection depends solely on muscle tone for support since there is no bony framework from ribs to pelvic girdle.

For a slim-waisted look the abdominal muscles need exercise too. The obliques which are a part of the abdominal group span out bias-wise and wrap criss - cross fashion at either side of the midriff. It's when these diagnoal abdominals get flabby that the waist slips its moorings.

EASE INTO exercise with this bias stretch.

Position: Lying on back on floor on mat — stretched out to full extension. Have right arm stretched back on floor beyond head, and both legs straight down.

The second streamliner combines a stretch with a side bend.

Position: Sit on a straight chair, half way out on the seat. Sit "tall" with no wrinkles at the waistline. Arch arms overhead, with fingertips touching.

Movement: Very slowly stretch upward along the left side of the trunk, then follow through with a bend toward the right side. Keep this movement smooth and flowing. As you stretch and bend, get the feeling of pulling the ribs up away from the waist to elongate that span between waist and ribs. Repeat this stretch-bend movement 4 to 6 times, alternating sides.

YOUNG WOMEN inquire if exercise can be continued through the menstrual period. Yes, increased circulation during this period is particularly helpful. Jumping and jarring movements should be avoided for the first few days.

Exercise is wonderfully rewarding. A cinched-in waist will put dash in any spring wardrobe—old or new.
